The railway junctions between Wilka, east of Vilna and Lida were liberally bombarded by our airplanes.

"Army group of Prince Leopold, of Bavaria. Battles between Wilkowsky and along the Kobryn-Stolowka high roads continue, with their previous fierceness. Crossings near the Malmuanka have been won at a few points.

"Austro-Hungarian troops have captured the village of Alba, west of Kosow. Fighting for possession of the railway station of Kosow still continues.

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen. The situation with this army group is generally unchanged.

"Southeastern theater of war: Austro-Hungarian and German troops in the army of General Count von Bormann repulsed fierce counter attacks by the enemy inflicting heavy losses on him. Our troops took more than 200 prisoners."

Russians Claim Repulse of Turks With Heavy Loss
(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, Sept. 11.—Via London, Sept. 12.—A Russian official statement on the Caucasus campaign says:

"The Turks in the coast region on Thursday made several attempts to cross the River Arkhara, but were repulsed on each occasion.

"Great Turkish forces at dawn, under cover of a fog, attacked Mahardag mountain, but were repulsed with great loss.

"In the direction of Oltu, the Turks all day bombarded our positions near Mount Farsker. South of Belaguer, our cavalry drove Turkish cavalry from the village of Dabul.

"There is no change on the rest of More Than 1,500 Shells Thrown Into Ranscapelle."

(By Associated Press.)

HAVRE, France, Sept. 11.—The following Belgian official statement was given out here today:

"Artillery fire continued through the night and morning, especially in the vicinity of Steenstraete and Ranscapelle, the latter receiving more than 1,500 projectiles, which did no damage. Throughout the day there was intermittent firing along the whole front. During the afternoon we shelled the enemy successfully. No infantry action occurred."

Small Successes Claimed
For the Armies of Italy
(By Associated Press.)

ROME, (Via Paris, Sept. 11).—The following official statement was given tonight at Italian general headquarters:

"Small successes have been gained by detachments of our troops while reconnoitering in the Redi Castellana and in the valleys of Camonica, upper Tirano and Ledro.

"Enemy groups, having during the night crept up to the wire entanglements before our positions on Monte Marone on the plateau northwest of Arterio with the evident design of destroying them, were discovered and driven off by our fire.

"Other enemy forces tried to set fire to the wood on the western ridge of Montepiano (valley of Riese) but were repulsed.

"Engagements favorable to us have occurred at Passo Della Scudiera, near Seston and Valley of Vindeno and at Piano.

"In the Tolmino section one of our detachments succeeded by main force in capturing part of the enemy's entrenchments on the Santa Maria Heights, but being subjected to an intense artillery fire, bombs containing asphyxiating gas, and flame from projectors was obliged to fall back to the trenching."

French Beat Off Attack by Germans in the West

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 11.—Last night saw uninterrupted artillery fighting at several points along the line in France, according to the communication given out by the French war office today.

"There has been particularly violent artillery engagement in the department of the Meuse and along the front in Lorraine.

"The text of the communication follows:

"There was uninterrupted artillery fighting last night in the sectors of Neuville and Rochcourt, as well as to the south of Arras.

"Between the Somme and the Oise the encounters with mines continue actively. In the suburbs of Paves artillery has bombarded the trenches and the works of the enemy.

"The Argonne district at St. Hubert and at Courtes Chaussees there have been engagements with bombs and hand grenades.

"There were particularly violent encounters to the east of the Eparges in the department of Meuse, as well as on the Lorraine front; to the north of Arras, in the forest of Parroy and to the south of Leintrey, all in the department of Meurthe and Moselle."

Russian Flanks Still Hold Against Teutons
(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The Russian advance in the center continues slowly. Von Hindenburg's forces operating east of Grodno have captured Skidel. Further north there has been a hard battle near Vilkomir, and another southeast of Friedland, where the struggle for the Riga-Dvinsk line is being waged. Neither the Germans nor the Russians claim decisive result in these engagements.

"Teutonic forces are fighting for Kosow, south of Rionin, and the Austrians have taken Alba, west of Kosow. Little activity is reported further southwest, where Von Mackensen's armies are operating, but in the Galician district the Russians are continuing their aggressive, and the Austrians admit some Russian advances south of Tarnopol from the line of the Sereth to the heights east of the Stripa. The two rivers are approximately fifteen miles apart.

"On the western front, after the recent heavy infantry fighting in the Argonne and the Vosges, artillery warfare has been resumed. The only mention of infantry operations contained in latest official statements is Berlin's claim that the trenches on Hartmannswillerkopf, captured September 7, are still in our hands."

REMAIN IN ATLANTA

LINDSEY HOPKINS.

President of Atlanta Cadillac Company Declares That This City Is Good Enough for Him,
So He Will Stay Right Here

Lindsey Hopkins, president of the Cadillac organization of this city, has just returned from New York, where he has spent a considerable part of the summer, working in conjunction with the Dukes, the tobacco people of New York, and Thomas Dixon, the author, in the organization of the National Drama Corporation, which will exploit, through the medium of the Photo-Drama, the works of Thomas Dixon. The products of this organization, as predicted by Mr. Hopkins, will be a revelation in the motion picture world.

Mr. Hopkins states that the rumor that he expected to edit in New York, or San Francisco, is entirely false; that he has been retained despite two French attacks.

"The French are considering recruiting in their colonies in China and equatorial Africa.

"Such a step, if taken, would add several hundred thousand men to the forces in the field by next spring. It is estimated.

"Because of a further concentration of beligerent troops near the Swiss boundaries," the Swiss government, according to Basel advices, is considering calling out additional troops for safeguarding "the narrows of the frontier."

"The northwestern frontier of Switzerland runs from the southwestern tip of the German border along the French boundary.

"White Star line officials in Liverpool have issued a statement retaining the steamer Arabia made no attempt to ram the German submarine that sank her, declaring a change of course such as frequently is necessary in the channel could not possibly have been taken by the Germans as indicating an intention to attack the Arabia.

"The only move made by the vessel's officers being to put the helm hard over immediately upon seeing the torpedo coming.

Bulgaria Says She May Join the Central Powers

COLOGNE, Germany, Via London, Sept. 11.—According to the Cologne Gazette, Bulgaria is sending an official pamphlet to all local papers, explaining that she may for economic and political reasons be compelled to abandon the Entente and range itself with the central powers.

FORD'S DEATH RESULT
OF HIS WIDOW

nounced it for this morning at 9 o'clock.

"Mrs. Ford was told Saturday night of Mr. Wiley's statements to the coroner. "I don't understand his attitude," she says—"what can he mean? What is he trying to do?"

"I tried to spare Al's mother—that is the reason that I said he was feeling alright when he telephoned—and now Mr. Wiley would make it a suspicious circumstance.

"Before Al was moved to the hospital—when all of us thought he would recover, he asked me if I had telephoned to him.

"I told him that I had not—I just couldn't tell her that he was hurt over the telephone and I told him that I would go over to her house. And Al said it was right, and for me to break the news as gently as possible and that was what I was trying to do."

"It is so anxious about his health. I was afraid to tell her over the phone—Oh, you can't understand how it hurt me to tell her that he was better when just then they were taking him to the hospital."

"It had been reported that one of the witnesses subpoenaed to testify before the coroner would say that Mr. Ford told her he was feeling alright before the tragedy. Why I don't believe that in all of our married life I have ever testily said anything like that," Mrs. Ford told a reporter.

"Mrs. Ford very flatly denied the intimation that she had made contradictory statements—"I have told the truth every time I have been questioned," she said—"there is nothing else to do—nothing else that I would tell."

"WAS HE DESPONDENT."

"Mrs. Ford's attention was called to the report that several of the witnesses would testify that Ford had been despondent recently.

"As to that," she answered, "I can only say that for the last month he had been unusually quiet—he wouldn't care to go out at night. Usually when my little boy, Edward, is away we go out quite frequently, but this time Al didn't want to leave the house, so we stayed here."

"Mrs. Ford said in answer to questions that she didn't know whether or not Mr. Ford left a will.

"Mr. Wiley stated to the coroner that Ford's estate, left him recently by his grandfather, amounted to about $40,000 and was encumbered.

"Mrs. Ford said that she had made absolutely no investigation about the size of his estate or its disposition.

"Mr. Ford, who was a well known and well liked advertising man, was shot last Wednesday morning at his home, 25 Bonaventure avenue. He died last night at Grady hospital, where he had hovered between life and death since the shooting."

I am a Farmer in Perfect Health

Three Years Ago I Was Sick Doctors Failed Peruna Cured Me.

Mr. W. J. Temple, No. 200 W. Lincoln Ave., Delaware, Ohio writes: "I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble. One doctor called it indigestion, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily. Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man. Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market. I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

Another Farmer Writes.

Mr. J. C. Crumacker, Hoover, Ind. writes: "I can say that I have nothing to complain of now. I feel well, sleep well at night, have a good appetite, and can do some kind of work anywhere, and can do some kind of work anywhere. I have no aches or pains anywhere, and I feel as if I could stand much fatigue as I ever could, and feel good over it. The hemorrhoids have yielded to Peruna, the grip has gone the same, as well as pains and aches of all kinds. The roofing case has entirely left my ears and head, my mind is clear, my recollection is good, my bowels are regular, and I just simply feel easy all over. The cure of my case was surely a victory."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna in tablet form.

Diabetes Try Stuart's Buchu and Juniper.

The following are the symptoms: Urine becomes cloudy, an unusual flow of urine, scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage from the bladder—head and back aches—ankles or eyelids are swollen or puffiness—spots before the eyes, leg cramps, shortness of breath, sleeplessness and despondency, dizzy spells, dropsy, diabetes. Don't say you are well if you feel any of these symptoms. Take a course of Stuart's Buchu and Juniper. It will get you back to normal after meals and on retiring. In a day or so your kidneys and bladder will act fine and natural. Stuart's Buchu mixed with Juniper has been used for years to cleanse the impurities from the kidneys and bladder, also to neutralize the uric acid and sugar in the blood and urine. It is a fine kidney regulator and strengthener. These organs. Cures Diabetes or Dropsy.—(Adv.)

I am a Farmer in Perfect Health

Three Years Ago I Was Sick Doctors Failed Peruna Cured Me.

Mr. W. J. Temple, No. 200 W. Lincoln Ave., Delaware, Ohio writes: "I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble. One doctor called it indigestion, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily. Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man. Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market. I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

Another Farmer Writes.

Mr. J. C. Crumacker, Hoover, Ind. writes: "I can say that I have nothing to complain of now. I feel well, sleep well at night, have a good appetite, and can do some kind of work anywhere, and can do some kind of work anywhere. I have no aches or pains anywhere, and I feel as if I could stand much fatigue as I ever could, and feel good over it. The hemorrhoids have yielded to Peruna, the grip has gone the same, as well as pains and aches of all kinds. The roofing case has entirely left my ears and head, my mind is clear, my recollection is good, my bowels are regular, and I just simply feel easy all over. The cure of my case was surely a victory."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna in tablet form.

CITIZENS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER HARVEST FESTIVAL
Business Men Declare Time Is Opportunity for Great Celebration

A canvass was begun on Saturday by the Georgia Festival Association, seeking to ascertain the attitude of the men of Atlanta, in regard to the Harvest Festival, and the officers are greatly pleased to find that the sentiment among individuals of Atlanta in favor of the festival, is just about as unanimous as it is among the various commercial and women's organizations. Following are some of the expressions of Atlanta's leading business men on the subject:

ASA G. CANILLER—Capitalist.
"I think the Harvest Festival will be a very good thing, and from what I know of it through the papers, it seems to be getting along beautifully, and it looks at the present time that it will be a tremendous success. The undertaking is my endorsement."

R. M. GRANT—B. M. Grant and Company.
"I think the Harvest Festival will be a very big thing for Atlanta, in many ways, especially as a nerve tonic and a vacation for those Atlantians who were compelled to stay at home this year, and very optimistic about its conditions generally. Everything looks good, and I am sure the festival will be a great success."

AD-MEN FOR IT
JULIAN V. BOEHM—President Ad-Men's Club.
"I believe the festival is going to be the biggest spirit-lifting thing that Atlanta has ever pulled off, and I expect to devote the next three months doing the best work I know how in the interest of the festival. The society has been to the detriment of my own personal affairs."

HENRY JOHNSON, SR.—(President Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose Company).
"Of course I am in favor of the festival. If I had not been I would not have gone into it as I have. I may not be able to work as some of the younger men, but I am willing to do anything in my power to assist in its success. I believe it will be an unusually good thing for Atlanta."

HOLLING JONES, Postmaster.
"I think all the people of Atlanta are as enthusiastic as I am, and that it will be a splendid thing, and do a great deal of good in many ways. I am on the board of directors of the Atlanta freight bureau, and that body has the harvest festival up before them, and we want to do all that we can to help."

C. W. McCLURE, President McClure Ten Cent Company.
"I think this is the physiological thing for putting on a tremendous affair of this kind, not only to boost Atlanta, but state at large, thereby bringing about a good feeling of fellowship. The people all over the state are in a mood for a festival, or a jubilee of some kind, and now is the time to strike while people are in that mood."

THE TIME IS RIPE
JOHN L. MOORE, President John L. Moore & Sons.
"I think there never was a better time than at present to hold the Harvest Festival. The people of Atlanta have always given their time and attention to public-spirited affairs, as well as their money liberally, and the opportunity at the present time to put on an affair of this kind is very favorable. It has, and will continue to have, my hearty support and co-operation."

DR. W. J. BLAIZACK, President Fulton National Bank.
"I think the time very opportune to hold the Harvest Festival. The people all over the state like to come to Atlanta, and I am sure the festival of the festival may be written in advance. I am very much in favor of the Harvest Festival this fall."

JUDGE JOHN S. Candler.
"I think it very much needed at this time, and that it will do a special good not only in Atlanta, but for the whole state. I wish the venture the greatest success possible."

WALTER RICH, M. Rich Bros. Co.
"I will do everything I can to assist in making the Harvest Festival a great undertaking and the most creditable event."

HARRY T. MOORE, Secretary Atlanta Association of Credit Men, promises not only his own support but the "enthusiastic support of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men."

MRS. NITA KEOWN SUES
HER HUSBAND FOR DIVORCE
A suit for divorce was filed yesterday in the Fulton superior court by Mrs. Nita Keown against Oscar D. Keown, who she married in 1911. She alleges that Keown has been cruel in his treatment of her; that when he was not drunk he appeared insanely jealous of her; that he has failed to provide for her support and the support of their two children; that he has excluded this failure to provide by telling her that he could not do so because it took most of his money for his other women friends.

MRS. HEMBREE WINS
SUIT FOR HOME PLACE
The jury in the case of A. I. Hembree versus Mrs. Hembree, involving the Hembree home place in College Park, yesterday afternoon returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Hembree. The case was tried in the first division of the Fulton superior court, Judge Pendleton presiding.

The Hembrees are living in a state of separation, and divorce proceedings are pending in the courts. Hembree claims a half interest in the College Park residence, but the jury held against him.

J. B. HENRY DIES
SUDDENLY IN OFFICE
J. B. Henry, an elderly man, employed as a clerk in the offices of the Southern railway, dropped dead suddenly Saturday afternoon in his office. He only known relative is an aunt, Mrs. M. E. Denison. The body was removed to Patterson's chapel and will be carried to Savannah, Ga., Sunday morning for the funeral and interment. Mr. Henry had been in the employ of the Southern railway for 32 years.

Recall Endorsed
Resolutions endorsing the recall movement were adopted unanimously Friday at the regular monthly meeting of the Piedmont chapter of the Woman's Temperance union. They were signed by Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, Mrs. Walter W. Tennyson, Mrs. M. E. Hughes, Mrs. W. F. Tennyson, Mrs. E. G. Thomas, Mrs. Henry S. Harper and Mrs. Wilbur Mann, members of the executive board. The resolutions follow:

Diamond Specialist Renews
His Association With Well-Known Jewelers

After several years of diamond specializing, John W. Murrell is again associated with Maier & Berkele, Inc. jewelers.

Mr. Murrell and family have just returned from an extensive trip which included a short stay at their old home in Mobile and a boat trip to New York. While in New York, Mr. Murrell attended the convention of the National Association of Retail Jewelers.

Mr. Murrell started in the jewelry business in Mobile in 1890. In 1899, he moved to Atlanta to accept a position with Maier & Berkele. He remained with this firm until the latter part of 1908.

John Murrell—as he is known by a world of friends—has always been an active and prominent worker in military and fraternal organizations. He was at one time a member of the National Union of Deaf-Mutes, one of the charter members of the old Atlanta City Guards, having served as Adjutant in this famous company.

He is a captain and colonel, having served for years past on the governor's staff. Governor Harris has appointed him a member of his staff.

Captain—or Colonel—Murrell is equally as prominent in the clubs and fraternal world.

BOY IS INJURED WHEN HIT BY SKIDDING AUTO

Sol Kreiberg, seven years old, of 15 Love street, was struck and painfully injured by an automobile driven by W. E. Barr, of Rex, Ga., a farmer, Saturday evening on Capitol avenue, near Love street.

Following the accident, Barr was arrested by Patrolman Scott and charged with reckless driving. The policemen say that the automobile skidded more than forty feet as shown by the tire marks on the pavement.

The lad was carried to Grady hospital and was later removed to his home.

YOUNG MAN PAYS AT LAST FOR GIRL'S TAXICAB RIDE

Miss Mitchell Keeps Promise to Point Out Recalcitrant Host to Police

"I've forgotten his name, but I'll point him out to the police the next time I see him."

That's what Miss Maggie Mitchell told Recorder Johnson last Tuesday, and she made good her promise. The man whose name Miss Maggie Mitchell forgot took her out taxicab riding Monday night after an introduction at the skating rink. Out on Moreland avenue the man left the car, saying: "I'll be back in a minute." When he didn't come back at the end of the minute or thereabout, the driver had Miss Mitchell arrested because she wouldn't pay him. The recorder dismissed the case against her when she promised to point out the man.

All this by way of preliminary. The real climax came Saturday afternoon at Five Points. Miss Maggie Mitchell saw the man. Did she pause? She did not. With one fell swoop Miss Maggie Mitchell was upon Patrolman Scott.

"Send him down!"

Patrolman Scott got a firm grasp on the man, and he was taken to the station. He was striving to edge away in the crowd, and healed him over to a taxicab stand. As soon as the man was out of the man, he, too, shouted:

"There he is! Send him down!"

"Aw, don't send me down," said the young man. "I'll pay you what I owe you. Anyway, it's you did me a dirty trick. When I left the machine, I meant to come back, but I was undoubtedly deceived when I did get back, you and the machine were gone and I had to walk all the way to town."

The taxi driver was willing to let the matter drop when the young man pulled out his bank roll, and Patrolman Scott really didn't see why he should be arrested for his pitiful explanation. So they let the young man go.

"OO-y! My Corn-n!"
H-m, Use "Gets-It"

Then You'll Have No Corns to Bump! Your Corns Will Come "Clean Off," Quick!

Did you ever see a corn pop off after you've used "Gets-It"? And you hardly do a thing to it.

"Sure Corn Bumped Against Use 'Gets-It' Vanish!"

Put a little "Gets-It" on it, it dries at once. The scabbing is lifted off, and the corn is gone. No pain, no fuss, no more corns. "Gets-It" never burns the skin, and it makes the corns go away. You will be much more surprised to see how quickly and easily your corns disappear when you use "Gets-It" than you can expect. Try "Gets-It" tonight on your corn, callus, wart or bunion, and you'll be glad you read this.

"Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, shoe stores, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.—(Adv.)

DRIVER UNDER ARREST

W. E. Barr, of Rex, Ga., Held Pending Outcome of Condition of Sol Kreiberg

W. E. Barr, a farmer of Rex, Ga., is held by the police without bond pending the condition of seven-year-old Sol Kreiberg, of 15 Love street, whom Barr hit in his automobile ran down on Capitol avenue Saturday afternoon.

The boy is in Grady hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of his left arm, injury to his face, and body bruises. His condition, however, is not considered critical.

The accident occurred near Love street, and the police report that Barr's car skidded forty feet after it struck the boy. The latter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kreiberg.

Of all overworked women probably the farmer's wife is the hardest worked. She has so much to attend to, with very little help. Her work can be lightened if she knows the value of system and she should try and take a short rest in the daytime. A physician who became famous almost around the world, Doctor Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the specialist on women's diseases, for many years practiced medicine in a farming district in Pennsylvania. He there observed the lack of system in the planning of the work.

If it is a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back. A woman naturally says, but all the time she real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation should be treated steadily and systematically with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

For all diseases peculiar to woman, "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful restorative. During the last fifty years it has banished from the lives of tens of thousands of women the pain, worry, misery and distress caused by irregularities and diseases of a feminine character.

If you are a sufferer, if your daughter, mother, sister, need help, get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a light and pleasant tablet form for any medicine dealer to take. Then address Dr. Pierce, in valid! How can you get it? Get it confidential medical advice entirely free. You can also obtain a book on woman's diseases, free.—(Adv.)

STOP CALOMEL LIVER TONE

New Discovery! Takes Place of Dangerous Calomel—It Puts Your Liver To Work Without Making You Sick—Eat Anything—It Can Not Salivate—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel, and I want every reader of this paper to try a bottle and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, dizziness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work. I want to see a bottle of this wonderful liver medicine in every home in the South.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it cannot salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Get a bottle! Try it! If it doesn't do exactly what I say, tell your dealer to hand you money back. Every druggist and storekeeper in the South knows me and knows of my wonderful discovery of a medicine that takes the place of dangerous calomel.

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR BUILDERS' CONVENTION

Building Owners and Managers Will Meet Here September 14-17

All plans have virtually been completed for the convention of the National association of Building Owners and Managers, which will be held here September 14-17 at the Piedmont hotel.

C. A. Patterson, of Chicago, editor of "Builders and Building Management," whose issue this month was devoted to boosting Atlanta, is the convention manager. He arrived Thursday night, and is enthusiastic over Atlanta and the convention prospects.

The convention delegates represent more wealth than those of any other organization, except the American bankers. Mr. Patterson is authority for the statement that they represent property worth $5,000,000,000.

Local building people and real estate men will receive a lot of information from the speeches at the convention. These papers will be read by men who handle some of the largest business properties and apartment houses in the United States. There will be open discussions and a question box.

Preston S. Arkwright will welcome the delegates to Atlanta, and Governor Harris will welcome them to the state. J. E. Randall, president of the association, will respond. Asa G. Chandler will speak on "The Property Owner."

The local association has issued a pamphlet giving a guide to places to see around Atlanta, with a list of hotels and theaters.

The delegates couldn't come to Atlanta at a better time. The worst of the warm weather will have ended by then. The visitors, besides their convention business, will get a lot of local entertainment.

VISIT STONE MOUNTAIN.
Thursday afternoon of the convention period there will be an old time Georgia barbecue at Stone Mountain, which is itself very attractive to the delegates. They will be shown the extensive quarries there. The party will leave in a special train from the union depot at noon. There will be dancing and a generally good time.

Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock, the delegates, as guests of the local association, will attend a theater party at the Forsyth theater. Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the delegates will go on an automobile seeing Atlanta tour.

LOW RATES GRANTED FOR BOLL WEEVIL MEETING

Big Attendance on Conference at Thomasville Next Friday Is Expected

Exceptionally low rates have been arranged by the railroads of Georgia for those who wish to attend the boll weevil conference in Thomasville on Friday next.

It is anticipated this will be one of the largest agricultural meetings ever held in the state. The really important feature at this time is to stress upon cotton producers the absolute necessity for cleaning up all cotton fields by October 1. Every cotton stalk must be pulled up and burned or else effectively plowed under, in order to remove all opportunity for breeding.

Among the well known experts who will attend the meeting is Dr. W. J. Pierce, first assistant to Dr. W. D. Hunter, of the United States bureau of entomology, who has devoted special attention to boll weevil work. It is said that much of Georgia's success in cotton growing next year may depend upon this meeting and the action of the farmers in following out the principles which will there be laid down.

The boll weevil appeared in Georgia between August 23 and August 31, and females began to deposit eggs on squares and young bolls. Under present weather conditions the life cycle is complete within twelve to seventeen days. This means that adult weevils will appear within a few days to attack other squares and bolls and to move further eastward.

It is difficult to estimate how much territory will be covered before frost. The day after that can be done except on late cotton, is to the top crop which is small and almost negligible this year.

There is no one remedy for the weevil that works successfully. The very best plan known is for the farmers to pick their cotton as early as possible, and then destroy the stalks either by burning or deep plowing, thus destroying also the weevils while they are still at work on the squares and bolls, and before they have a chance to leave the cotton fields.

Instruction Given Crippled Soldiers

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Sept. 11.—An announcement was made today that special schools were being founded by the ministries of the interior, commerce and agriculture for the purpose of instructing crippled soldiers so as to make them self-supporting.

Two new and interesting features of the university are to be inaugurated at Oxford this session. First is the academy which will prepare students for the school of liberal arts—Emory college.

MUST PUT UP MARGINS TO PROTECT COTTON PRICE

Otherwise Cotton Factors Are Not Liable for Damages

Cotton factors are not liable for damages to their customers when they sell cotton consigned to them for sale at a lower price than their customers instructed if the sale was made after the cotton producers the absolute necessity for cleaning up all cotton fields by October 1. Every cotton stalk must be pulled up and burned or else effectively plowed under, in order to remove all opportunity for breeding.

Such in effect is the ruling of the state court of appeals in reversing the city court of Savannah in the case of Leffler & Co. vs. Pearson & Son. The headline of the appellate court's decision, which makes the ruling clear, follows:

"Where cotton factors sold customers for advances made on cotton consigned to them for sale, the customers could not set off damages because of a sale of the cotton for a lower price than they had instructed it sold for, where, in accordance with general custom and usage of the trade at the place of sale, the cotton was sold after the customers had failed to comply with repeated notices from the factors to deposit with them more margins, and where, in the opinion of the factors, the cotton was sold at a sufficient security for the balance due them."

SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS OF EMORY OPENS SEPT. 15

Pre-Medical Course Among New Features to Be Introduced at Oxford

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Ga., Sept. 11.—The seventy-ninth session of Emory college, the school of liberal arts of Emory university, will begin Wednesday morning, September 15, at 10 o'clock.

The opening exercises will be held in Allen Memorial church, and will consist of addresses by Chancellor Warren A. Chandler, Dean W. S. Elkin, of the school of medicine, and President James L. Dickson.

The indications are that the attendance will be considerably larger than in recent previous years, and the students will come from a wider range of territory.

ATLANTA MAN HONORED BY SURETY CONFERENCE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 11.—The Southern Surety and Casualty conference today elected the following officers: President, Charles E. Clarke, of Jacksonville; vice president, P. M. Estes, of Nashville; secretary and treasurer, A. H. Kohn, of Columbia; members of the executive committee, C. P. Orr, of Birmingham, chairman; H. D. Hunter, of Chattanooga; A. M. Mayes, of Durham; R. BIG BARGAINS MONDAY

Ed Matthews & Co., 23 East Alabama Street

Are Making Some Big Offers

The Ed Matthews people believe in giving the people something to talk about and the index will be found in their display ads in today's Atlanta Journal. They have secured some of the last importations from Austria which were shipped just before the great European war opened, and it is supposed to be almost one of the last importations from Austria. They are tomorrow making a "special bargain" sale of this splendid chinaware and those who miss the sale will miss a great bargain. At the same time don't overlook those extraordinary library tables that they are offering at a tremendously low price for Monday only. The Ed Matthews people are excursion agents for the celebrated Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet, and have sold over one thousand in Atlanta since they became agents—pretty good record, eh? Don't miss the Monday offer.—(Advt.)

Quality Comes First Then Comfort And Price

Quality is the most important thing about dental work. You must have work that will last; poor work is expensive no matter what you pay for it.

We are prepared to give you work of the highest quality. We have spent $10,-000 fitting up the finest dental offices in the South. Most of that money has gone into high-class, modern equipment.

The best dental work today requires not only modern equipment but expert operators. We employ only the best graduate dentists. We use none but the highest class materials.

Besides, Dr. E. G. Griffin is always personally in charge of this office, exercising constant supervision over the work done.

We spare no pains to give comfort to our patients. We practice painless dentistry in fact. Our methods of treatment remove all fear of the dentist's chair. There is a lady attendant always on duty, and---

Our Prices Are Right:

A Set of Teeth That Fit	$5	Crown and Bridge Work Per Tooth	$4
Fillings, Put in to Stay	$1	Painless Extraction	50c

We KNOW from 25 years' experience that these are the very lowest prices that can be made for high class GUARANTEED work. And every piece of work done in this office is GUARANTEED.

How to Select a Becoming Hat

Put your trust in the man behind the counter. If you have a limit as to price or a preference for certain colors, tell him so, but buy the shape the salesman suggests.

It is our belief that no store has reason to prefer selling one hat to another—we speak, of course, for the better class stores—for they are in position to aid with their advice.

Regardless of the store you patronize, put your trust in the man who, next to yourself, is most vitally concerned in what you wear.

Wednesday is Official Fall Hat Day and the better stores will have their comprehensive ads in The Journal Tuesday.

Dumba should have known that letters are dangerous things to write.

Apparently Bernstorff and the Kaiser aren't agreed on what reparations means.

Perhaps the extra session of the Georgia legislature is intended to keep tab on congress.

We'll miss the baseball pennant by a wide margin, but we are right there when it comes to golf.

A Far-Reaching Campaign For Georgia's Development.

The most far-reaching campaign of development and publicity ever undertaken by a Southern State will be inaugurated under the direction of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce at a great gathering of public-minded citizens to be held on the evening of Thursday, September the sixteenth, in the Atlanta auditorium. An attendance of two thousand visitors, representing the business and civic leadership of almost every county in the State, is assured; and the peculiar interest of the occasion undoubtedly will suffice to draw thousands more from this community. Certainly, everyone who is concerned with Georgia's upbuilding will find the meeting uncommonly worth while.

A distinctive feature of the program will be the exhibition, for the first time, of a five-reel motion picture story, portraying in dramatic detail the agricultural, industrial and commercial life of Georgia, together with views of science and historic appeal. These films are the first of a series which will be multiplied from season to season and eventually shown throughout America, as a means of compelling nationwide interest in Georgia's achievements and resources. They are rich in entertainment as well as education.

The motion picture exhibit is only one link in a great chain of enterprises which the State Chamber of Commerce has contrived. The other plans include a campaign for diversified farming to begin on November the first. It is proposed, in this connection, to hold three thousand meetings from one end of Georgia to the other and to organize the agricultural and business energy of the State in a movement for the increased production of foodstuffs. The importance of this effort cannot be overestimated. Georgia's present prosperous outlook is due very largely to its increased yield of grain and other food supplies. Bounteous crops of corn, wheat and oats have added millions of dollars to the State's wealth and have made the farmers more than ever independent. But we have touched only the surface of our wonderful possibilities in this regard. There are vast resources in truck farming, cattle raising, dairying and allied industries awaiting development. When these are turned duly to account, Georgia will be indeed an empire State. This is a matter in which every merchant and banker and workman as well as every farmer have vital cause to be interested.

In addition to the motion pictures and the campaign for diversified farming, the State Chamber of Commerce and its co-operating interests are planning a tour of exposition cars which will represent the State's varied resources and in time be carried to important centers in many different parts of the Union.

The enterprises thus projected will cover a period of three years or longer. They will be as systematic as far-reaching. They will make the State famous abroad and inspire it to fresh endeavor at home. They will attract desirable settlers and investors, and open the way to new prosperity. As the base and starting point of these splendid endeavors, the meeting to be held here on Thursday, September the sixteenth, will be of extraordinary interest. The people of Atlanta and Fulton county should seize the opportunity to show their fellow Georgians that they are solidly behind the campaign for the Commonwealth's upbuilding.

Anti-American Intrigue.

The Dumba incident lays bare a trail of Germanic stratagems which in their total intent are nothing less than a conspiracy against the government and the people of the United States. The Austrian ambassador is merely the high-light figure in a far-reaching group of accomplices, the Archibald messages only one chapter in a long story of anti-American intrigue.

Upon the outbreak of the European war there was an impetuous campaign, prompted no doubt by Vienna and Berlin and supported on this side by the unwelcome subjects of Wilhelm and Francis Joseph, to enlist our country's sentiment and official influence in behalf of the Teutonic alliance. The futility of these appeals soon became evident, whereupon the Kaiser's American followers set about to accomplish through bribery and force what they were unable to obtain through the public's conscience and thought.

The character and extent of those efforts are disclosed in part in the intercepted letters written by Dr. Dumba and entrusted, for delivery to the foreign office in Vienna, to one Archibald for whom an American passport had been secured under false pretenses. "We can disorganize and hold up for months, if not entirely prevent, the manufacture of munitions in Bethlehem and the middle west." So wrote the Austrian ambassador. That is to say, the pro-Teuton plot had been carried to the point where its engineers were prepared, or thought they were prepared, to call an arbitrary halt upon the operation of legitimate industries in the United States. Through foreign money and hired agitators they were seeking to fetter the business of our people and defeat the policies of our government.

The United States positively had declined to place an embargo on the export of munitions, declaring in its note on that subject to Vienna: "The principles of international law, the practice of nations, the national safety of the United States and other nations without great military and naval establishments, the prevention of increased armies and navies, the adoption of peaceful methods for the adjustment of international differences, and, finally, neutrality itself are opposed to the prohibition by a neutral nation of the exportation of arms, ammunition or other munitions of war to belligerent powers during the progress of the war." In the face of this emphatic declaration, the Austrian ambassador with his confederates and his subsidized Teutonic press went forward with carefully laid schemes to "disorganize" and "entirely prevent" the manufacture of munitions in this country.

It is doubtful that the American public fully realize the enormity of that plot or the fearful consequences to which it might lead. If the Kaiser's agents and followers in this country attempt to cripple our munition plants now they would not hesitate in attempting to cripple them if the United States itself were involved in war. If the emissaries of a foreign government are to say when and how the industries of this country shall operate, and what the policies of our people and our government shall be, the United States is no longer a sovereign nation but merely a province under the suzerainty of Germanic emperors.

Interference with munition plants, however, is only one aspect of the Teutonic conspiracy. The self-styled "Friends of Peace," a pro-German organization, have undertaken to enroll fifteen million Americans for the obvious purpose of dominating our national politics. The adventure is preposterous, to be sure, but it indicates the extreme to which the Kaiser's propaganda has been carried. One member of the "Friends of Peace" went so far at their recent convention as to avow that if this nation should become involved in a war with Germany, he "would refuse actively to support the United States." That sentiment, of course, does not represent the attitude of the great mass of loyal Americans of German birth or descent, men who are as stalwart in their devotion to this republic as any descendant of its revolutionary fathers; but it does show that we have amongst us aliens at heart who think more of the monarchy they came from than of the free land in which they dwell, and who in time of peril would betray their trust of citizenship. It is to this un-American class that the German propagandists have appealed and upon them that the agents of the Kaiser rely for aid.

Directed by diplomatists and other officials who ought to have known better, this campaign has been especially dangerous in its effect upon weak or inflammable minds. It is thus responsible indirectly, at least, for attempts to dynamite the United States capitol, to assassinate prominent citizens, to blow up ammunition factories and to murder hundreds of people by secreting bombs in outgoing passenger ships. It is directly responsible for the seditious and sometimes incendiary feeling that has burst forth at pro-German gatherings. Its bold object has been to Prussianize the United States, to supplant Americanism with Kaiserism, and patriotism with Kultur.

The time has come to halt this dangerous activity and this disloyal propaganda once and for all. There is no room in the United States for the mischief makers of Francis Joseph and Wilhelm. The President's note to Austria demanding the recall of Dr. Dumba gives ringing notice both to Vienna and Berlin that America is for Americans; and the nationwide approval which the President's act has evoked leaves no doubt that Americans all are for America.

Attainments and Prospects In South American Trade.

This time a year ago we were predicting great increases in trade between the United States and South America. How substantially those hopes have been fulfilled is witnessed by recent reports of the federal Department of Commerce. For June, 1915, the value of our exports to South American countries amounted to $13,744,000, as compared with $7,573,000 for June, 1914. During the first six months of 1915 our South American exports aggregated $60,572,000, as compared with $52,263,000 during the first half, and $38,750,000 during the second half of 1914.

Equally interesting and important is the growth of imports from South America. These amounted to $26,210,000 for June, 1915, against $17,118,000 for June, 1914; and they reached the impressive figure of $156,043,000 for the first six months of 1915, as compared with $144,074,000 for the first six months of the year preceding. It is evident that trade relations between the two Americas are expanding, steadily and swiftly, relations which are the more promising because they are mutually profitable.

It would be interesting to know just how much of this increase has been due to the accident of war, and how much to the energy and foresight of American enterprise. The outbreak of hostilities in Europe placed the rich commerce of Latin-America easily within reach of the United States. The paths of business intercourse between the Old World and the Southern continent were abruptly closed. Germany's merchant marine was driven from the seas, and that of Great Britain was diverted very largely to military needs. Further, the means and instruments of financial exchange were broken, South American enterprises, which had depended on European interests for credit, were forced to look elsewhere for accommodation, and naturally they turned to the United States. Likewise, South American consumers turned to the United States for the merchandise they had been buying from Europe; and South American producers turned to the United States for a market. Thus a great opportunity was thrust upon us.

Are we making the most of that opportunity, or merely gathering the day's treasure that drifts to our shores, careless of the deeper currents and the larger chance? The increase of more than six millions in exports and more than nine millions in imports for a single month would seem to indicate that real energy and foresight are at work. But it should be borne continually in mind that the United States cannot retain its present pre-eminence in Latin-American trade, unless it prepares well for the future.

Our merchants and manufacturers now are virtually free from competition in Central and South American markets. But this will not be the case when the war is over, and Great Britain and Germany set about to regain their lost advantage in overseas business. They will be handicapped for years to come, it is true, but they will work the harder and plan the more shrewdly. It behooves the United States to build broadly and deeply in Latin-American markets, while circumstances are so auspicious.

To this end, two things are especially needful—the establishment of shipping facilities and banking and credit accommodations. Without an adequate merchant marine, we may not hope to maintain our wonderful record of overseas trade, either in South America or any other quarter of the world. We dare not depend upon the ships of our competitors in the great contest for commercial supremacy.

Nor may we expect to hold and uphold our trade in Latin-America unless we are prepared to extend to those countries the financial and credit accommodations which European interests so liberally granted them. That our business leaders are alert to this need is evidenced by the establishment of branches of United States banks at important centers in South America, and also by the successful negotiations of large loans to South American enterprises.

We have made a good beginning in the great work of securing and developing Latin-American trade. We are favored incalculably by all the conditions of the time. We need only to press forward with sustained energy and preparation to achieve permanent leadership in that golden realm of the world's business.

Editorial Echoes

Before the war German ships could unhindered at British ports and all others. What Germany really asks now is that her military power shall not be balanced by the naval power of other nations. That is to say, she would have Great Britain and the United States be well deprived of their natural means of defense. An army should be unhampered in its operations, but a navy should be made helpless. If the German fleet had defeated the British fleet would such a demand have ever been made? The German mind has been strangely perverted by the new logic of "necessity." It confounds cause and effect; it argues on the post hoc propter hoc assumption. The command of the sea in time of war is no denial of the freedom of the sea in time of peace. The German flag would still be flying on every ocean had not Britain, for these, like the conditions of the world that the challenge has been so successfully met.—Public Ledger.

The discovery of an "increasing wave of American vitality and life from the degenerative disease" is not new. The novel thing is the allegation that it is especially affecting "workmen in the mechanical industries." Yet the conditions of such workers were never better, their hours easier or the proceeds of their work greater. Is prosperity causing degenerative disease in an element of the community which was supposed to be safeguarded against it by the physical labor necessitated by their occupation?—New York World.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT BUILDS

BY FREDERICK J. HARKIN.

THE United States government has decided to put up for its own use a great structure of the office building type. Never before has it erected such a kind of building, but having decided to do so, it has gone all the way and the new home of its interior department is destined to be one of the biggest office buildings in all the world.

The ground for it is already broken and the work is going forward in Washington. It will occupy a full block on the east side of the city. It is a big building, it happens that this block is usually large for few cities have them with sides of more than 300 feet. It is therefore rarely possible to put up so large an office building when one has ambition to get so substantial. It is doubtful if there is another office building in the world that covers so much ground. There will be almost four acres of land under it which is a pretty good size farm.

There may be office buildings in some of the cities that contain more room on a smaller floor space because they are so much taller. The interior department structure will be eight stories in height. At that it will surpass in height the other department buildings for these are mostly but four stories.

The government has always held to the classic types in the erection of those buildings in which it took special pride. It set a pace for them when it erected its capitol building. The authorities all agree that a divine providence must have guided the hands of those who were responsible for the development of that building which stands as a hill and toward which a nation looks. For a hundred years architects have pointed to it as the best structure in America and have been unable to pick a flaw in it. Sir Aston Webb, built the Viceroy's residence in India, and it is recognized as the best British architectural authority, not long ago visited Washington and gave it as his opinion that the American capitol is the greatest building in the world.

It is a classic structure of pillars and domes and great flights of steps. The White House is a high type of American architecture and has been severely criticized for its lack of harmony with the rest of the nation. It is a classic structure of pillars and domes and great flights of steps. The White House is a high type of American architecture and has been severely criticized for its lack of harmony with the rest of the nation.

But after it had built those the government ran riot for many decades and such structures as the state, war and navy building, the postoffice department building and others were erected, gibberish piled with Gothic pretensions, and Uncle Sam as a builder came in for much condemnation.

Then the pendulum swung back and for a decade or two the government has been severely criticized for its lack of harmony with the rest of the nation. It is a classic structure of pillars and domes and great flights of steps. The White House is a high type of American architecture and has been severely criticized for its lack of harmony with the rest of the nation.

But the classic structure is open to much criticism from the utilitarian. Deep set windows, it is argued, let in little light. Rows of classic columns in front of the building shut out much of the sunlight. The effects take up much space and cost much money. If a building is put up as a working office for a department why should it not be made strictly utilitarian?

At which suggestion the architectural school, which holds that government buildings should be monuments to the grandeur of the state, in most cases, have been supported by those to whom the government has looked for guidance.

But now a strictly office type of building is to be erected as an experiment. It is to harbor the secretary of interior and his personal staff who will occupy a magnificent suite on the sixth floor which will look directly out upon Potomac park, to historic Arlington cemetery beyond the river, down the watercourse to Mount Vernon, with Washington monument and the $4,000,000 Lincoln memorial in the foreground.

The land office with its myriad of field records, will have a wing. The geological survey will occupy much space, and there are specially built laboratories, photographic dark rooms, press rooms for the production of its maps. The bureau of mines will be provided with a large suite of offices, especially to fit its purposes. The land office will have a large suite of offices, especially to fit its purposes. The land office will have a large suite of offices, especially to fit its purposes.

The building will cost $2,500,000. To convert it into Journal's Defense of the South.

(From the New York Evening Post.)

An eloquent defense of the South against Northern critics who have been betrayed by their indignation over the Frank lynching into sweeping denunciations, is made by The Atlanta Journal. The latter, on its part, goes a bit further and suggests that the city as in some sort parallel to most activities on the other side of the Mason and Dixon line. Horrible as these outrages are, they lack the feature that provokes outside exhortation of lynchings, and that is endorsement and attempted defense of these illegal executions by the localities where they occur. Nobody denies that such outrages are heinous and we refer to them as a method of private vengeance and, circle, also small, of anarchist agitators, sometimes posing as advance agents of social justice. The Journal is an upholder of the law, and it really lynchings in the North, for these, like the conditions elsewhere, have been defended by the communities disgraced by them. But the part of The Journal's defense of its homeland that will arouse sympathetic assent the country over is its vindication of Georgia from the charge of being "a reproach and a danger to the American republic." The Journal repels the imputation of unworthiness in language that suggests Grady, and like him, undoubtedly embodies the best sentiment not only of Georgia, but of the entire South.

"No people without a profound regard for law and government, no people without rare gifts of mind and heart, could ever have plucked such wonderful prosperity from such overwrought disaster."

Georgia and the South have their peculiar problems, as does every part of the Union, their blunders and failures and shames. But they have also their ideals and achievements. The South is not a land of lawlessness, in the main, are those of rash impulse rather than of sordid iniquity. They are not a province, but a responsible part of the nation. The South is not a land to be Southerners, prouder still to be Americans; and in this spirit, while despising their defamers, they rejoice in their national brotherhood."

The Dog's Cold Nose.

When your faithful old dog pokes his nose into your hand, even your affection cannot prevent a shiver.

Why is the body of a dog so warm, why should this one spot be different from all the rest of him?

The old fable tells us that when Noah tried to get all the animals into the ark some of them were too tame, and he had to get a dog to help him drive the last to enter the ark. There was no room left, so he had to stand in the doorway with his nose outside in the wet, and it has never been warm since.

Science gives quite another explanation of the matter. The coldness of a dog's nose, says science, is due to the fact that it must be kept cool in order to sharpen his sense of smell. And, as the moisture is cooled by the air, it keeps his nose cold all the time.

In addition to the olfactory or smelling nerves inside a dog's nostrils, the whole black membrane around the nose is very sensitive, and this sensitiveness can be retorted by moisture. The moist heat of the dog's nose is dry and warm he is ill and needs doctoring.

a classic structure, an art monument, would require a million or so of dollars to build. It would then be a less fit office building. All of which raises a very nice question.

Of late years the government has had under construction three or four hundred buildings all the time. It has been finishing these up at the rate of 150 a year. Most of these buildings are postoffices. In 1914 the government completed buildings at the rate of 150 a year. It would not take many decades for it to acquire a late a goodly number of them. But, as a matter of fact, it owns less than a thousand such buildings aside from such groups as occur at army posts and Indian agencies.

These non-military buildings have increased rapidly in number in the last two decades. In 1853 there were but twenty-three such government-owned buildings. In 1853 there were 137. In 1911, 243. In earlier days the government rented most such structures. Postoffices were formerly rented in most of the smaller towns. Steadily they have been built all over the country.

The architect's office of the treasury department has charge of the erection of all such buildings. Twenty years ago there were three such offices. There was nothing distinctive about them. In earlier days the part of the country looked nothing like the same class of buildings in another section.

Then came a sort of renaissance in government architecture. The treasury department came to hold that government buildings, wherever constructed, should be of a certain type. The type of building was desired types the architects went to the study of the classical structures that were developed when the art of building was at its height. The best structure of Greece and Rome and the classical structures that were developed when the art of building was at its height. The best structure of Greece and Rome and the classical structures that were developed when the art of building was at its height.

The federal government never puts up a building that costs less than $25,000. The office of the chief architect has developed, during the last twenty years, plans for many types of buildings that may be evaluated from the sums most often appropriated. It knows just what may be done for $25,000 in the way of an attractive little postoffice, or for $50,000 for a set of plans for $50,000 buildings and others of the sort of combination postoffice and federal court that costs $100,000.

No two buildings, however, are ever made alike. Special study is given each structure and a plan is developed for it exclusively. Much care has been taken to emphasize any local architectural tendencies that the south much has been made of the colonial architecture that developed there. In the southwest the influence of the mission architecture is to be seen in the great majority of the public buildings. Structures of the north Italian type were much built in up state New York in early times and have left a strong impression on the architecture of the region and this idea is now carried out in that section by the government.

The present tendency toward the utilitarian is limited to situations where the need is great for office conveniences. In Portland, Ore., for instance, there was need of a lot of office space for much federal business was conducted there. The building was not a part of the business section with skyscrapers all about it. It was therefore thought best to erect a utilitarian office building in Portland.

But broadcasting the best that the world has produced in architecture, planting art gems where they will wield an influence as the decades pass, on the whole, the government is doing a good job. It will have much to do with the development of the best spirit in building, is considered by the government as being an influence on the people. It is a fine temple, worthy of a place on the Appian way, come to find for itself a home on the prairies of Kansas or among the descendants of the Dutch who cultivate the farms of Pennsylvania.

"Sectionalism"

(From the New York Commercial.)

Condemnation of mob violence in Georgia is degenerating into rank and indiscriminate abuse. Generally speaking, the newspapers of the country, including those published in the Southern states, have dealt with the Frank case in a judicial way, as was proper. A few persist in libeling the whole South, as if one-third of the population of the United States had taken part in committing the outrage. The civilized world stood aghast with horror when Prussian militarism destroyed Louvain and massacred non-combatants because someone fired a shot at a German trooper. Similar "Prussianism" inspires those newspapers which attack the whole South because a crime was committed there. Journalists recognize certain ethical rules that govern criticism and apply to all that is spoken, written or printed. In dramatic art, for instance, it is legitimate to portray a priest as a villain, a soldier as a hero, but he must not stand as the prototype of his profession and no inference must be raised that all priests or soldiers are villains. Neither must a crooked Yankee be used to represent the average New Englander. Whole races, nations and creeds have been attacked in the way since the beginning of history, so the sin is not new. But the world has outgrown it and its recedence in certain newspapers is inexcusable.

Sectionalism has always been the weakness of the United States, but it is gradually dying out. It has cost us enough already and only an enemy of this country would seek to revive it. Too much "hypocritical" has cropped out on account of the war in Europe but it is as nothing when compared with sectionalism that treats whole states as pariahs. In our great cities not one murderer in ten is punished and criminals are protected from prosecution by the cowardice of those who know them and are not given over to lawlessness and murder and the vast majority of our citizens are courageous and law-abiding. Within a few years startling murders have been committed not far from New York that bear all the evidences of premeditation and of the participation of several persons. These cases do not provide a basis for the kind of hatred given over to organized bands of assassins with the consent of the people, any more than that the whole South is guilty. If the authorities in Georgia have failed to secure justice in the Frank case, the police of New York City have also failed in dozens of murder cases when a neighborhood of foreigners was terrified. Only when the people trust the officers of the law and the courts and feel that justice will be speedy and protection sure will these evils be abated. This country needs reform along these lines but reform will never come from sectionalism.

Quips And Quiddities

"Telephone," said the impatient man, as he put aside the bell, "that I'll go fishing."

"Didn't know you cared for fishing," said the book-keeper.

"I don't, ordinarily. But it's the only chance I have of finding myself at the end of a line that isn't busy."

On Pat's arrival in New York his Yankee friend began to burst the neck, which, he said, was so hot that it burnt the winks off the flies.

Oh, that's nothing to be hot in Ireland. Why, they have to feed the hens on ice cream to keep them from laying blood eggs."

A Hospital Where Drug Addicts Are Treated Successfully---And Helped to Start Life Anew

(By a Journal Staff Representative.)

"THE Southern General Hospital, located at 201 Capitol avenue, is the institution to which I would send a member of my family, if he or she were addicted to the use of drugs."

That was the statement which a prominent business man of Atlanta made to me one day last week, during the course of a conversation in which we had been discussing the drug evil and the terrible suffering which it is bringing to many hundreds of homes right here in Atlanta, as well as throughout many other sections of Georgia.

"Why to that one?" I asked.

"For the simple reason," said this business man, "that I know from the observation of 'cases' that have been treated at this institution that genuine relief is given. The taste for the drug is not only taken away, but all desire for it is eliminated, and the treatment is such that it leaves no ill effects. It's a great institution, and it's doing a world of good."

I had heard of hospitals where drug addicts were treated and were said to be cured, but I had never been through one. I was under the impression that the treatment was something awful, and especially so when they "run 'em up to a million," as I had heard it expressed in describing the nervous condition into which the patients were worked. This was something new to me. A hospital where drug addicts were treated with no ill effects! Marvelous, I thought; so I decided to go out to the Southern General Hospital and see for myself just what kind of institution it was.

I had always been under the impression that hospitals for the treatment of drug users were prison-like places, with iron bars across the windows and big locks on every door. Imagine my surprise, then, to find this hospital to which I went a handsome, residence-like building, located right in the residential district of Capitol avenue, with the front doors standing open and every window exactly as if you or I lived there. The building shown in the illustration just to the right is the Main Hospital, and the one in the view shown at the bottom of the page is the Annex, where patients who are not able to pay full price for the treatment are given the course for a very reasonable sum.

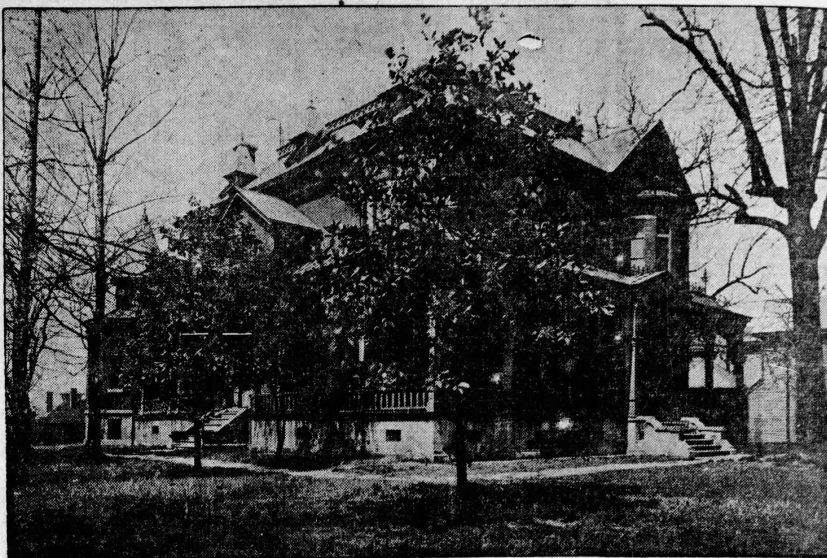

"If it is not asking too much, I would like to go through your institution," I said to Mr. H. M. Owens, manager of the hospital, as he came to the door in response to my request for him. I did not know whether mere curiosity visitors were allowed, but I wanted to see for myself some of the patients who were being treated, and how they felt under the treatment. I told Mr. Owens as much, and he very cordially invited me to come in. He told me that visitors were always welcomed, that the hospital management had nothing they wanted to conceal at any time, and that there was never an hour of the day when the patients could not be seen as well as at any other time. Mr. Owens' manner, his general appearance, and the way in which he talks of the institution and the work it is doing impresses one with the idea that he knows how to do what he is doing, that he has every confidence in the methods used, and that the hospital, under his management, is one in which the patient need have no fears.

"I am going to introduce you to Dr. Herbert E. Truax, who is in charge of the hospital work," said Mr. Owens. "Dr. Truax is one of the physicians who has been devoting his entire life to the study and treatment of the drug evil's victims, and he knows the wants and needs of these unfortunates perhaps better than any other man in the United States. He was at the head of the Truax Sanitarium here in Atlanta, until his health gave way under the heavy work he did for so many years, and he had to take a year or two off to recuperate."

I don't know much about doctors, for I have never required the services of one for very long at a time, but Dr. Truax is my idea of what a physician should be, and the manner in which he addresses his patients is the one that I have always fancied a doctor should use. He impresses you with the idea that he is wrapped up, heart and soul, in his work; you just know from his conversation and the things he tells you about the work and his patients that he understands the suffering, the terrible suffering of his patients, and that his great big heart sympathizes with them to the limit. The expression of his eyes must give his patients confidence, must help them through what are long, tiresome hours, to say the least of it.

"Now I am going to show you through the hospital," said Dr. Truax, "and then I want you to talk to any of the patients you may care to talk to; ask them any questions you may care to ask them, and find out from them just how we give the treatment and whether they suffer any ill effects from it. You can see for yourself that we keep them under no restraint, there is not a key in the house to any one of the doors, and every window is unlocked at all times. Of course we have rules, for with as many patients as we have we must have rules, but there is absolutely no force used, no threats made to use force; the patients are free to go if they please, but they don't go, as you see. We try to make them feel that we are their friends, that we are here to help them get relief—permanent relief—and it is the way in which we treat our guests that keeps them so contentedly."

The hospital is large, and the number of patients was larger than I had expected to find. There must have been fifty or sixty patients at the time I was there. Old men and women, from every walk of life; middle-aged people, and then there was the young—young men from eighteen to twenty-five years of age. It was a pitiful sight, for some of them were in the advanced stages, having used the drug for years. The thing that strikes one first, though, is the fact that every face has the word HOPE stamped all over it. They are being treated—treated in a manner that does not work them up into a nervous state, but that quiets their nerves rather, and they believe they are going to be permanently relieved of all desire for the drug. They see others going out every day who have been successfully treated, and they know they will go out the same way.

Every room of the hospital is as clean as you will find anywhere; they are all well kept, and are inviting; the nurses are all sympathetic in their manner, and it looked as if Dr. Truax had the co-operation of every nurse and helper in making the patients comfortable and at home. There is an operating room, equipped with every necessary surgical apparatus, in case the need of an operation developed from some other cause than the drug evil. In fact, the institution is equipped for the work of a general hospital, and it is well equipped. However, its main efforts are devoted to the treatment of drug sufferers and the chronic diseases that the long use of drugs bring on.

Dr. Truax was called to the first floor, and I had the opportunity I had been looking for to talk to some of the patients. There were four or five men in the room, all under treatment, and you could very easily tell that two or three of them had been using the drug for many years. Two of them, they told me, had taken treatment at other institutions before. One of them, a member of a prominent family not fifty miles from the State Capitol, told me that he had taken treatment once before, from another hospital, and when I asked him to tell me how the treatment he was taking compared with that he had taken before, he said:

"Why, my dear sir, there is no comparison. The contrast is what you want. When I went to —," naming the hospital he had been in the first time, "I suffered the tortures of hell itself. For ten months I lay on my back in that hospital, and all that time I was suffering hell, I'll tell you. You talk about 'running 'em up to a million!' They ran mine up to ten million, and then they didn't stop. And you see these legs of mine," he said, holding up legs that were swollen all out of proportion, "that's what that hospital did for me. It ruined me. And the day I left there I didn't want the dope back, but I wanted something, and I had to have something. I went crazy. My sister carried me to see a doctor and he popped the dope right back into me. He had to do it, for I had to have it. Now the treatment that I have been taking here is entirely different. I don't want the dope that I used to take—I crave nothing in the way of a stimulant, and I know as well as I know I am talking to you that I am a well man. I was abnormal when I came out of the other hospital, today I am almost a normal man. Tomorrow I am going to leave here, and I am going to do all that I can to send drug users to Dr. Truax, for he is the one man I know who relieves without practically killing."

The morning before I went to the hospital, some of the patients in that room told me, an old lady, 73 years old, had gone out of the hospital, relieved from the desire for a drug she had been taking for twenty-odd years. "Why, when she came in here," said one of the men, "she looked like a mummy. Yesterday, when she left, her skin looked fresh and she appeared to be a different woman. When her husband came for her, he broke down and cried. He said, 'I have got my sweetheart back again'—and she was his sweetheart, given back to him by this hospital's treatment." That's the way the Southern General Hospital's patients feel about the treatment.

I asked Dr. Truax about the cost of taking the treatment, and when he told me what it really is, I was surprised, for it is considerably less than most other hospitals charge for treatment of the drug habit. The patient is taken into the hospital, treated as considerably as if he or she were in his or her own home, and every attention is paid to them.

I had always heard that once a drug addict goes into a hospital and is given the violent form of treatment given in some places, he or she is never the same again. They come out, so I had been told, after suffering as they do, abnormal. In some the nerve center that controls the moral side of one's nature is completely paralyzed, and they are never again the right-thinking people they once were. I asked Dr. Truax if this were true, and he stated that the treatment of some hospitals is so violent, so severe, that it almost invariably leaves the patient in a worse state than when they began taking it. They really do come out abnormal creatures, he said, and from what he told me concerning the treatment of these so-called drug addict hospitals, I can very readily imagine that they do.

Now, the treatment given at the Southern General Hospital tends to make the drug users, who have become abnormal from long use of the drug, normal again. It develops the nerve cells that have become inactive—it enlivens the whole moral tissue, as well as the physical part of the patient's make-up, and it sends the man or woman who takes it out into the world, not a new person, but the same person that began to take the drug, perhaps several years before. It blots out the desire for the drug, it renews the right perspective of the patient, and it fits him for life again. So, after having seen the hospital and the patients under treatment, I readily agree with the business man whose conversation caused me to make the institution a visit.

The Southern General Hospital, located at 201 Capitol avenue, is the institution to which I would send a member of my family, if he or she were addicted to the use of drugs.

EMORY DRAWS STUDENTS FROM SIX FOREIGN LANDS

Bishop Candler Shows How War Turns Young Men to U. S. for Education

The influence of the European war in turning young men of foreign countries toward the United States for education is strikingly shown in the announcement of Bishop Warren A. Candler, chancellor of Emory university, that students from six foreign lands have applied for admission to Emory this fall.

In several articles and addresses Bishop Candler has asserted that the educational center of the world has shifted from Europe to America, and has exhorted people of the south to meet the opportunity and obligation which have been brought to them.

His statements are confirmed in the fact that this fall in the school of medicine at Emory in Atlanta there will be a student from Cuba, two from Porto Rico, one from Spain and one from Korea. In the School of Theology in Atlanta there will be a student from Japan and in the School of Liberal Arts at Oxford there will be two Korean students and one Chinese student. The university authorities are expecting even more students from abroad this year, demonstrating the international outpouring of Emory.

Bishop Candler expresses the belief that when the new buildings of the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Theology on September 15, the medical school will open on September 15. Special exercises will be held at each school.

GIRLS' NIGHT SCHOOL READY FOR OPENING

Courses in Stenography, Cooking and Sewing, Besides Regular High School Studies

The girls' night school of the Atlanta public school system will open its session on Monday night, September 13, at 8:15, at 121 1/2 North Forsyth street. The school is designed for the benefit of young women of Atlanta who have no time, except at night, to pursue their studies. In addition to a course in the regular grammar and high school studies, there will be classes of stenography, typewriting, cooking and sewing. Each department will be in charge of competent teachers and books will be furnished free. Supper will be served at a nominal price. Prospective pupils who want additional information may call the principal, Mrs. Oscar Gamble, at Ivy 6774.

The following teachers will have charge of the classes: Mrs. Oscar Gamble, Mrs. Carol Summers, Miss Rose Supanman, Mrs. Elsie Crenshaw and Mrs. E. J. Plann.

COTTON CRUSHERS ASKED TO FILE COMPLAINTS

President E. C. Ponder, of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association of Georgia, has been notified by Hon. Robert Laning, secretary of the association, that the state department copies, in triplicate, of any cable messages passing between these members and the European countries, which are known not to have delivered, as claimed in the protest filed with the department of state by the various cotton oil men throughout the south.

This information was contained in a letter which has been sent to the members of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association of Georgia by Secretary E. C. Ponder and as a result of this it is expected that a number of complaints will be lodged with Secretary Laning.

T. R. SMOTHERS WEDS MISS LILLIE DANIELS

T. R. Smothers, one of the employees of the Atlanta Cadillac company's shop, surprised his friends on Friday last week by announcing that he had decided to get married, and he proceeded to forthwith carry out his intention by taking as his bride Miss Lillie Daniels, of Chiles, Ga. Both Mr. and Mrs. Smothers are being given their congratulations of their scores of friends.

COLORADO SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY, SEPT. 13

The Catholic school of Our Lady of Lourdes at 1001 North Boulevard will reopen Monday, September 13. The school is conducted by the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament for the education of the colored children of the city and receives pupils for the first grade through the seventh. Special attention is paid to character as well as scholarship.

NOTED DANCER TO BE FORSYTH HEADLINER

MURIEL WORTH, the famous dancer, who, with Lew Brice, will be the headliner at the Forsyth this week.

Muriel Worth and Lew Brice Here This Week—New York Hippodrome Novelty Among Other Features

Muriel Worth, the noted dancer, said to be one of the most beautiful women in vaudeville, will, with Lew Brice, be the headliner at the Forsyth this week. As a dancer Miss Worth is world-famous and will present an act entirely different from any dancing offering yet seen in Atlanta. Mr. Brice is a clever light comedian, singer and dancer. The two have spent the past week in Baltimore, where they received a great ovation. Added interest in Miss Worth centers in her wonderful wardrobe, and she will display some gorgeous creations. Miss Worth's wardrobe is so big and elaborate that she carries a special dresser, in addition to a special property man, to care for the stage settings for the act.

One of the novelties of the New York Hippodrome's big mid-winter circus will be seen at the Forsyth this week in "Jolly Johnny Jones," who will offer a funny and thrilling pantomime called "A Tip on the Wire." He mingles daring stunts and comedy in a pleasing manner.

Songs both new and old will be sung by Gertrude Holmes and Robert Buchanan. Miss Holmes introduces "The Girl of 1847," a creation that brings smiles to theatergoers of the present day.

One of the bright features of the bill will be Charles Mack and company, two men and a woman, in "A Friendly Call," a rousing Irish comedy with music, songs and dances.

Another interesting feature will be a posing act, in which five statues of splendid figure are seen.

The comedy value of the bill takes a spurt upward in the act of Fred Warren and Roy Dietrich, singers and comedians. Of all funny fat men, Fred Warren is said to be one of the funniest, and he and Dietrich make quite a comedy team.

Two versatile men on the bill are Bob Knapp and Chris Cornelia. They offer "A Novelty Surprise," and their versatility is revealed in the fact that they are not only acrobats, but clever dancers and singers as well.

In addition to these seven acts of Keith vaudeville, the funny "Colonel Fessie," Liar animated cartoons and the newest feature weekly will be shown. Manager George H. Hickman anticipates the bill as one of the first caliber and sure to meet with high favor.

Anticipating a heavy demand for tickets, Manager Hickman states that seats may be reserved by telephone and will be held until half an hour before performance. He particularly desires, however, that, as an accommodation to the management, those who wish to reserve seats they have reserved, notify the box office, so that tickets will not be withheld from sale unnecessarily.

The JEWELL-KELLEY CO. AT THE BIJOU.

The JEWELL-KELLEY company will begin the second week at the Bijou Theater, opening tomorrow, Monday matinee, with the comedy drama, "Captured by Wireless," founded upon the novel by Dr. C. Ripen Morris, who will play the part of the unfortunate Vera Geneva. Arthur Blackaller, who has made a great hit at the Bijou, will have a fine comedy part, and Miss McCraney, Miss Bowman, Mr. Williams, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Ross, Mr. Powell, and the rest of the company will be much to evidence.

There will be a daily matinee at the and Roy Dietrich, singers and comedians. Of all funny fat men, Fred Warren is said to be one of the funniest, and he and Dietrich make quite a comedy team.

Two versatile men on the bill are Bob Knapp and Chris Cornelia. They offer "A Novelty Surprise," and their versatility is revealed in the fact that they are not only acrobats, but clever dancers and singers as well.

BRENAU COLLEGE WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 14

Many Improvements Made and Record Attendance is Indicated by Reservations

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 11.—Great preparations are being made for the opening of Brenau College Conservatory September 14. The prospect for an increased attendance grows brighter every day. Up to August 1, the registration was somewhat behind last year, but since the beginning of August there has been a marked increase in the number of registrations until now the number is quite as large as last year, and before the opening day arrives it is expected that there will be a considerable increase.

Another decided evidence of the general improvement in the business conditions of the country is the fact that last year there were many cancellations after August 1, when war started in Europe, whereas this year there are practically no cancellations.

Many improvements are being made in the college buildings and in the equipment. The new seventy-five new pianos and the Alpha Delta Psi are completed and work on the new Y. W. C. A. building is being rushed as rapidly as possible.

Twenty-five new Haines Bros. pianos have just been installed in the practice rooms. President Pearce recently made a contract for seventy-five new pianos and this is the first shipment.

PRISONERS PARTICIPATE IN JEWISH SERVICES

Through the kindness of Warden Fred G. Zerbst, of the federal prison, all Jewish inmates were allowed to participate in their religious services as follows:

During the Jewish New Year September 9, they were excused from labor and services were conducted by Mr. Fred Halbron at 9:30 a. m. On September 10, they were excused from labor and services were conducted by Rabbi Dr. Marx at 9:30 a. m.

Yom Kippur, the Jewish fast day, which begins September 11 at 6 p. m. and closes at 6 p. m. September 18, will be observed by all Jewish inmates and will be conducted by Mr. Fred Halbron. At the close of the fast day an appropriate meal will be served them.

During this season with a performance each night. Ladies free every Monday night upon the usual condition. Friday nights will be amateur night, when local talent will compete for prizes.

WASHINGTON SEMINARY WILL OPEN THURSDAY

Recital and Address by Dr. Hughlett Will Mark Opening

The thirty-eighth session of the Washington Seminary will begin on Thursday morning, September 14th. A pleasant introduction to the year's activities will be a recital by the members of the music and expression faculty at ten o'clock, consisting of several piano numbers by Miss Margarette Bartholomew, Miss Edna Bartholomew and Miss Clementine Macgregor; a group of songs of American composers by Mrs. Mary Lovelace-Hurt, violin selections by Mr. George F. Lindner, and readings by Mrs. Rosalind Mitchell Lunsford. The patrons of the school and the public generally are cordially invited.

An opening address will be made by Dr. A. M. Hughlett, Presiding Elder of the Atlanta District. In speaking of the year's outlook Principal L. D. Scott is very enthusiastic. He says that the enrollment is unusually large at this season, including a full quota of local students and non-resident students from ten different states.

GEORGIA MAN IS RESCUED IN TIME

Resident of Woodstock Finds Himself Restored After His Physicians Failed

T. A. Lewis, who lives out on Route 2, Woodstock, Ga., was the victim of stomach troubles for a long time. He tried the treatments of many doctors. He tried all sorts of remedies. His sufferings were a serious handicap to his work.

Then he tried May's Wonderful Remedy. Just as it always does, the first dose proved to him what could be done for his ailment. He took the full treatment, then wrote:

"I have taken your wonderful remedy after suffering from stomach and intestinal ailments. Just as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, presence of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your drugstore now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Adv't.)"

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE IS DEAD IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—Sir William van Horne, for years prominent in transcontinental railroad development in Canada, died today in the Royal Victoria hospital here.

Sir William had been seriously ill at the Royal Victoria hospital for more than two weeks. He went there for an operation for abdominal abscess. The operation was successfully performed and for a time there were indications that he would recover. Grave symptoms, however, developed early this week.

Sir William van Horne was 72 years old. He was born in the United States and virtually from boyhood has been connected with railroad work.

Pathe's Week In Atlanta Movies

Drama, Comedy, Serials and Educational Films Booked for Thirteen Atlanta Theaters, With Filmdom's Brightest Stars in New Roles

As the months go by, producers of motion pictures are getting a better and better result, and the general public is showing a corresponding increase of interest in pictures. This week, for instance, thirteen Atlanta theaters have fairly outdone themselves in preparing their programs and at every one the average fan should find something to please him.

"Neal of the Navy," the Pathe-Journal serial which packed two Atlanta theaters last week, goes into its first chapter. Lillian Lorraine, who was not in the prologue, will be seen. "Neal" is at the Vaudeville and the Selects and the Strand, Monday and Tuesday. The Strand has Betty Nansen Monday and Tuesday in a new Fox feature, "The Song of Hate," with special music for the two days from "La Tosca."

Stars at the Alamo Two are Theda Bara, Viola Allen, Betty Nansen, Nance O'Neill, William E. Shay and Mary Miles Minter. The Victoria announces Mary Pickford in "In the Bishop's Carriage." Other stars are Vivian Martin and Clara Kimball Young. The Imperial quartet is booked for the entire week at the Alpha, and such stars as Hobart Henley, Grace Cunard and Ella Hall. The Georgian theater has "After the Ball" for two days, and later in the week "Souls Enchanted."

Besides "Neal of the Navy" at the Selects Monday, there are other good pictures at the residential theaters of Frank Montgomery, notably some fine features at the Regent. In West End Alpha patrons will get "Neal of the Navy's" prologue this week, and at the Bellwood theater Mutual dramas and comedies are booked.

Among the good pictures of the week at the Savoy is a howling comedy in which Marie Tempest is the star. The Alamo One also offers some great comedies, including Charlie Chaplin and Keystone specialties. Among the Grand's pictures are "The Case of Becky," starring Blanche Sweet, and Octavia Handworth in "The Great Ruby."

BETTY NANSSEN AT STRAND IN "THE SONG OF HATE." Patrons of the Strand theater will have a rare treat this week and the wishes of the most exacting will be fully satisfied for every feature booked is a recognized stage success and each picture two or more of the greatest stars of the screen world. Monday and Tuesday Betty Nansen, the actress who speaks with her eyes, will be seen in her latest specialty, "The Song of Hate," which is based upon a play by the late John Galsworthy. This reveals a story singularly well adapted to the dramatic talents of Miss Nansen, who was last seen in this theater in the Wm. Fox production, "Should a Mother Tell." "The Song of Hate" mixes and scorching like an acid the fruitless of our modern civilization and tells a story that will linger long in the memory of every one who sees it.

Wednesday and Thursday the idol of all the ladies of the world, Frances Blenheim, will be seen in his latest great production, "The Silent Voice." This is a picture of Otto Skinner's great stage success of the same name based on the story by Governor Morris, "The Man Who Played God." Mr. Blenheim receives splendid support from Marguerite Shaw.

Friday the second of the Pathe God Roper series, "Vin Wireless," is booked for one day. This is an adaptation of the well known play of the same name and can be truly called a "massive" production. Bruce McKim, the great Broadway favorite is the leading man and plays opposite the young girl, Gail Kane.

"NEAL OF THE NAVY" AGAIN AT VAUDETTE THEATRE MONDAY. Last Monday the Vaudeville theater was packed to its doors from beginning to closing time when the first installment of "Neal of the Navy" was shown. A greater crowd, if such were possible, is likely to see the second installment of the great Pathe-Journal serial tomorrow.

With beautiful Lillian Lorraine and William Courtleigh in the leading roles, "Neal of the Navy" is a drama of the sea, the season for the lost diamond and the love of a man for a maid. The prologue, the story of two young men orphaned by the Pacific disaster, was shown last Monday, and tomorrow the real action will start.

Tuesday the Vaudeville has a program which includes a two-reel Majestic drama, "His Great Angel," starring Charles Brockwell, and Charles Gray, and "Helen's Babies," the famous comedy pictured by Tanqueray. "Seeing America First" and "Keeping Up With the Joneses," will also be shown Tuesday.

"The Man From Oregon" a five-part Mutual Masterpicture, is at the Vaudeville Wednesday. Clara Williams, Howard Hickman and other stars. Thursday the picture, the theme of which is the expose of a band of hold-up artists seeking to capture the passage of a railway land grab bill.

May Allison and Harold Lockwood, two favorites of the Pathe-Journal, are in "The Great Question," a three-reel American drama at the Vaudeville theater. "The Diamond From the Sky" is this Friday.

CHAPLIN AND KEYSTONE AT THE ALAMO NO. 1. Charlie Chaplin in some screen comedies, a number of Keystone humorists and Mutual dramas of the best, are on the bill this week at the Alamo.

Keystones are booked for Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Charlie Chaplin is in the Monday Keystone. Wednesday's is a two-reel, "The Battle of Ambrose and Walrus," starring Max Swain, Chester Conklin and other favorite funny men. Thursday's Keystone is "A Home Breaking Hound," and Saturday another Chaplin-Keystone will be shown.

"Dusie, the Graceful Life Guard," is another ripping comedy that will be screened as well as the Chaplin film Monday. On the same day are booked

SOME OF THE WEEK'S STARS AND SCENES. Number One is a scene from "After Dark," at the Alamo Two, Tuesday. Number Two is Octavia Handworth in "The Great Ruby," Grand, Wednesday and Thursday. Number Three is Harold Lockwood in "The Great Question," Vaudeville, Thursday. Number Four is Betty Nansen in "The Song of Hate," Strand, Monday and Tuesday. Number Five is a scene from "Souls Enchanted," Georgian, last three days of week.

Keystones are booked for Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Charlie Chaplin is in the Monday Keystone. Wednesday's is a two-reel, "The Battle of Ambrose and Walrus," starring Max Swain, Chester Conklin and other favorite funny men. BLANCHE SWEET AT GRAND

ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

Three great feature pictures, all bordering on the sensational and astounding in thrills, while clean and wholesome, are the offering at the Grand for this week.

Monday and Tuesday Blanche Sweet appears in "The Case of Becky," a Paramount feature in which one is carried from the highest society into the factory and by the same character.

"The Great Ruby," the Lubin release of the V-L-S-E, with Octavia Handworth in the leading role, is booked for Wednesday and Thursday. This big production has more thrilling incidents than seen in any previous picture, some of the scenes being so startling in their realism that one will surely find wonder and amazement. Of course a love theme runs through the story of the fight for the great jewel, but this is not brought to the forefront so strongly as the struggle for possession of the great ruby.

With one of the most remarkable exhibitions of the art of make-up ever presented on the screen, Cyril Maude, in the "Peer Gynt," the Paramount release for Friday and Saturday. One of the most beautiful scenes of the story which made Henrik Ibsen famous in the five beautiful women who personify the five dramatic love episodes. The settings are magnificent, and the whole while the story goes straight to the heart.

GEMS FROM TOSCA FOR PATRONS OF THE STRAND

The Strand orchestra, under the direction of Percy Lynn, has arranged a fine musical program for this week.

Monday and Tuesday, when "The Song of Hate" is screened, the orchestra will play selections from La Tosca, the opera on which the play is based.

Last week, during the showing of "Destiny" or "The Soul of a Woman," the attractiveness of the picture was much augmented when Miss Katherine Bruler, daughter of Manager Hanna Bruler, sang "The Rosary." Similar features have been arranged for the coming week.

"A Hunting Scene," by Baccaloni, is the concert number. Wednesday and Thursday: selections from "La Boheme," Friday, and ballet music from "Faust."

CLOSE UPS

NEWSPAPER SUBSCRIBERS of The Journal are seen to see "Neal of the Navy." The Halcyon theater of that city has booked the Pathe serial.

MRS. E. W. STEWART, one of the most finished musicians in Atlanta, goes to the Grand Monday to play the big photo-play there. She is an expert in the operation of these wonderful instruments, and will prove a popular addition to the already popular movie house. Mrs. Stewart has been ill for some time, but has fully recovered.

THE REORGANIZED MUTUAL COMPANY will release for some of the most famous films. Some of the brands which make up the new Mutual program are American Film company, Boston Jungle and Film company, Gaumont company, David Howell production, Mustang film company, Reliance and Thanhouser. The pictures will release locally through the Mutual branch in Atlanta, of which Charles E. Kessnich is manager.

THE SECOND of the Pathe Gold Rooster, "Via Wireless," was shown at a private exhibition last week, and versatile as the motion picture camera is, it seems to have been taken most heavily in the scenes of "Via Wireless." What has been made out of "Via Wireless" might well stand as a monument to any producer and no matter what the past performance of George Fitzmaurice may be, his reputation will be safe for a long time to come.

FOR THE BENEFIT of out-of-town exhibitors who wish to get a line on releases before booking them in their theaters, The Journal will give a brief review every Sunday on this page of some good picture that was seen at a local theater during the previous week. To-day "The Galloper," the Pathe play which was seen at the Strand Friday, is reviewed.

"THE WOMAN NEXT DOOR" With Irene Fenwick in the title role was the program offered the patrons of The Strand yesterday. "The Woman Next Door" is a George Kleine production released by the new Kleine-Edison Feature Film company. Photo-play enthusiasts always expect rare quality from a production carrying the Kleine trademark and in "The Woman Next Door" their expectations are more than fully met. The picture is well connected and clearly told; one never loses the thread for an instant, so that attention can be centered on the important features of the production.

WEST END PAINS WILL SEE "SAMSON" AT THE ALHAMBRA

Continuing its policy of booking big feature films, the Alhambra theater in West End will offer its patrons Monday and Tuesday "Samson," the Fox film feature in which William Farnum is the star.

"Samson" is not a Biblical play, but a story of titanic forces in Wall Street, the money god, and a man whose love for the girl of his heart is equalled only by his stormy struggle to keep above in the world of men.

"The Unsuspected Isles" is another big feature of the week at the Alhambra. It will be shown Wednesday. Fania Marloff is the star of this three-part serial. Two comedies, "Fania's Prisoner" and "Over and Back," will also be shown Wednesday.

The Alhambra will show the first installment of "Neal of the Navy" Thursday and every Thursday thereafter will book this Pathe-Journal serial. A good drama and a good comedy will also be shown Thursday.

"The Stronger Man," a Romance drama, and "The Mother of Her Dreams," a Thanhouser production, are on Friday's bill. "The Spirit of Adventure," an American drama, is the big feature Saturday.

PICKFORD, MARTIN, FENWICK AND OTHER STARS AT VICTORIA. Mary Pickford is at the Victoria theater Monday in the Famous Players' production, "The Bishop's Carriage," based on the novel by Miriam Michelson, which created a sensation when published several years ago.

"In the Bishop's Carriage" is a thrilling romance of the underworld in which Mary Pickford takes the part of a crook who, the beautiful partner of a crook who is a refugee from justice.

Tuesday at the Victoria is "Little Miss Brown," a World Film feature, starring the beautiful and dainty actress, Vivian Martin. The picture is a delightful blend of comedy and drama and gives Miss Martin rare opportunity to display her charming personality.

The George Kleine comedy, "The Commuters," is at the Victoria Wednesday, with Irene Fenwick in the leading role. "The Commuters" is a five-act rollicking story of suburbanites who return home rather illuminated, bearing in tow the excitable director of an Italian restaurant.

Clara Kimball Young is at the Victoria Thursday in "Hearts in Exile," World Film's sensational Russian war drama. Friday's picture is "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde," starring that prime favorite, Lionel Barrymore.

Ben L. Tugger, Jack Deveraux, John Davidson, Frank Bolcher, Thomas Modell, and others are names long familiar to theater-goers. The company is so well engaged at Lake Samama where the first scenes of "The Sentimental Lady" are being made.

"THE GALLOPER" A PLAY ABOUNDING IN REAL FUN

"The Galloper," as produced by Pathe and presented at the Strand, is a comedy in which real humor has been produced without resort to the slapstick or ancient stage devices. The director, Donald McKenzie, has grasped the fact that logic and consistency are not enemies of real humor and the arm of coincidence is not stretched beyond the point usually found necessary in farce on the spoken stage.

Clifton Crawford proves himself a screen actor of rare excellence and his comedy "gets across" with telling effect every time.

One sees the hounded war correspondent start for Greece on the same steamer with the pretty nurse and the idle millionaire, who has decided on another trip to relieve his ennui; sees the millionaire fall in love with the nurse, and impersonate the war correspondent in order to follow her to the front; and also sees him fall heir to the little annoyances which followed the real correspondent, such as a divorced wife, an assistant fiancée and a small squad of Greek officers anxious to fight a series of trifling duels. And, of course, the happy ending.

The settings have been carefully arranged and the "atmosphere" is correct.

With a theme as unusual as it is startling, "Mortman," the great Vitagraph feature of the V-L-S-E, is in many respects one of the most remarkable pictures ever shown on the screen.

A new science in surgery is the basis of the most wonderful pieces of photography yet seen on the screen.

The film is in every foot of the film and the most astute cannot conceive of the finale until the last ten feet of the film, which the director has made to this one of the most startling.

Sales Checked in Cotton Markets

Week-End Realizing Was Promoted by the Favorable Weather and the Usual Tendency Toward Reaction After Such a Good Advance

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The cotton market recovered a good part of yesterday's reaction during today's early trading, but again encountered heavy selling and prices gradually eased off with December selling down $0.59 to $10.45, and with the general list closing steady net 2 points lower to 2 points higher.

Relatively firm cables, reports that the firmer tone of raw material had stimulated the demand for cotton goods and yarns, and the continued firmness of southern spot markets late yesterday probably accounted for a renewal of active Wall street and commission house buying at the opening. Predictions of a prominent southwestern operator that prices would ultimately sell much higher, may also have encouraged scattering demand, while in some quarters there appeared a disposition to eliminate questions of international politics from calculations as to the course of the market.

First prices were firm at an advance of 10 to 12 points, and the active months soon sold 13 to 14 points higher with October advancing to $10.25 and January to $10.77. Buying orders seemed to be pretty well supplied on this bulge, however, and the market later turned easier under weak realizing which was probably promoted by the favorable weather in the south and the usual tendency toward reaction after such advances as the market has experienced during the past week.

October contracts sold off to $10.10 in the late trading, while reaction carried January down to $10.62, or 15 points below the high level of the morning. Closing prices were a point or two up from the lowest on most positions.

A crop report published before the opening made the condition on September 4, 69.5 comparing with the government's condition of 69.2 as of August 25. Southern selling of October here was attributed to liquidation of hedges accompanying the purchase of actual in the southern markets.

Port receipts today 18,728 bales; season 277,439; exports 12,860; season 232,893; stock 719,461.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.
(By Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—Cotton had a quiet but steady tone today. Trading was not in large volume and much of it was to even up commitments over the week end. Realizing by long's help the market within bounds on the upturns. In the early trading prices were 10 to 12 points over yesterday's close but for a while offerings were heavy and the more active months were sent down to within 1 to 2 points of yesterday's close.

Cables were much better than due and stimulated the early buying. More or less nervousness was displayed over the political situation and fear of unfavorable able developments over Sunday increase the desire of longs to liquidate. The weather map was considered favorable temperatures being seasonable and no rain of consequence was reported in the belt, but crop accounts continued in bullish vein and the weather informatio

The rise of 13 points in local spot prices helped steady the market toward the closing.

SAVANNAH.—There will be a larger number of debutantes next season than there have been before for several seasons. The young girls who will make their bow into society will be Miss Margaret Ellis, Miss Valencia Knox, Miss Nana Hull, Miss Alice Battey, Miss Julia Leford, Miss Jessie Dixon, Miss Ellen Carter, Miss Mary Granger, Miss Mary Osborne, Miss Rachel Berry, Miss Beatrice Lambdin, Miss Bernice Munford and Miss Ruth Ely.

This year Easter comes about three weeks later than last year, falling on April 21. Judging from the number of parties which will be given in honor of these debutantes, it looks as if the coming season will be a very gay and brilliant one.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mercer, Jr., who left last Monday for Kirkwood, Mo., were guests of honor at a pleasant little supper Thursday evening at Bannan Lodge. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Mercer, the party included Miss Alice Battey, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, Miss Florence Cann, Mr. John Hay, Mr. T. A. Bryson, Jr. and Mr. John Stevens.

Mr. Spencer P. Sizer has issued invitations to the marriage of his daughter, Eleanor Buchanan, to Mr. Charles Andrew Doolittle, Jr., on Saturday afternoon, September 25, at 4 o'clock at Trinity church, Lenox. Miss Buchanan is the sister of the bride's maid of honor and only attendant and Mr. Doolittle's brother, Mr. Eben Doolittle, will be his best man. There will be six or eight ushers. The marriage ceremony will be performed by the Rev. William Wood, rector of Trinity church. A reception at the bride's cottage "Oscola house" will immediately follow the church ceremony.

The informal card party given Tuesday afternoon by Miss Agnes O'Brien at her home on Peachtree street was a pretty compliment to Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, who leaves on Sunday for Belmont, N. C., to attend school at the Sacred Heart convent. There were three tables of five hundred, the players including, besides Miss Sullivan, Miss Loretta Hearn, Miss Margaret Corbin, Miss Bernadette Lucille Gleason, Miss Mary Rockwell, Miss Gertrude Williams, Miss Mary Horrobin, Miss Margaret Nelson, Miss Elizabeth Grayson, Miss Annie Laurie Connor and Miss Rose Mary Fitzgerald.

Surrounded by much simplicity and interest, the most, the Misses Margaret O'Connell and Mr. John Thomas Roman was solemnized Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock, at the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist, the Rev. James Kane officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Marie K. Brown as maid of honor, and only attendant, and Mr. Joseph J. Koss acted as Mr. Roman's best man.

The bride wore her traveling gown, a tailored suit of dark blue and white, with a touch of gold and silver, a corsage bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor had a hat to match. She wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Immediately after the ceremony the bride's brother, Mr. J. C. O'Connell, entertained the guests at a luncheon at the hotel. The bride and groom left for New York and the Catskill mountains.

A very charming compliment to Miss Agnes Sheehan, whose marriage to Mr. Thomas O'Connell took place Wednesday evening, was the miscellaneous show given by Miss Virginia Jones, who gave in her honor last Thursday evening. Quantities of lovely pink roses and ferns were used to adorn the house, the table having for its centerpiece a chrysanthemum, in center of which was a vase of white roses fringed with fern. Each guest was presented with a tiny pink basket filled with pink and white mints. This color motif was also carried out in the room. Miss McKenna's guests included Miss Sheehan, Miss Marie LaBache, Miss Susan Ryan, Miss Margaret LaBache, Miss Lucille McKenna, Miss Gussie Maler, Miss Margaret McKenna, Miss Carr, Miss W. D. Brown, Miss Helen Sheehan, Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, Miss Bessie Haines and Miss John Buchanan. Assistant, Miss McKenna in serving were Mrs. W. T. Deorde and Mrs. Kate Concoran.

VISITOR OF THE PAST WEEK

—Photograph by Stephenson Studio.

During her visit to Miss Marion Stearns, Miss Long, who is a pretty member of the college set of Greensboro, N. C., has been delightfully entertained at a series of informal affairs.

To Bridal Party

Mrs. Marion Williamson was hostess at an informal dinner party Saturday evening at her home in West End, in compliment to Miss Carol Chase Dean, of Gainesville, and Mr. Frank Martin Sprattin whose marriage will be solemnized Wednesday evening, September 23.

The central decoration of the prettily appointed table was a graceful arrangement of pink and white roses and ferns. The guests included Miss Dean, Miss Mary Lucy Turner, Miss Gladys Payne, Mr. Frank Sprattin, Mr. Elias Trowbridge and Dr. Cosby Swanson.

Beautiful Garden Party

The brightly illuminated lawn had small tables arranged beneath the trees and a large central table held the birthday cake embossed in pink roses and topped with burning tapers, one for each year.

Miss Elizabeth Savage out of the ring, Miss Lela Johnson, the dimes and Miss Annie Johnson, the thimble. The decorations of the living room, reception hall and other rooms where the guests assembled were adorned with pink roses and mosses.

A feature of the evening was a musical program and selected recitations and those taking part were Mrs. D. E. Walker, Miss Henrietta Key, Miss Maybelle Dean, Mrs. Effie Williams, Mrs. William Talley and Mrs. John Hardin.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. P. McGraw, of Blacksburg; Mrs. J. E. Walker, Mrs. W. L. Rogers, Mrs. E. E. Lowe, Mrs. George H. Stevenson, of Decatur; Mrs. Mary Edmondson, Mrs. R. H. Shaw, Mrs. W. Dalney, of Decatur; Mrs. Effie Williams, Mrs. J. M. Wilson, Mrs. O. Frank Blodgett, Mr. John M. Green, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Shaw, Mrs. O. Blodgett, Mrs. Mary Edmondson, Mrs. Robinson and family, Miss Nora Flunkett, Mrs. L. A. Dabney, Mr. J. B. Stowall, Mr. R. H. Corfer and Mr. J. E. Major.

Miss Nell Rogers, Miss Margaret Talley, Miss Annie Johnson, Miss Estelle Gardner, Miss Letell Shaw and Miss Helen Sutton served punch.

Over a hundred guests called during the evening.

Pretty Children's Party

A pretty event of the past week was the children's party given by little Miss Mary Jo Bailey Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents on Juniper street.

Games and merry contests were a feature of the afternoon and were played on the wide veranda of the home. Little Miss Margaret Maloney won the prize, which was a pretty souvenir of the occasion. Ices were served from a table decorated with pink roses and pink tapers burning under rose pink shades, and there was a novelty at each child's place.

Mrs. Peel to Lecture

On the West Mrs. William Lawson Peel will lecture Friday evening in the ball room of the Andley hotel on the wonders of the west. Colonel and Mrs. Peel, who have recently returned from an extended western tour during which they visited many points of interest out of the road of ordinary travel, brought with them some very handsome pictures and these will be used to illustrate the lecture.

On account of the limited space in the ball room a small admission of 25 cents will be charged for the lecture.

A cordial invitation is extended every one interested in both expositions and the development of the west to attend this address, which will be one of the interesting events of the week.

Parties for Visitors

Miss Dorothy Watson was the hostess at a spend-the-day party one day last week in honor of the Misses Florence, Sara and Gene Askew, of Newnan, the guests of Miss Virginia and Miss Esther Cherry.

The guests were Misses Virginia Woolley, Pointer Donaldson, Jessie Mayfield.

Miss Virginia Cherry entertained at a heart dice party Tuesday evening at her home on North Jackson street in honor of her guest, Miss Florence Askew.

The house was decorated in ferns and red carnations, and the color scheme was carried out in the lace.

Those invited to meet Miss Askew were Miss Frances Harwell, Miss Magdalene England, Miss Virginia Adams, of Kentucky, Miss Thelma Ewing, Mr. Bartow Warwick, Mr. Roland Bird, Mr. Maurice McGarry, Mr. M. C. McPherson, Mr. Marcus Watson, Mr. Dewey Chesswell and Mr. James Kyle.

For Mr. and Mrs. Davidson

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Mueller entertained at dinner Saturday evening at the Hotel Anelay. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Davidson, Miss Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. George Linder, Miss Margaret Hecht, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Kraft, Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Mueller.

Those present were Miss Virginia Woolley, Pointer Donaldson, Jessie Mayfield.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

WITH the advent of autumn comes the exodus of the college set, to resume their studies for another winter. Some seek the cosmopolitan atmosphere of New York and the larger colleges of the east, while others prefer to pursue their studies in education in their native state. Among the large number who will leave at an early date for New York are Miss Marian Stearns and Miss Nina Hopkins, who will attend the Deverell school; Miss Janet Hatcher and Miss Gladys Byrd will go to the Scoville school, while Miss Mary Ross, Miss Anne Patterson and Miss Marian Butt will enter Wellesley college. Miss Eloise Robinson will return to Notre Dame in Baltimore, Miss Frances Winship will go to Mount Vernon seminary and Miss Rebekah Hill to the National Park seminary in Washington, D. C. Among those who will study in Virginia are Miss Dorothy Traynham and Miss Laura Sawtell who will return to Randolph Macon, Miss Mae Crichton, Miss Margaret McCarty, Miss Marian Dunston, Miss Grace Bloodworth, Miss Catherine Giddings, Miss Nell Choate, and Miss Frances Downman who will go to Hollins college, Miss Mary Stewart who will attend Sweetbriar college and Miss Harriet Bayley who goes to the Southern seminary at Roanoke. Miss Nellie Dodd will return to St. Mary's in Raleigh, N. C., and the Misses Isabelle, Janice and Rosalyn Amorous to St. Genevieve's convent in Asheville, while Miss Emily West, Miss Frances Broyles, Miss Mary McCleskey, Miss Harriet McCollough and Miss Hallie Crawford are among the young girls who will attend the Lucy Cobb Institute in Athens.

Interesting Wedding Plans

The marriage of Miss Carol Chase Dean, of Gainesville, and Mr. Frank Martin Sprattin will be an interesting event of Wednesday, September 23, at "Hillcrest," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Henry Dean.

The bride will be attended by her mother, Mrs. Herbert Henry Dean, as matron of honor and Mrs. Latimer Rudolph and Mrs. Sidney Smith, as maids in attendance.

Miss Sadie Robinson will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Helen Dean, Miss Dorothy Dean, Miss Mary Lucy Turner, Miss Louise Law, Miss Margaret Barker and Miss Gertrude Williams, of Gainesville.

Mr. Eugene Harrington will be best man and the groomsmen will be Mr. Julian Thomas, Mr. Palmer Johnson, Mr. Carl Ranspeck, Mr. Ernest Ranspeck, Mr. James Rudolph, Mr. Claud Burnett and Mr. Lester Hosch, of Gainesville.

Heart Dice Party

Full Value Exchange Contract on Diamonds

All Solitaire Diamonds sold by us are exchangeable at any time at the full purchase price toward a larger one.

Under this plan one can buy a small stone and by making an exchange from time to time own a diamond as large and as fine as one could want and at the same time not feel their monthly outlay.

We have but one price and that marked in plain figures on each article. Even though our integrity was not so thoroughly known, this plan of marking out merchandise would be an assurance that you were being charged the same as if you were paying all cash.

We not only make diamond buying easy, but in buying from us you have the assurance of satisfaction—you have something that is recognizably the best.

About Wedding Invitations

These absolutely necessary articles for the wedding occasion are subject to criticism more than any other feature.

Even the wedding dress is not scrutinized so closely as the invitation, for the latter goes into the hands of strangers as well as of every invited guest and is apt to be considered the forerunner of the style which characterizes the wedding.

These days, most people are well informed concerning the requisites of stylish invitations.

The material of which the envelopes and sheets are made should be of approved shade of white, the shading should be those that fashion has most recently decreed and the engraving should be done by artists whose reputation insures the highest degree of skill. All these requirements are met in the extensive plant and thirty years' experience of the J. P. Stevens Engraving Co. This house has established a high standard of product known all over the United States; the imprint of its name upon an envelope is a guarantee that the invitation is of correct form, latest style and finest quality.

If you are particularly interested send to this house for samples and prices which will be sent free of charge in a sealed package. Address J. P. Stevens Engraving Co., 47 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Georgia.

Here Are New Dresses & Suits

ONLY two of the many styles are sketched—a suit at $50, and a dress at $25. Each presents (as much as any one article can present), the true trend of fall fashions. But the entire collection should be viewed to obtain the correct ideas—to purchase with full knowledge of the various styles.

The Suit Pictured at $50

Of broadcloth, wool velours and mannish all-wool materials. They show both long, short and medium coats and the latter being most favored. Checked velvet Sport Suits are also here. Trimmed in a variety of ways—with fur, buttons, velvet or self collars, etc. Very smart and well tailored.

Newest Dresses, Priced $25

$25 is a good, staple price to pay for a dress. At that figure perfect style, good materials and splendid workmanship can be combined to a wonderful degree. Gorgeously trimmed dresses are fashion's decree for the coming season. Made up of silk and wool materials, crepe de chine, georgette, taffeta, serge and all charming.

Sport Coats $11.50 to $29.50

The short Sport Coat is first of all very stylish—it lends an air of smartness for fall wear that is hard to duplicate in the longer models. Mixtures and plaids are represented in these garments at $11.50 to $29.50. Larger coats of light weight, warm materials at up to $45.

Other Suits at $16.75

For young ladies leaving for school these suits are very good. The colors are navy, brown, green, midnight and Hague blue, and materials are serges, gabardines and poplins. Military braid and velvet collars form the trimmings.

Art Needlework Section---Newness!

NEWNESS—a word that describes at once the freshness and the complete attractiveness of the articles that have been gathered here. Everything for gifts, home decorations, and general wear will be found.

Stamped Kimonos, Sacques and Caps

They all match, and are stamped in a new, simple Lazy Daisy design for embroidery. Soft quality, pink, blue or white cotton crepe. Kimonos, $1; Sacques, 50c; Boudoir Caps, 25c.

Stamped Turkish Towels

The sizes are small, but the qualities are excellent. Stamped in designs to match bordered ends, which are of pink or blue. At 50c, a large size, Turkish Towel, stamped with a shield for embroidering initials. Pink or blue borders.

$1 Silk Hosiery 75c

PURE thread, full fashioned Silk Hosiery, with lisle soles and tops and reinforced heels. Colors of tan, battleship gray, putty, Russian green, blue and brown. $1.00 Hosiery bought special—pair 75c.

Maline ruff at $2 to $4.50 yard. White, black and white, white and purple and white and navy are the colors.

Fichus, of Georgette crepes, plain nets and shadow laces. Colors of white and black and white combined. 75c to $1.50 yard.

Georgette Crepe Collars, with plain hemstitched, lace and embroidered edges. Roll, military and Quaker shapes. 50c to $2.50.

Crepe de Chine Ties in solid colors, novelty stripes, polka dots, flowered effects and graduated colors. Low priced at 25c.

Bon Ton CORSETS

THE well dressed woman of today keeps posted on corset styles. It is imperative that she should, for the newest gown or the most stylish suit loses much of its good looks when worn over an ill-fitting and out-of-fashion corset.

Bon Ton corsets have the style and the comfort demanded by sensible women. The entire showing of fall is here at this store exclusively, and you are invited to examine the newest. Higher bust, slightly shorter skirt and the military curve are features.

Our expert fitters are at your service in solving your problems, and Miss Brown, the manager of this department has just returned from New York and Chicago. She will be pleased to greet you.

Newest Laces

Narrow Venice edges, worth 35c a yard at 19c a yard. 36-inch cream and white allover shadow laces worth 1c at 59c yard.

Narrow linen Torchon and cluny laces at 6c yard, worth 10c and 12 1/2c.

Travelers' Aid Work

At the regular meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Missionary Association, held at the second Wednesday of this month, at the Central Congregational church, reports from the Travelers' Aid agents at the two railroad stations, showed a total of 500 persons given aid during the month of August. Of this number 20 were directed to lodgings, and 33 to good rooms with board. 33 were sent to the Young Woman's Christian Association, both office and home, where they were given such assistance as was needed. 23 went to the Volunteers of America, 3 were carried to the hospital, 10 were given food, 1 food supplied to 10, who were hungry and penniless. Five babies, some old and feeble women and women, many strangers and ignorant of the ways of a city, all helped.

There are still a number of churches in the city which do not contribute regularly to this work, probably because they do not realize its importance as well as its needs. The president, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, or other members of the board, will gladly respond to requests to speak to any club or society. The fee for annual membership is two cents, and a long list of the fee. The semi-annual meeting will be held with the Dr. H. H. Method, on the 18th of October, the program to be announced next month.

Vandy Football Men Take First Week's Workout

Squad of Volunteers Do Early Practice on Dudley Field, Formal Call Will Not Be Made Until Sept. 20—First Game Sept. 25

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 11.—Football practice began at Vanderbilt this week about a dozen men from last year's squad and two of the most promising new candidates for the team coming out on Dudley field daily for a light workout.

All doubts as to Rip King's intention to leave Vandy were dispelled when the husky fullback of prep school fame went out with the other men last Monday. King, who is now getting into the promise, was the other recruit to offer his services at the first call of the Commodore.

The old men out for the initial week of practice were Captain Cohen, end; Putnam, guard; Phillips, guard; Chester, end; Curry, quarterback; Reyer, guard; Ligon, tackle; Cody, tackle; and Turner, halfback.

Every man of the vet is in almost perfect condition from hard work during the summer, and little extra training will be needed to get this bunch ready for the waistline.

Vanderbilt's first scheduled game is with the Middle Tennessee State Normal school, of Murfreesboro, which will find a team to Nashville September 25, three days before the university opens. This school cleaned up with all of the larger prep schools in the state last year, and gave a good account of itself in a number of games with the smaller colleges of this section.

KING PUTS WELL. The only outstanding feature of the first week of practice was the punting of "Rip" King. Coming here with a fine up as a kicker, King is now getting into the sixty-five yards to his boots pretty regularly. King is now getting into the game, watching him with a broad grin on his countenance. If King can kick consistently in the early games for the Commodore, his place on the team is almost made.

The Commodore will have to do the punting since Skiles has left. In the event King should fail to make good, Chester will have to do the punting for Vandy. In emergencies in the past "Yunk" has done the punting, and can usually get good distance in order his kicks. He is now in getting into the game, however, and it was one of his punts being blocked that lost last fall.

Chester is going to have some fierce competition for his position at left end this year, with Zerkow, Beams, Adams, Sam Chester and Moore hankering for that place on the varsity. Moore, one of the strongest bidders, however, one of being considered favorably for the quarterback job.

Moore comes here with a good reputation as an end on Georgia Tech. As Coach McGuinn needs a quarterback, worse than he needs end or anything "scrappy" is going to get a good season does look to stand a fine chance of clinching the place. He is a fine runner, and a fighter from the ground up. He is a quick thinker also, and has shown several times on the baseball field last spring.

As well as a last resort will Coach McGuinn "Rabbit" Curry at quarterback again this year. Curry is a halfback, and every man, they say, the weight for this position. There is every probability now that McGuinn will run him there, as it was shown time after time last year that he was out of place at quarterback. Curry lacks the leadership to run a big machine like McGuinn's.

Northcutt and Zerkow will compete with Moore for the quarterback position, however, and both are likely men. Northcutt ran the team part of the time last year, notably in the final game of the season against Sewanee, when he played a pretty game. He has a fine head for running the team, and is very bit as fast as "Rabbit" Curry.

HALFBACKS ARE WEAKE. At halfback Coach McGuinn looks to be weakest, and unless he can bring in some more new men for one of the places the team will be handicapped there as it was last year. King may be used at one of the halves if another acceptable fullback can be found. Curry will be a splendid man to alternate with some other, but could hardly stand the gauntlet for an entire season. Turner may develop into a first-class man and be given one of the halves, though last fall he showed only flashes of what he can do. Beams is a good reserve halfback but nothing more. To date this is the entire squad of halfbacks in eight.

It is stated as a fact, however, by those on the inside with the coaches and old players that new material of which there are on the outside now known is coming to Vandy when school opens. It is Coach McGuinn's plan this year to give the new men just as little publicity as possible as he believes that several of his best youngsters in recent years have been spoiled by the spotlight.

Practice will continue through the coming week as it did last, with only early volunteers coming out. On September 20 Coach McGuinn will make a loud call for all candidates and take command of the troops in person. With the university opening two weeks later than usual this year much of the training and grilling of the players must be done before the men plunk down their pens for a year's learning.

Club Plays for Tennis Title

The annual tennis tournament for the championship of the club will start at East Lake Monday, when twenty seven enthusiastic tennis members will start the first round of match play. This tournament is one of the big sporting events of the season at East Lake, and is always check full of exciting tennis throughout.

Carleton Smith, the best player in the city, and also one of, if not the best in the south, has won this tournament for the past five years in a row, and if he wins this one, will win his second three year cup, establishing a record of six straight wins for a three year cup.

The doubles championship will be contested by seven teams. A three year cup is also offered the winners of this event. So far several teams have captured it one time, but so far no team has been able to win it more than once. Match play will start every afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is expected that the finals will be played next Saturday.

Sister pitches a winner for the St. Louis Browns one afternoon, then when he plays first base, right center, left field, or of course if owner Hughes should get a lead of coal in the morning Sister would have to put that in before dinner.

Team Tied in Doubles Play

In Battle for State Tennis Title Orr and Carter Win Two Sets and Lose Two to Grant and Thornton

The final match of the doubles round of the Georgia State tennis tournament at the Driving club was postponed until Monday due to the fact that darkness intervened in the match between Orr and Carter and Thornton for the cup with the two teams tied, both having one set.

The match, as far as it was played Saturday, was one of the best doubles affairs that has been staged locally in some time, and both teams played a great game of the net art.

When the match ended, they had both won two sets. Grant and Thornton took the first and third set, by scores of 6-1, and 6-4, while the second and fourth sets went to Orr and Carter by scores of 6-4, 6-2.

Grant and Thornton made a runaway of the first set, winning it in seven games. The first two games were hairy, but Grant and Thornton took the next five and the set.

At the start of the second affair, Orr and Carter played better tennis, and fighting hard took the set, 6-4. Grant and Thornton had the set 4-2, but the winners won the following three games and the set.

The third set was a repetition of the second, with both teams fighting hard. Grant and Thornton won the set in this set and won, with the count standing 4-2 against them, they won three games and the set.

After this set, the two teams took a brief rest. During this time, Ed and Jake proceeded to change their shirts, but in view of the way the next set resulted, they had better do it at the end of every set.

In this set, the fourth, they started strong and won the first five games, playing the older and more experienced opponents off their feet. At the end of the fifth game they relaxed somewhat, and Grant and Thornton won the next two. They won the eighth game and the set. Darkness here caused the referee to postpone the match until Monday.

After a conference, it was decided to stage the match over, playing the best three out of five rather than playing the one deciding set, which remains in this match.

The match Monday afternoon will start at 3:30. Harry Hallman won the consolation singles, defeating Stacy Thornton of Gadsden in the final round in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. Hallman was somewhat rusty game, and although Thornton made a sport in the last set, Hallman was hardly ever in danger of losing.

The ladies' singles was won by Miss Katherine Crandall who defeated Miss May O'Brien in the finals in three hard fought sets, 6-1, 5-6, 6-3. Throughout the match both players fought hard and several times in the last and deciding set, Miss O'Brien had Miss Crandall playing her best tennis.

Big Springs Wins LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 11.—Haynes pitched a wonderful game for Big Springs this afternoon against the Unity team of LAGRANGE, striking out thirteen men. The affair was closely contested throughout. Miller and Holaday, featured for Big Springs, each securing three hits out of four times at bat.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Big Springs . . . 000 010 12x—4 9 3 LAGRANGE . . . 000 001 20x—3 8 3 Battery: Allen and Chapman; Haynes and Burns.

Having been whipped 20 rounds on the nineteenth anniversary of his career as a fighter, Bat Nelson is now certain he can win back the lightweight title with a big machine like McGuinn's.

Northcutt and Zerkow will compete with Moore for the quarterback position, however, and both are likely men. Northcutt ran the team part of the time last year, notably in the final game of the season against Sewanee, when he played a pretty game. Fine Reports From Sewanee

Coach Cope Has Big Squad of First-Class Material on Hand—Players in Training Camp

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 11.—In making your pre-season choice of the 1915 football champions of Dixie don't overlook the purple Tigers of Sewanee. If reports which have emanated from the mountain lair of the Juncos are to be discounted as much as 25 per cent, Harris Cope's proteges still look like an even bet against anything in the field south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Very little has been heard so far concerning the Tigers' prospects, but following the Purple entertain the opinion that the silence which now prevails over the team is due to the fact that the team is so well equipped with material that the coaches are not yet ready to reveal the team's strength.

The censors on the mountain are deterring all dispatches, beyond doubt, but the fact that forty-five Tigers have been at work for the past three weeks is no longer denied, and among that group some of the finest football material that ever wore the royal purple is said to be found.

As a matter of fact Cope inherits a cracking good eleven from last season. The only varsity men who are missing from the 1914 machine are Tolley and Parker. Of this pair the all-southern quarter alone is a serious loss. Parker never proved to be a star, but Tolley was generally supposed to be.

Followers of the purple who are in a position to know assert that the shoes of the great Tolley are already filled and in addition that there is material on hand that will make a number of last year's regulars work like hicks to hold their own jobs. Lack of reserve material will not be one of Cope's worries this fall.

Reports received from Vanderbilt, Georgia and Auburn encourage Sewanee supporters in this neck of the woods as much as the proof of their own strength. Over at Nashville, McGuinn faces the task of building up a championship team, and at Auburn, Coach Green material; Georgia has lost Padlock and others; Mike Donahue at Auburn loses no less than seven regulars from last year's eleven.

Tech, Tennessee and the Tigers—these are destined to be the big three in southern football circles this fall, according to the outlook from the local angle. But Tech and Tennessee have their 1914 teams practically intact in addition to great deal of new material.

Tiger supporters are far from anxious, however, to change their chances for those of any other institution. In addition to having the greatest amount of material which he has possessed in some several years, Harris Cope this fall will have his henchmen in better condition. As before stated the entire squad has already been on three weeks and with Phillips on hand to aid the north Georgia wizard, the Tigers today would need but little advice notice to try open the season.

Easterners Win Special Match

Norris Williams, II, Defeat Champion Johnston—Pell and Behr Win Over McLoughlin and Bundy

FOREST HILLS, Sept. 11.—The eastern tennis players had a clean sweep in the final matches against the Pacific coast stars this afternoon, upsetting the contests between selections of the national championship tournament which ended on Wednesday. These special contests between selections of the far west and Atlantic coast players began in San Francisco in July and the final scores resulted in seven victories for the west against five for the east.

In the contest today, K. Norris Williams, 2nd, of Philadelphia, the 1914 singles champion, defeated William C. Johnston, of San Francisco, winner of this year's title, 4-6, 0-6, 6-4, 6-4. Clarence J. Griffin, of San Francisco, Johnston's partner in the 1915 doubles, was defeated by N. W. Niles, of Boston, who won 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

T. R. Pell and Karl H. Behr, both of New York, defeated Maurice R. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, and Thomas C. Bundy, of Los Angeles, three times champion of the United States, in a grueling five set match at 6-4, 8-10, 6-5, 4-6, 6-4.

The feature match was that between Williams and Johnston. The former champion, eliminated by the young San Franciscan in the semi-final round of the titular singles, came on the court prepared for revenge. Except in the second set he completely outplayed Johnston. The latter did not show the same fighting spirit that he did when he was winning his championship honors and was unable to cope with Williams; almost perfect games.

The doubles contest produced the most spectacular play of the day. The eastern and western pairs were evenly matched, and long rallies and brilliant strokes and placing shots combined with remarkable gets were frequent. Behr and Pell won the match in three sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Griffin was no match for Niles, with his fine assortment of shots and control of the ball.

Coach Spiegel Drills 'Noogans

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 11.—Sewanee and Georgia undoubtedly placed the University of Chattanooga on their 1915 schedules in the belief that the same condition for more important struggles later on. The Purple and the Red and Black are liable to find that they have made a dreadful mistake, however, before many more moons are passed.

The 1915 Moccasins are going to be a dangerous proposition for most any old eleven in the south this fall and don't you forget it. Coach Johnny Spiegel, he of Washington, D. C., who has coached some real all-southern material on hand and what is more it will be as well conditioned and coached as any in Dixie. The Moccasins, thirty strong, have just returned from their training camp on Walden's Ridge and the advent of real football weather will find them more than ready for the opening game.

Bankroll Mightier Than Scout in Landing New Help

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—This season the check book has played a far more important part than the baseball scout in obtaining talent desired by the various managers of major league clubs, and while a small army of "rookies" has been signed for try-outs, most of the real effort to strengthen the several outfits has been through trades or purchases.

In no other season in the history of the national pastime has there been so much swapping and bartering after the races for the pennants actually were started, and the manner in which stars of recognized ability have been bought and sold forever silences the one familiar statement that no owner could be persuaded to part with a really valuable player for mere cash after the season right up to date would indicate that the average team owner no longer is particularly interested in what those who patronize his ball park may think of any sales or trades he may make.

"Connie" Mack, now the commander in chief of the worst wreck in balldom, started the bargain sales when he sold "Eddie" Collins to the White Sox for $50,000. Collins is one of the most useful all-round players in the game today, and had been retained as a member of the Athletics, together with Barry and Murphy, who also were exchanged for coin, the Philadelphia team, which for years was the class of the baseball world, would not now be the subject for the gibes and jests of the "fans" generally.

Here is a list showing how a large number of the game's stars were shifted about over the baseball checkerboard for the 1915 season:

From the Athletics—Collins, to the White Sox, sale; Plank, to the St. Louis Browns, sale; Lajoie, to the Athletics, sale; Bender, to the Baltimore Reds, jumped when waivers were asked; Combs, to the Superbas, obtained through waiver; "Eddie" Murphy, to the White Sox, sale; Barry, to the Red Sox, sale; Shawkey, to the Yankees, obtained through waiver; and Pennock, to the Red Sox, obtained through waiver.

From the Quakers—Magee, to the Braves, trade; James, to the Tigers, sale; From the Indians—Lelund, to the White Sox, sale; Olson, to the Red Sox, sale; Lajoie, to the Athletics, sale; Johnston, to the Pirates, sale; From the Tigers—Gainer, to the Red Sox, sale; Pipp and Higley, to the Yankees, obtained through waiver; Jacobson, to the Browns, trade. From the White Sox—Roth, to the Athletics, trade. From the Cubs—Cheney, to the Superbas, trade. From the Superbas—Schultz, to the Cubs, trade.

Most any one could pick a team of certain pennant winners if they could make their choices from the foregoing list of shifted players.

Cobb tops the league in the number of hits made, as well as the number of runs scored. He has made 178 hits and scored 130 runs. George Burns, a teammate of Cobb and Crawford, leads in homers, with the modest total of 5.

The Tigers lead in team hitting with .269 against .265 for the Red Sox.

MAMAUX, SCORNE

BY BROWN HOLMES

When Albert Mannaux joined the Pittsburg Pirates he was called a "freshie guy." Now his "freshness" is called "spunk." The difference is that all he had then, as far as the players knew, was a lack of knowledge about himself. Now he is the leading pitcher in the league, with even Alexander trailing him.

Marty O'Toole cost the Pirates $22,500 and failed. Mannaux did not cost them a nickel. In fact, he forced himself to be a club.

After the youngster starred in college and semi-pro ball he argued Fred Clarke, Pirate manager, into letting him have a uniform and allowing him to practice with the team. He also induced him to go with him to the southern training trip in 1914.

When the club went north, Clarke arranged to send the youngster to Huntington, W. Va. Mamaux objected, say-

MAMAUX has pitched in 34 games, and hurled 230 innings. He has fanned 135 batsmen, and issued free passes to 78. Of the 34 games pitched he has been either credited with winning or charged with losing 27. Only seven defeats are chalked up against him. In the matter of averages of games won and lost he has a 6-point margin over Grover Alexander.

If there is a real feature to the battling records of the National league for the past week, it is the performance of Tommy Long, erstwhile Cracker, who is now a regular outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals. The Rabbit is now in third place in the race for hitting honors in the Toner league, only Fred Thompson and Ed Doyle, of the regulars, leading him.

But this isn't all. The Rabbit keeps on hitting home runs. He has already a game passed but what Tom smashed out an extra base hit. He has led the field in triples for some time, and it is almost sure that he will finish the season so. He is far ahead of the field with a total of 21 triples. He has also smashed out 19 doubles, and has stolen 17 bases for Manager Huggins. Larry Doyle, of the Giants, and Fred Luderus, of the Athletics, had a merry time in their tussle for the leadership. This week Doyle is on top with 17 bases, while Luderus has 16. A new star has come forward for Luderus. A new slugger, Bill Hinchman has moved out Doyle for the leadership in total bases. Hinchman has 15, while Luderus and Smith are tied for the leadership in doubles with 42 each.

Doyle is a fast runner. He keeps up his circuit sweating work. He has slammed out 21, including two hit the latter part of the past week. His drive Friday with the Athletics, was a grand slam. Doyle has never seen on the Phillies' field.

Rase running in the old league still has a lot to learn. He has 14 bases. Max Carey, with 34, tops the field. The Cardinals, with 26, lead in club hitting.

Hendryx Takes Longer Lead Over S. L. Batters

Pelican Outfielder Hitting .331 for Week Ending Wednesday--Thomas Proves Worth to Club--Moran Hitting Hard

If the batting feat in which the Pelicans indulged at the expense of Pitcher Jeff Holmquist and infielders Bauru Bauder and Flick, of the Gulf, has permitted them to get the lead, the Pelicans and present league leader, to boost his hitting figures for the past week, the star has batted in some ten or twelve points within the past week, and for games played, through Wednesday he is clubbing a good total, 330 runs. The Pelicans are sure he has shown all season long.

But where Hendryx is finding it easy to help his record, others are finding it going rough. Paul Peterson, who has pulled back up into the 300 division, and Pete Allison is still a bit over a mark. This pair with Hendryx are the only 300 hitters in the circuit. Hendryx, who has been in the lead in the mark, but he has left to join the Yankees. Bill Elwert who left two weeks ago has been in the lead in the mark up to the time he was shipped. A feature of recent development is the rapid progress of the young players. The third-sacker of the Pellicans has made Thomas just now leads the league in stolen bases and has been credited in the figures with 10, but has made another since they were compiled. The double-sacker of the team is Harry the double distinction of topping the league in doubles and triples. Roy has smashed 10 home runs and has 100 runs scored. Hendryx leads in the number of hits, total bases, and runs scored. He has made 102 runs, 150 hits, 100 runs

NEW PULLMAN CAR PROVES POPULAR WITH TRADE.

Pullman Junior, Five-Passenger Car.

The Pullman's Three-Passenger Roadster.

MR. L. L. STEVENSON, Sales Mgr.

There is a new car on the market, new in the sense that it has sounded a new note in motor car sales, and new in the sense that it offers heretofore unheard of values, distinctive values, at a price that is not believed to be duplicated by any standard motor car maker in the next year or two, to be conservative. This new car is the Pullman Junior, which is being displayed at 316-13 Peachtree street, the show rooms of the Pullman Southern Distributors, Inc.

When the Pullman Junior was first announced, motorists were skeptical. They knew the reputation of the Pullman manufacturers for distinctive motor cars. They knew the reputation of the old K models made by the Pullman Motor company and they didn't believe that such a car as was described in the first announcements could be made at such a low price as the Pullman Junior is selling for. But, to use the words of Sales Manager L. L. Stevenson, "they came, they saw, and they went away convinced."

The Pullman Southern Distributors, Inc., have the Southern territory, carload after carload of these new Pullman Juniors have come into Atlanta to supply the demand that was instantly created, once the new car was here. "Fifty cars a week is what we have averaged," said Mr. Stevenson yesterday afternoon, and as he said it he pulled down a large record book, saying: "Here's the orders for you to see that what I have stated is a fact."

Mrs. Stevenson is brimful and running over with facts about the new Pullman sensation, and he knows his car from start to finish. "I know absolutely that we have the biggest motor car value being offered in Atlanta or in the south today," said Mr. Stevenson yesterday, "and that's why I am so conscientiously pushing the sales of it. It is a car that will stand up admirably under any test that other higher priced cars undergo, and it will undergo even harder tests than many of the other higher priced cars."

Dealers all over the south are taking the Pullman agency on, and they are making record sales with it. It is a car that impresses one to start with, it is a good looking car, its lines are beautiful, and the substantial and comfortable qualities of it stand out at even a cursory inspection.

Rides Week in Non-Stop Auto

Fresno Newspaper Man Spends Solid Week in Maxwell Car Under Freak Test

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 11.—The feat of a Fresno newspaper man, in occupying continuously for a week, a seat as observer in a Maxwell "stunt" car, is put forward as a bold bid for a world's record and a prominent berth in history's hall of fame.

The car was the first of the new model shipped from Detroit to the manufacturer's representative in Fresno. In order to give the general public and the members of his selling organization the adjoining territory a view of the car, the dealer determined to put it on the road. To demonstrate the sturdy quality of the car, the hood was locked and sealed, and the run made a non-stop affair, under observation.

The Fresno Herald assumed charge of the trial and assigned Mr. Bergh, a member of its staff, to see it that the motor should neither be stopped nor touched for repair or adjustment.

Mr. Bergh fortified himself for the week by a good sleep and slid into his seat at the appointed moment—Saturday at noon. For all day Sunday and until Monday night he asked no relief. The Maxwell traveled continuously. On Monday night he was relieved for a few hours by a newspaper friend, it being expressly stipulated that no supplies were to be installed during Bergh's absence.

Back on the job Bergh stuck it out for twenty-four hours more. Now and then he would catch a few moments of rest but invariably a stop would find him wide-awake, ready to check any installation of supplies and keeping an eagle eye on the odometer. Most of his meals were eaten with the crew, in the car and while traveling the roads of Tulare and Kings county.

On Wednesday Bergh's employer offered him relief from the remainder of the trip but the observer's heart was in his work.

"I'm feeling fine," he declared, "I'm having the ride of a lifetime. Give up the seat? Not on your life! I'm going to be the first man in the world to ride a week in an automobile."

And so the run proceeded to its end. The car made repeated visits to Visalia, Hanford and other neighboring cities. Day and night over rough roads and over smooth-city pavements and country lanes, the Maxwell glided tireless and buoyant. Drivers were changed every four hours but Bergh rode on and on, lolling at ease in the deep cushions.

As the end of the week drew nearer, interest in the combined feat of the non-stop "Wonder Car" and the non-stop "Wonder Observer" steadily grew. To "Wonder Observer" steadily grew. To "Wonder Observer" steadily grew.

A big crowd saw the end of the run and cheered car and driver to the echo. Bergh took the final readings, denoting that the car had run over 2,000 miles, averaging better than twenty-six miles to the gallon of gasoline, and went over to the Herald office to turn in his story. He then bathed, ate a square meal and went to bed, complaining petulantly that the mattress seemed a bit hard when

Start Overland With Wireless

Startling Demonstration on Popular Car Made at Indiana State Fair

For the first time in the history of the automobile it has been demonstrated that a car can be started from a distance by means of the wireless telegraph.

This was proved at the Indiana State fair where the Model 38 Overland was started every five minutes by a wireless spark from the Overland headquarters in Indianapolis, five miles away.

A complete wireless outfit consisting of motor generator, transformers, relays and other paraphernalia was installed in the show windows of the city sales rooms. This was connected with an aerial on the roof of the building and by stepping the alternating current up from 110 volts to 16,000 volts the apparatus made it possible to send messages 300 miles.

The Overland car on exhibition at the fair grounds was fitted up with a receiving apparatus and the necessary automatic switches and relays for throwing on and off the electric current of the starter and magnet. An automatic switch was arranged so as to allow the car to run for forty-five seconds, after which the magnet was cut out. The operation of starting the car was repeated at five-minute intervals.

One of the most interesting features of the experiment was the fact that the entire operation of starting the car was accomplished without the aid of a human hand. A time switch, installed in connection with the wireless outfit in the city, controlled the entire operation.

From the time Governor Halston, of Indiana, put the car in operation the first time by touching a key at the sending station, until the last day of the fair, the starting and stopping of the car was taken care of automatically.

That the unique Overland exhibit at the fair attracted more than the usual attention was evidenced by the crowds of visitors who watched for the crackling spark, which was the signal for the car's motor to start going.

Gus Castle Off For Factory Trip

Gus Castle, manager for the Harley-Davidson Southern branch, left the city Friday for Chicago and Milwaukee to attend the salesman's convention of the Harley-Davidson company at Milwaukee during the week of September 13 to 19, and the motorcycle show at the Coliseum in Chicago during the week of September 20 to 25. He expects to return to Atlanta on September 27 to take a full line of models of the 1916 Harley-Davidson which will be exhibited at the branch on Peachtree street.

From advance information that has leaked out regarding the 1916 Harley-Davidson it is said that many surprising refinements will be shown. Mr. Castle reports the 1915 season has been a very successful one for the southern branch.

Hupp Salesmen Have No Kick

District salesmen of the Hupp Motor Car company who were in attendance at their quarterly sales conference in Detroit last week reported business conditions very excellent throughout the country.

It was the general consensus of opinion that the chief difficulty in the motor car business at the present time was the production of cars. Even with the increased production of practically all the larger automobile companies, the supply has not met the demand.

O. C. Hutchinson, eastern sales manager, reported the conditions in New York and New England, and in fact the east generally, were never better. This condition applies not only to the automobile business, but to trade generally and merchants were preparing for a very heavy fall business.

Ward Keller, representative for Pennsylvania and New York, reported along similar lines, and Mr. Keller stated that manufacturing conditions, especially in the south, were in better shape today than it has been for many years. The farmers and business men were especially pleased with the recent deposits of federal reserve funds in the larger cities. The southern farmers and plantation men have been especially careful during the last year, according to Mr. Young, and as a result are in good shape financially.

For Texas, J. R. Overstreet, gave an unusually favorable report.

STILL they come. "New Model," "New Motor," "New Type," new everything. All in the hopes of somehow getting into line with the requirements of the motoring public.

Meanwhile Chandler goes right along with one model — one right model — that the public continues to demand in quantities beyond the factory capacity.

Chandler is selling ten thousand cars this year, because Chandler was right in the first place when it pioneered the light-six field. And because being right, the Chandler Company has continued to devote all its mechanical genius, all its business ability, to this one model — improving it here and there, from time to time, beautifying its body lines, and driving its price down and down just as far as the Company's lower-car-profit policy would permit.

Meanwhile others have been marketing two models, three models, and new models every six months; all of which must of necessity mean decreased factory efficiency, costly experimentation and uncertain service to purchasers.

So what is the result of the Chandler one-model policy so far as you are concerned? The best value, known value, obtainable at a price so low! Thousands of Chandler owners will back up this assertion. Your own investigation will prove it, too.

Hodgkins Made Sales Manager For Studebaker

Big Corporation Makes Important Changes in Sales Department—Large Increase in Business Makes Necessary New Division of Sales Duties

The past week has witnessed the taking place of several important changes in the personnel of the Studebaker sales department organization, following upon the election of L. J. Oller to a vice presidency of the corporation. R. T. Hodgkins succeeds to the post of sales manager, with an additional office of assistant sales manager created.

This has been followed by the expansion of the Studebaker automobile business, which has necessitated the establishment of a new division of sales and distributing agencies in various sections of the country, for handling the greatly increased production of cars. George L. Willman and William T. Bush have been named assistant sales managers.

In each instance the appointments announced have meant promotion to positions of greater responsibility, in recognition of past faithfulness in service, and by reason of the fact that efficiency and some special qualification have merited the promotion.

It had been accepted as a foregone conclusion in the motor car industry circles that Mr. Hodgkins would follow in the steps of his chief, Mr. Oller. His particular fitness for the place was generally recognized, and his association with the vice president insured these changes in organization being effected without disturbing smoothness in operation of the department. Mr. Hodgkins' career has been identified with both military and commercial activities, the former possibly having had effect in developing a genius for organizing leadership over men, which has steadily advanced him, finally to this highly responsible and important post.

He served ten years with the New York naval militia, for five years of that period being ordnance officer of the command. His staff, receiving his degree in mechanical engineering at Iowa State college in 1892, he followed this with two years of practical training by shop work, first in employ of Allis-Chalmers company, at Milwaukee, afterward going to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. Later he was with the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, at Boone, Iowa, putting the business to become manager of the Air Motor company's branch at Lincoln, Neb. This was followed by his becoming identified respectively with Sears-Roebuck company, as department manager, and the Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., of New York City, as sales manager of the hoisting machinery department. Mr. Hodgkins served a term as chairman of the executive committee of the American Supply and Machinery Manufacturers' association.

His connection with the Studebaker corporation began first as branch manager of the vehicle division in New York City, this including supervision of all export business of the department. The value of the service rendered here was the cause of Mr. Hodgkins being transferred to the automobile division headquarters at Detroit and his being made the assistant sales manager. Having a thorough and practical knowledge of mechanical engineering, combined with an enviable facility for meeting men in both a business and social

Goodyear's New Tire a Success

"We cannot help bragging just a little about the success that has greeted our new tire in the 30x3 and 30x3 1/2 sizes," says James E. Taylor, branch manager, of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. "The owners of cars using those sizes and that type tire are just as much entitled to freedom from tire trouble as users of lower tires, and Goodyear has spared no pains in working out an ideal tire for the particular service in mind. Before putting out our 1915 type 30x3 and 30x3 1/2 tires we gave them the severest possible tests in jitney bus and similar service, and found that the usual tire troubles had been overcome."

"The new 30x3 is 30 per cent larger than formerly and the 30x3 1/2 tire is 15 per cent larger. There is an extra ply of fabric around the bead, and extra rubber above the bead, to prevent water from entering the tire. The fabric is made of four plies of fabric—the strong, enduring kind that goes into our larger tires—whereas many other makers use only the three plies. And our tubes for these tires are a triumph, too. "We said we would have the very best tire that money and skill and workmanship could produce, for the small car users, and the rapid increase in sales and the satisfaction given the 1915 product seems to prove that we were right in that prediction."

Mr. Taylor, along with keen perceptive abilities, has proven of incalculable service to Mr. Hodgkins in so successfully shaping his business career. With these desirable attributes are those of being a careful observer and close student of business and economic conditions, giving him an opinion on real value. The new sales manager of the Studebaker corporation is particularly fortunate in the choice of his aides. Mr. Willman is the present advertising manager and will continue to have supervision over that department. The territory has been divided that portion west of Detroit to the Pacific coast, while Mr. Bush has the district to the east.

Upon completing courses at Carrol college and Harvard University Mr. Willman entered the service of the Bell Telephone company, of England, coming to Detroit for that concern in 1907. Subsequently, he became associated with the Warren Motor Car company, from there going to the board of commerce as business manager. He became advertising manager for the Studebaker corporation in August, 1914. Capable and untiringly energetic, he has been an important factor in the expansion of Studebaker's business.

Mr. Willman has always been especially interested in the training and development of salesmen, and as much of his new duties will be along those lines, broad opportunity is offered—being in his element. Mr. Bush is a Detroit product and has held positions of large responsibility with some of the city's important industries. Capability shown as manager of the local Studebaker branch house quite naturally brought him to attention when the matter of filling the additional assistant sales manager position came up. By nature and disposition he is to be considered admirably qualified for assuming the charge of eastern territory with its large force of managers, distributors and dealers.

Jess Willard says nobody has asked him for a chance at his heavyweight championship. The trouble is that as long as Jess can get thousands a week with a wild west show, it costs about thirty thousand an ask.

Paige Making Spurt in Sales

The great building the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company is adding to its plant has progressed so far that it opened about sixty days will see it completed and in operation.

The progress made is a source of great satisfaction to Paige officials, who are straining every nerve and resource in their efforts to keep pace with the extraordinary demand for cars which prevails in all sections of the country. Without the aid, however, of increased factory facilities, production has already been speeded up and greatly advanced over the records of a few months ago. In fact, there has been a steady movement forward all summer.

"This much desired manufacturing achievement is reflected in the very large increase in business, a record which, of course, could not have been made without the successful management of the manufacturing end of the business," says Mr. Paige. "The increase of about 200 per cent in business done over the record of August, 1914, is a reflection of the success of the new Paige car."

and if present plans are continued successfully September will show an increase of at least 500 per cent—all of which is excellent evidence of the demand for Paige cars.

These records will, however, be badly beaten when the new factory building is operating a couple of months from now. Much of the space will be used for warehousing materials—a very necessary provision when production is large. But one feature which will facilitate production perhaps more than anything else will be the mechanical conveyors—the modern system of assembling cars that develops efficiency and speed to the very highest degree. "I predict," says Sales Manager Henry Krohn, "that by the first of January the Paige will be up at the top among the foremost producers of motor cars."

the Southern college eleven January 1, 1916. Southern college will play two games in Havana December 25 and 27 previous to the fray on Plant field. Coach W. W. Alderman, of the Blue and White, made the announcement here today following the receipt of a telegram from the Havana team.

Several times American elevens have ventured abroad in quest of new laurels, and the singular part is that one of the first elevens to visit out of this country was a Florida eleven. The Gators made the trip three years ago. In the past the game was new. The Cuban Athletic club has been strengthened, though in the past two years and the Southern eleven is expecting the fight of its life.

A large number of American college graduates have their homes in and near Havana and each of these has been boosting for the club to enter the international field again. They have, and Florida pigskin artists and fans will have the benefit of the entry.

Coach Alderman's contract with the Havana school calls for four days in the Cuban capital for twenty men. It is a trip which will make it more than worth while for the successful Southern football men and it is expected that competition for places on the varsity squad will be greater than ever before.

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 4.—For the first time in the history of football a foreign eleven will visit this country to meet an American team on its home grounds, when the Cuban Athletic club, of Havana, sends a team to Tampa to play and if present plans are continued successfully September will show an increase of at least 500 per cent—all of which is excellent evidence of the demand for Paige cars.

These records will, however, be badly beaten when the new factory building is operating a couple of months from now. Much of the space will be used for warehousing materials—a very necessary provision when production is large. But one feature which will facilitate production perhaps more than anything else will be the mechanical conveyors—the modern system of assembling cars that develops efficiency and speed to the very highest degree. "I predict," says Sales Manager Henry Krohn, "that by the first of January the Paige will be up at the top among the foremost producers of motor cars."

Velie Factories Work Overtime

Company Announces New Policy Concerning Selling Arrangement With John Deere Company

Great changes are being made at the factory of the Velie Motor Vehicle company, Moline, Ill., to facilitate increased production required by the advent of the new Velie "Biltwell Six" at $1,045.

The enormous six-story building heretofore used for storage purposes will now hold the final assembly departments and shipping rooms. With this new arrangement rough material is received at the west end of the main plant and finds its way through the machine shop, first assembly and test, hence to the final assembly, where the bodies await installation after which the completed cars are shipped without delay or further handling.

All Velie factories in Moline are working overtime.

ing over time—a refutation of the cry of business depression. The truck factory is handling two large European orders for heavy duty trucks, while the body factory and main plant are exerting every effort to supply the demand for "Biltwell Sixes."

The great increase in Velie sales and production, brought about by the advent of the new $1,045 Velie "Six" has caused the company to change its policy as far as distribution of cars through John Deere branches is concerned—primarily, that there may be no conflict or interference with the vast implement organizations established these many years. Hereafter the distribution of the Velie cars in Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Denver and other cities where John Deere branches are located will be handled by automobile distributors of high standing. Each will carry large stock of cars and parts and will be fully prepared to give the support and service to automobile dealers expected of the Velie company.

This change in distribution policy does not affect the relationship of the Velie and John Deere factory interests in Moline, Ill., the directors and management remaining one and the same, but with the broadened field of distribution Velie dealers may expect the maximum results from direct factory support.

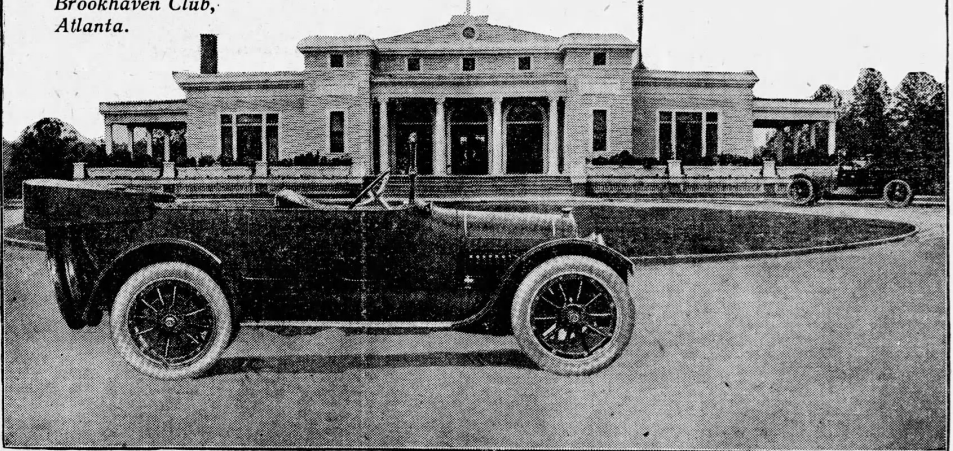

Cadillac "8" the Only Modern Car of Verified Efficiency and Durability

It Offers You:

- Engineering Pre-eminence
- and Social Pre-eminence
- Unequaled V-type Experience
- The Enthusiastic Endorsement of 13,000 Owners
- Mechanical Construction representing the highest type of fine manufacturing extant
- and an Established Record of Luxury, Long Life and Endurance

The New 1916 Cadillac "Eight," Seven-Passenger,
Standing in front of the Brookhaven Club,
Atlanta.

SCARCELY a year since the Cadillac established the standard for motor cars by introducing the V-type motor in America—

Scarcely a year, and today the turn to V-type motors amounts practically to a stampede. Nearly every maker has announced that he acknowledges Cadillac leadership—that he is building a V-type motor car, too.

So the well-informed man wisely considers no other type sufficiently modern to justify his investment. Why buy a car you know is outclassed when you buy it? Only a modern V-type motor car is worth its price today.

Remember this, however: V-type motors are still new, and all V-type motors are not good motors, any more than all "fours" are good "fours."

THERE is much to be learned about building V-type motors that can't be learned in a hurry. Mistakes will be marketed because of the pressure from the trade requiring makers to "keep up with the Cadillac."

So, all other reasons aside, the wise man chooses the car of preferred type which has the most history to prove its efficiency and durability. That car is the Cadillac. 13,000 Eight-Cylinder Cadillacs giving satisfaction today is the evidence.

The leading business men of Atlanta have bought the Cadillac Eight; and the reasons why they prefer the Cadillac are reasons that you might well consider.

The price of the 7-passenger touring car with standard equipment, f. o. b. the factory, is $2,080.

PAIGE

The Standard of Value and Quality

All The Paige Character and Value In This Six

The new Paige "Six-46" sells for the amazing low figure—$1295.

Yet this seven-passenger Paige Six has every element and feature of quality that has won Paige cars their present leadership.

The definite purpose of Paige officials in designing and building this car was to make it at every point a car worthy of the Paige name it bears—"The Standard of Value and Quality."

So here you have a Paige miracle—a car with an overplus of value and quality that immediately gives it dominance in the field of seven-passenger models.

That is because it gives you at $1295 the beauty, distinctiveness, the elegance, the comfort, the power, the ease of riding, the simplicity of operation, the flexibility—all the great qualities that have created Paige prestige and success.

It gives you at this remarkably low price the characteristic Paige economy of operation.

It gives you in fact what you have waited for—a seven passenger Paige Six at $1295 without compromise, from the genuine French glaze, hand buffed leather of the comfortable upholstery, and the real Fantasia top, straight through to every vital element of the car. Examine it, ride in it—and then consider the price—$1295.

There are also marvelous values in the Paige Hollywood "Six-36," a five passenger Six at $1095.

C. J. WILLIAMSON NOW WITH A. M. ROBINSON CO.

Will Install and Conduct Complete Dry Goods Department for This Firm

C. J. Williamson, formerly of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company, has sold his interest in that firm and has now become associated with the A. M. Robinson company.

This firm announces the opening of a complete dry goods department. Hereafter it has carried a limited line of dry goods, but now its stock will include all the staples and everything in novelty, fashions and stylish goods.

Mr. Williamson has been in the dry goods business for twenty-nine years and is widely known to the trade throughout the southeast as one of the very best goods men in this entire section. He will have complete charge of the new department at the Robinson company and will have both the moral and financial backing of this firm.

The idea upon which our new department will be conducted is that it will perform a distinct service for our customers, said Mr. Williamson. In addition to staples it will carry all the new and fashionable fabrics so that no merchant in Atlanta or in this territory need go to other markets to secure what he needs in high class goods. We are just now beginning to fill in this department for present needs and by spring it will be fully completed.

Mr. Williamson states that he will be at headquarters in the house most of the time, but he will nevertheless take occasion to keep in close touch with his old South Georgia merchant friends. He declares he expects to visit them personally from time to time. During the first day of his connection with the Robinson company he succeeded in selling a big bill of goods to one of his old South Georgia friends.

SHIPPING TILLS FULL AT RAGAN-MALONE CO.'S

Firm Notes That Orders Are Much Larger Than Heretofore

"Business now is indeed in a most flourishing condition," said W. C. Bannell, of Ragan-Malone company. "Orders are being received at a rate that run into large figures. Orders amounting to a thousand or more have been received here heretofore. We have booked a number of such orders in the last two weeks. I may add that last Wednesday night we had thirty-five orders for the night, and Thursday was not far behind that record."

E. G. THOMAS JOINS "THE OPTIMISTS' CLUB"

Firm Finds Its August Business 50 Per Cent Ahead of Last August

"We are certainly gratified with the way fall business has opened up," said E. G. Thomas, of the Price & Hutchins Atlanta company. "August was 50 per cent ahead of August, 1914, and nearly equal to August, 1913. September so far is keeping pace with August just passed. Our firm has joined the 'Optimists' club. We find that this club is receiving members every day. Business is now really good, with the emphasis on the good. It has been so bad in the past that we know how to appreciate it when it is good."

BROWER COUGH DROPS GO TO BIG OHIO FIRM

The Brower Candy company last week was shipping out two big cases of its medicated cough drops, of Cincinnati, Ohio. This firm is one of the largest candy concerns in the middle west, and it is the exclusive representative in that territory of the products of the Brower Candy company, which are rapidly gaining a national reputation.

TWO NEW GRAMLING MEN OUT WITH 1916 SAMPLES

FORT GIVES WIDE OPEN ORDER FOR ZARCO CIGARS

Says It's Most Unusual Order He Has Ever Given for Cigars

Perhaps one of the most peculiar orders ever given by a wholesale firm to a manufacturer is that placed by the Lamar & Rankin Drug company with the manufacturers of Zarco cigars. This order reads as follows: "Ship us every day every Zarco cigar that you can spare. This order is to continue in effect until you are notified to stop." Lynn Fort, of Lamar & Rankin, states that in all his experience in the drug business he has never given such an order and perhaps there never was one like this in the cigar trade. It is proof of the big selling quality of the Zarco product, the new cigar that has caught on in such a large way in the consumer and throughout all this territory.

"OAT MEAL BOY" NOW WANTS UNO COFFEE

W. L. Hardin, Jr., the two-year-old son of W. L. Hardin, popular city salesman of McCord-Stewart company, has been spending the summer with his mother in camp near Atlanta. Young Mr. Hardin is known as the "Farm Bell Oat Meal boy," and so lusty has he grown in feeding upon this product that his father states that he is now ready to indulge in Uno coffee. Mr. Hardin, Jr., declares that the quality of Uno coffee is good, and on the strength of the quality of these products he declares he is having big sales of the Uno product.

S. P. RICHARDS' MEN SENDING BULKY ORDERS

"For the past three weeks," said H. M. Koplitz, of the S. P. Richards company, "business has been unusually good. We are pushed to get out our shipments of goods to the trade. For instance, on Wednesday we received a big bunch of mail orders and also a large batch of orders from our traveling men. So the men were so bulky that extra postage had to be paid upon them."

We wish to announce to the trade that we will add to our other lines

A Dry Goods Department Complete in Every Detail

Mr. Charles J. Williamson

will have full control of this department. Mr. Williamson has been in the wholesale dry goods business for 29 years. As one of the South's ablest experts in this line he needs no introduction to the trade.

M'HAN SEES BRIMFUL FALL BUSINESS AHEAD

Declares Trade Is Now on Stronger Footing Than for Past Year

That sales now are larger and that general business is upon a stronger footing than it has been at any time within a year, is the statement of A. C. McHan, of John Silvey & Co. "Since August 1," said Mr. McHan, "we have had just about all the business we could handle. During the past week I may state that business has been normal—that is up to the old time standard before the depression due to the European war came about. I look for a very active business during the next sixty days."

"The cotton goods market is strong and the price of these goods is advancing making buying in this department very active. We are running now full capacity in all our departments and we really are in need of extra billing force. It seems now that all the merchants are wanting goods and all wanting them at the same time. They are wiring for them and want them sent by express and C. O. D. I feel that prosperous times are ahead of us."

DOBBS & WEY MEN NOW OUT WITH HOLIDAY GOODS

All Return to Road After Several Weeks' Stay at Headquarters

J. W. O'Donnell and Freeman Hiscot, of the Dobbs & Wey Co., will open a holiday display sample room at Albany, Ga., on September 13, and will continue there until October 3. E. H. James, of this firm, left for Knoxville, Ala., last Saturday night with his new holiday line. W. Jeter Wiggins and E. L. Kerison will leave for their respective territories Sunday night. Mr. Kerison has returned to the Dobbs & Wey Co. and will travel his old territory for this firm.

EMPTY BARRELS WANTED FOR STORING SORGHUM

McCord-Stewart company reports that fall business in all sections of its territory is coming strong. "One feature of the situation just now," said E. M. Hudson, of this company, "is the fact that a big sorghum crop is in sight. We are receiving numerous inquiries all day for empty barrels to be used in storing sorghum. This is one of the sure indications of a big yield. Sorghum is the best 'stopping' in the world, and the people of the south will feast upon it this winter."

OLD-TIME ACTIVITY AT GRAMLING-SPALDING CO.'S

H. S. Collingsworth, of Gramling-Spalding company, reports that during the past ten days business has been revived that it really looks like old times. He declares that during this period business has been up to the standard for the first time since the beginning of the year August a year ago. "I feel now," declares he, "that we have crossed over all the rough places and are now upon smooth business sailing again. Of course I expect no boom times this fall, but I do expect a very active and a very satisfactory business."

HIRSHBERG MEN OUT WITH HOLIDAY SAMPLES

The entire traveling force of the Hirshberg company, after being in at headquarters for several weeks, will take the road again on next Monday with the samples of holiday goods and drugstore sundries. This firm has had a big business on school supplies and they were kept busy filling orders up to closing time Saturday night. Among the articles which will be featured by this firm when its travelers return to the road are white ivory toilet articles and Beacon flash lights.

News Notes of Fulton Council 505

BY E. E. BYRD.

Brothers R. L. Wallace and T. B. Lewis will attend the U. C. T. love feast to be given by Georgia council of Columbus Ga., on next Friday and Saturday nights. Several other members of our council have been invited to be present on this occasion and make addresses. The occasion will be a general U. C. T. rally, and will be marked by enjoyable speeches, dance and music.

At our last regular meeting on Saturday September 11, we had a big attendance notwithstanding the storm that was prevailing at the time. We initiated three new members.

Brother B. B. Baber is now visiting whizzing about town in a new five-passenger Ford automobile.

Brother W. G. Moffett, the "oil king," reports a big week in the city trade.

W. L. Hudson, of the Capital City Chair company, has left for a several weeks' traveling representing his firm.

HYDROPLANE DROPS "ROSE TIP" SAMPLES

Crowds on Board Walk at Atlantic City Stalked With Cigarette Shower

The local representative for Themelis Bros. of New York City, manufacturers of the Rose-Tip cigarettes, whose branch office is located in the Third National bank building, was in receipt of a letter from the home office, in which Mr. Themelis spoke of the novel way that samples of the Rose-Tips were distributed in Atlantic City last week. J. B. Back, representative for Themelis Bros. Co. from an hydroplane, dropped down on the famous Boardwalk, just when the crowds were the largest sample boxes of Rose-Tips. The high quality cigarette, backed by the original advertisement of the R. H. Patterson Bros. Co., has been in a very short time made Rose-Tips a favorite in the east, and no one in the fashion unless he is smoking a Rose-Tip in Atlantic City.

"OPENING BILL" HAS BEEN MUCH TOO BUSY TO EAT

When the Firing Line editor called on E. P. Lewis, of the McClure Ten Cent company, and asked for a report of the week's business, Mr. Lewis said: "Whoopie! I haven't had time to sit down and eat a meal since I got out on a big day Sunday and Monday—Mr. Lewis has promised chicken and dumplings for Sunday's dinner, and he has a big opening bill booked for Monday."

RUMPH WHOOPING 'EM UP IN SOUTH CAROLINA

W. E. Rumph, of the All Star Manufacturing company, comes to distinguish himself by the amount of business he is turning in from his South Carolina territory. Every day brings orders from him to the firm and they are of a considerable size. During the past week he has been visiting the Piedmont section of the Palmetto State.

ADAMS' TRADE EQUALLY RECORDS OF YEAR 1913

The E. L. Adams company report that they had two big days last week; that the goods shipped on either of these days will equal any day the company has had since December, 1913. This certainly is a fine showing," said E. L. Adams, of this company. "We think that fall business is starting out on a permanent basis and that it will be active."

SAM CHEEK SIGNALLY HONORED BY HIS FIRM

Company Voluntarily Gives Him Handsome Raise in Salary—Is Able Salesman

J. S. Cheek, the genial and popular traveler of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company, has been signally honored by his firm in recognition of his ability as a salesman and the unusual service rendered by him. The company has voluntarily raised his salary to a figure that is quite satisfactory to Mr. Cheek as well as to his employers.

Mr. Cheek has been with the firm practically since its organization and his renewal of his contract at an advanced figure is testimony to his worth as a traveling representative of his firm. Mr. Cheek has received a number of flattering offers from other sources but thinks that his best interest lies in Atlanta and with the Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company.

Another testimony to Mr. Cheek's value as a salesman is the statement by his firm that perhaps no salesman out of Atlanta has a larger drawing account than has Mr. Cheek.

Mr. Cheek, who is at Gainesville and travels north Georgia and South Carolina, states that business in his territory is good and the amount of the sales that he has been turning in for the past month is adequate proof of his assertion.

DAWSON CO. TO WORK FULL CREW, FULL TIME

Will Begin Next Monday Processing Pickles to Supply Big Trade

Dawson Brothers company will on next Monday begin their fall factory operations with a full crew of all departments. The company has already booked orders for more than a dozen carloads of pickles, and will begin to ship them on Monday. The two cars of the pickles were in which the company will begin to ship them on Monday. The full force since last fall when it was owned by Jones Bros. & Co.

J. T. COOK PUT OVER THREE OPENING BILLS

Says Merchants Start Right When They Start With Serv-Us Goods

J. T. Cook, popular city salesman of Kelley Bros. company, has recently sold three opening bills to merchants entering business in the city of Atlanta. Mr. Cook is being generally commended for his good work in landing these orders. He declares that no small amount of the goods included in the orders come under the head of the Serv-Us brand of pure food products. "It certainly is a good start for a man to begin business by carrying a generous stock of Serv-Us goods," said Mr. Cook. "In this way the merchant begins right and is apt to stay right for his patrons after they have once used the Serv-Us goods will always come back for more, and so will the merchant."

"We are receiving all kinds of compliments on 'Albatross' everywhere that it is sold," said Mr. Almand. "It is making a big hit with the trade. We find that business is increasing every day."

Organization—Holds Annual Convention and Elects Officers—Many Present

W. S. Witham, the well known banker and interesting speaker will make the chief address at the Georgia state convention which will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel, parlor E. Mr. Witham will speak on the subject of his own choosing. A large crowd will be on hand to hear him.

The Georgia Grocers held their regular state convention Saturday afternoon, electing officers for the ensuing year. Delegates were present from Macon, Columbus, Valdosta, Rome, Athens, Augusta and Americus. The list of the past officers will be given in next Sunday's Firing Line.

At the fall meeting this afternoon there will be a musical program rendered by Misses Bearden, whose singing is known throughout the city and state. The public is cordially invited to be present. Ladies will be given a hearty welcome.

GROCERS & BUTCHERS BOOST HARVEST CARNIVAL

With Big Banner at Head March in Body to Boosters' Meeting

The Retail Grocers and Butchers' association of Atlanta is much interested in promoting the success of the Harvest Carnival to be held in Atlanta November 15-20. A mass meeting of the members was called on last Thursday night to attend the general meeting on this matter which was held under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. The grocers and butchers gathered in their room in the Chamber of Commerce building and marched down in a body to the general meeting. At the head of the procession were President O. T. Camp, Secretary J. P. Ewe, and other leaders of the association, bearing a big banner which was inscribed with these words: "Atlanta Always Ahead—Georgia's Harvest Carnival November 15-20. Retail Grocers and Butchers' association."

At the mass meeting of the grocers and butchers, O. T. Camp was endorsed for consulman from the third ward. At the meeting of the association on next Tuesday the grocers and butchers will formulate definite plans for participation in the Harvest Carnival and discuss all that they can make it a big success.

The H. L. Singer company last week sold four big opening bills. One was to a merchant beginning business in Atlanta, and the other three were to out-of-town merchants. This firm reports a sharp revival of trade in every respect.

ON THE HIGH LINE WITH THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

J. V. McWhorter, of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company, was back at his desk last week after being away for two weeks, during which he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He states that he notices a vast improvement in business during the time he was absent.

Morris Croft, of Ragan-Malone company, scored a big week's trade. He was in the house for a few days waiting on visiting merchants, and then back upon the road.

H. E. Jessup, of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company, after an extensive trip through middle and western Georgia reports improved business conditions and bright prospects for a fine fall trade.

J. L. Williams, of the Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company, last week sold a big bill to a Florida west coast merchant. The order amounted to eighteen hundred dollars.

W. H. Arnold, manager of F. W. King & Co.'s Atlanta branch, states that last Thursday was the biggest shipping day his firm has had since he assumed the management of the Atlanta house.

"Orders came in last week with a rush," said Lynn Fox of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company. "It is all we can do to get them out. They came in by mail and from the traveling salesmen also. Business is showing a big improvement."

Among the visitors and patrons at the Lamar & Rankin Drug company during the past week, were Mr. and Mrs. D. W. King & Co., during the past week were Dr. Portwood, of the Portwood Pharmacy, Crawfordsville, Pa.; Mr. Ward, of Cartersville, Ga., and Dr. Smith, of Blakely, Ga.

"We are having just all the business we can do," said C. J. Sullivan, of the M. C. Kiser company. "On Friday we received more orders from our traveling men than we have received on any one day in a year. It may be said that our collections are coming in fine."

F. L. Eyles, of the credit department of the M. C. Kiser company, is the father of a fine boy born on September 11. He is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon the event.

Ragan-Malone company reports a nice lot of orders from H. C. Jones, of southwest Georgia, and also a big volume of business from W. W. Scott, their southeast Georgia representative. Mr. Scott was at headquarters early in the week and sold a bill to a merchant from his territory which was one of the largest the firm has handled in quite a while.

Mark A. Knipe, manager of the Red Seal Shoe company's factory, has returned after an extensive visit to the tanneries of the east.

Sam Hanes, of Ragan-Malone company, last week had the biggest week of all the salesmen of that company. During this time he sold a number of bills that ran into large figures.

J. K. Orr, Sr., returned last week from a vacation stay at Mohawk, N. Y. He was away, however, most of the past week on a special business trip to Columbus, Ga.

J. E. Morrison, of the A. M. Robinson company, sold two nice opening bills during the past week.

R. C. Hicks is the latest addition to the city sales force of F. W. King & Co. Mr. Hicks formerly was with the Liquid Carbonic company, and knows the city trade thoroughly. He will cover the west side for his new firm.

Jesse Bates, of the J. K. Orr Shoe company, was out on the road last week after being ill at his home in Macon, Ga., during the previous week. He has now, however, fully recovered his health and is making sales at his usual rapid pace.

A. W. Norrell, formerly of the house force of the Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company, has been assigned to the north Georgia territory of this firm. Mr. Norrell has rounded out his first week with success. Included in his sales during this period was an especially good order sold one of the largest industrial firms of the northern part of the state.

E. R. Partridge, manager of the Atlanta branch of Hamilton Carhartt, manufacturer of overalls, reports a brisk trade throughout the week. The

Sees Prosperity in the Advanced Prices Cotton Is Maintaining

"We have every reason to believe that the business revival is based on substantial grounds," said V. L. Percy, of Dobbs & Wey Co. "I have talked over business conditions with a number of visiting merchants and all feel that we are on firm ground once more and that permanent prosperity is in store for us. The best feature of the situation at present is that cotton is selling around 10 cents. More than a month ago I predicted that cotton would not sell under 8 cents and now it has practically reached the 10-cent mark. All we need now is for everybody to quit holding back and jump into the business game and do their part for all they are worth."

firm has made big shipments of the new Van Dyke brown overall. Mr. Partridge declares that he can see nothing in the way of a big fall business this year.

A. J. Garner, of the Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company representative in the Birmingham district, continues to pour in orders upon his firm. It seems that everybody in and about Birmingham wants shoes by the way in which Mr. Garner is getting business in that section.

Arthur Whitteyer, of Ragan-Malone company, after being at headquarters for several days waiting on visiting merchants, has returned to his South Carolina territory.

R. M. Tallicott, who represents the "Porting" and "El Toro" cigars, after several weeks' stay in Atlanta, has returned to New Orleans.

Frank Corry, of John Silvey & Co., came into headquarters last week from south Georgia, bringing with him a string of orders and visiting merchants. Among the travelers of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company who had especially good business during the past week, was A. J. Woodliff.

L. A. Redwine, of Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, left on Friday for New York, on a buying trip for his firm. Among the travelers of the A. M. Robinson company who were at headquarters during the past week, were R. L. Smith, C. P. Fry and B. Ross.

F. E. Hood, the new traveling salesman of Fain & Stamps, who covers the Central and Southern railway, is having splendid success. He is falling into his stride like one of the old Fain & Stamps veterans.

Darling Peoples McDaniel, head of the notions department of John Silvey & Co., is still in New York City where he has gone to negotiate for his firm. He is expected back at headquarters next week.

J. N. Alexius, known as the "honest cigar drummer," was in Atlanta last week working the city trade with the force of the Capital City Tobacco company. Mr. Alexius represents the famous Stadelberg cigars.

J. W. Hughes, of John Silvey & Co., was at headquarters last week waiting on visiting house trade. An attractive display of C. H. S. cigars appears this week at Five Points in the window of Tom Pitts' store.

J. D. Robinson, of the A. M. Robinson company, and J. P. Sloan, head of the factory department of this firm, are in New York on a buying trip.

W. O. Stamps, of Fain & Stamps, reports that his firm's business was last week that it has had for six months.

Among the out-of-town merchants to visit the McCord-Stewart company last week for the purpose of replenishing their stocks were M. A. Boling, White, Ga.; A. Bloom, Forsyth, Ga.; Mr. Ethridge, of the Washington Tent Company.

J. O. CHAMBERS IS NOW WITH ROTHSCHILD BROS.

He Will Represent This Firm in Georgia and South Carolina

J. O. Chambers, formerly for a number of years with an Atlanta firm, is now the Georgia and South Carolina representative of Rothschild Bros' Hat company, of St. Louis, Mo. He will have his headquarters in Atlanta.

Mr. Chambers has traveled one territory for one hat house perhaps longer than any other on the road. The Rothschild company is among the largest distributors of hats in America, and they have a business record of fifty-two years.

"I always make it a rule to look after the interest of my customers as much as I would my own," said Mr. Chambers. "I feel that their interest is mine. This has been my policy in the past and will continue to be so in the future. I think this might make a good combination—a big, good house with the merchandise, and this desire to forward my trade interest on my part."

Mr. Chambers has hundreds of friends throughout the territory who will learn of his new position with interest and wish him big success in his new connection.

D. R. Wilder, of the Wilder Manufacturing company, spent last week in Florida buying cattle which he will place upon his plantation near Calo, Fla., to fatten throughout the winter. Last winter the company was very successful in the sale of its cattle that it brought to condition for market on its Calo farms.

W. R. Waterhouse, city salesman of the Brower Candy company, has been having a fine business on the north side. He finds his sales increasing week by week.

J. M. Webb, traveling salesman of the All Star Manufacturing company, spent the past week in south Georgia. A number of fine orders have been received from him at headquarters. Fred Jaster, Louisiana representative of this firm, was also heard from during the week with a large number of orders.

Luke Cain, of the D. R. Wilder company, was working the trade last week at Jackson, Ga., and points thereabouts.

R. L. Wallace, of the D. R. Wilder company, was visiting the trade last week in south Georgia and turned in a fine lot of business. He declares that the south Georgia merchants are now buying large quantities of syrup and that all indications point to an active fall.

Edwin C. Bell, of the Brower Candy company, was ill all last week and unable to visit his trade. He, however, expects to be back soon on the road during the present week.

D. B. Meadows, popular traveler of Gramling-Spaulding company, has a big opening bill to his credit. The opening stock of goods was sold to a progressive Alabama retailer last week.

CANDY AND FLOUR SALES SHOW JUMP AT M'CORD'S

"Just at present we are having active sales on stick candy, coffee, and Queen of the Pantry flour," said H. Y. McCord, Jr., of McCord-Stewart company. "September rightly opens the coffee season, which lasts well through the winter until the coming of the weather and the days of ice tea. This week we received a carload of Queen of the Pantry flour and it did not last more than an hour and a half."

SEPT. BRINGS RUSH FOR BARRINGTON HALL COFFEE

This Coffee Widely Popular. Singer Has Photo of Famous Barrington Hall

September brings with it the beginning of the season for the heavy sales of coffee. The H. L. Singer company report many orders booked for its famous high grade Barrington Hall coffee.

This coffee is manufactured by the Baker Importing company of New York City. It is produced by a special process known as "Bakerizing." Its taste, aroma and quality are unexcelled. It has a nation wide sale and a nation wide reputation for being one of the best coffees upon the market.

The H. L. Singer company, who are distributing agents here for the Barrington Hall coffee, serve a territory within a radius of 100 miles of Atlanta. There is no town or hamlet within this radius so small but what has its regular demand for Barrington Hall coffee.

Lessons We Are Learning a Bit Slowly

The Wise Ones have been on the job ever since the war began.

They are sitting on the same old boxes and barrels, whittling the same old sticks, and saving the country in the same old way.

They're telling how things ought to be done.

The Up-and-Doing folks are also on the job.

They have had their eyes and ears open and they are pointing out to us some of the big lessons that the war has for the world.

There's many a lesson, too.

Some of them we take to heart a trifle slowly. Some we simply cannot fail to catch at first glance.

For instance, the lesson that came head and shoulders over all the rest out of the "hard times," viz—the lesson of economy and saving.

The Savings Bank fraternity tell us that there never was such a wave of conscience as swept over the people in the matter of laying up something for the rainy day. All this just recently.

As a nation we have discovered that we are living too high, spending too much and saving too little.

We are beginning to salt down some of the stuff instead of scattering it around.

Another big lesson is that we CAN DEPEND ON OURSELVES, AND MUST DO IT IF WE ARE TO LIVE, COMMERCIALLY SPEAKING.

OUR OWN LABORATORIES, FACTORIES, SHOPS AND BRAINS ARE BUSIER TODAY WITH THE PROBLEMS OF PRODUCING OUR OWN GOODS THAN THEY HAVE EVER BEEN.

We've got to learn the biggest lesson of all—that we have our richest resources within ourselves.

We must learn to LIVE AT HOME.

It is sound economics to do so. It is the safe and sane thing. It is our commercial and industrial salvation.

The simplest and the most obvious way to begin is to patronize the people who make things at home.

Some have heard and heeded. Others are seeing the light day by day.

Georgians are realizing that GEORGIA-MADE GOODS are the goods they should use.

There are no better goods of their several kinds made anywhere else—you get quality and honest workmanship in every article that bears the imprint of any manufacturer on the list below.

That's the prime consideration—VALUE.

Attaching to it is the knowledge that when you BUY HOME-MANUFACTURED WARES, you are a constructive citizen.

You are building better than you know. You are building your state and your section and your country.

You are putting money in your own pocket.

And that's the best place for money, after all.

9-Inches-From- The-Ground Skirts

Mrs. Julian Chase, of Inman Park, Is
Some of Season's Newest Fashions.

By Jane Dixon.

I've seen them. I was tempted to start this with a descriptive phrase—Peachtree in knee dresses. That is half way true—just about half way.

Whitehall street is one big goods box just opened. Out have poured charmeuse, taffetas and crepe meteoers—all in midnight blues, African browns, and hunters' green.

There are hundreds of new dresses, thousands—so many, when I think of them I think of a Russian army. And not a long dress in the whole town. If your frock isn't five inches from the pavement it has a train.

Nine inches from the ground is the length of some. I looked and looked, and I make this prediction: Later on, Peachtree street will look and look even more. I have reason to believe the usual masculine indifference to style will give place this year to interest.

There are boots and boots and boots. Some lace up the side (and they cost only $10), a very few lace up the back, and some are Russian affairs. You just pull 'em on and there you are.

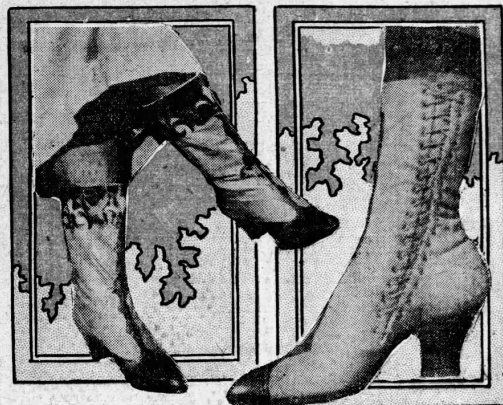

They are actually worn in New York, and some will be worn here. These are Cossack boots—like the pointed-toed, embossed tops of the czar's cavalry. You have no idea how delightful they are. They seem, at first, little riding boots. But, no, they're for the street. One store told me it's had to order a second shipment of the laced-up-on-the-side boots.

And the hats! The beaded, gorgeous-dowered, purple colored hats, and the new veils. The newest fastens round the neck and is thrown over the entire hat without being pinned. Another is pinned to the hat and drops down loosely over the face to the nose. If I'm not incoherent, I'm at least breathless.

Whitehall street is to me like an exposition I saw in Berne, Switzerland, just dress after dress, new thing upon new thing, until it leaves you tired and bewildered, no words to tell it in and sick at heart because you haven't at least a million to buy it all.

This is what I learned: Skirts are to be five to nine inches from the ground, some a bit more. The hem of the dress and the high-up boots, in most instances will just meet. In some cases they won't. Now and then, there'll be interstices of an inch or more.

Skirts for street wear will be taffetas, charmeuse, and crepe meteor, combined with serge and worsted. They will vary in width from 2 to 4 yards at the bottom, which means a yard wider than at the beginning of last season. Inverted pleats, button and braid trimmings are to be used.

Suits are to be of gabardine, whipcord, army serge, broadcloth, pile fabric, velvet, duvetyne and wool velour. Braid and fur trimmings will be used, and necks will be military and open. Some suits have fitted waistlines with the coat flared. Others have straight, loose backs. And I noticed the Norfolk for the athletic lady. Tweeds and English mixture are the materials. The width is two to four yards; some have pleated, some have flared skirts; some are made with yokes, some with shirred backs.

Afternoon dresses are plaids and Georgette crepe combinations, ruffled waistlines, thin sleeves, full and tiered skirts.

Evening dresses are of light-colored taffetas and meteoers and Georgette crepe. Passamenterie trimmings will be used.

Hats are to be very large or very small. They are to be beaded and flowered and veiled; and most of all I wish you could see the veils.

Take the one that fastens round the neck and is thrown over the hat. It will make Peachtree seem a street in old Seville. It will make Spanish señoritas of us all.

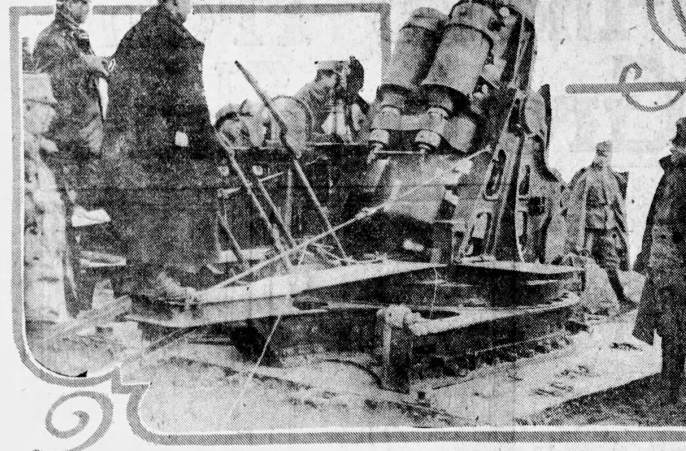

Yet I think the nationality of our costuming will be mixed. Suppose one wears the Spanish veil, originated in Paris; and the Cossack boots, and a ten-inch-from-the-ground skirt?

Every day Whitehall adds to its freshly-opened-goods-box appearance. New things arrive by the hour—more beaded bronzed slippers, more laced-up-on-the-side boots, more hats, and most of all, more short skirts.

There is much to be seen in the stores. Later, there will be more, to see on Peachtree.

ONE OF THE new dresses of conservative length is shown here, worn by Mrs. Julian Chase, of Inman Park. Long dresses this fall and winter will be five inches from the ground; short ones will be nine inches or more. Usually, skirt hem and boot top will just meet; often, an inch or more of space will intervene. Boots are all very high; some lace up on the side and a few in the back; and the oddest are the Cossack boots, which you just pull on. Everyone is to wear veils, and among these creations are some you fasten 'round the neck and throw over the hat, giving yourself a Signorita appearance.

FALSE FAITH TESTED BY FIRE AND FLOOD WANTING GOD

THE dark cloud of war which overshadows Europe and casts gloom over the whole world, is not without some silver linings. There are indications that in this hour of deepest trial all mankind certain spiritual forms of religion are being tested by fire, found wanting, and cast aside.

There are evidences of a revolution in religious thought in both Europe and America, accompanied by a greater simplicity in faith and a more earnest spirit of piety.

A writer in the Watchman-Examiner of New York draws attention to this fact in a recent article of a very interesting kind. He says his attention was drawn to the revolution of religious thought caused by the European War by reading a copy of the Hibbert Journal for June, 1913. As is well known, that periodical has been the channel through which liberalistic theology has been uttered for many years. The writer of the article in the Watchman-Examiner recalls the fact that no longer than two years ago many of the articles then appearing in the Hibbert Journal seemed extremely timely and up-to-date, but now they read "the far off echo of an almost forgotten past." He continues:

"One year of bitter conflict has driven the current religious thought so far from the course of 1913 that few have realized the vast change. In this number (Hibbert Journal for June, 1913) the opinions of German scholars are quoted with respect in fact, as decisive and convincing. As now read it is realized with something of a shock that the views of German theologians and philosophers are no longer quoted as authority."

"The reading of this issue revealed afresh the fact that the type of theology and philosophy somewhat dominant in past years has been utterly discredited by the war. The ascendancy which German thinkers had gained and maintained in the last forty years has been destroyed by the fact that their theology and philosophy have permitted them to defend a war in which millions of human lives are being destroyed, and a large part of the earth laid waste."

He notes that the Germans themselves have turned from the rationalistic type of religion and philosophy to the Bible and the ethical way of thinking and living.

"The names that have stood high in scholastic and theological circles are no longer revered. The apostles of the age of doubt are being repudiated, and the people are reading the Bible and through the churches in simple faith in God and His Word and calling on Him for help in this time of terrible war. In the number of the Hibbert Journal referred to it is asserted that the Gospels are largely unhistorical, that but little is known of the real life of Jesus, and that Jesus was merely the latest and best of the Hebrew prophets, belonging really to the old dispensation, and that the Gospels should be considered as a part of the Old Testament. Who cares for that sort of speculation now? Not the people of Germany!"

By Bishop W. A. Candler

They are seeking the Savior as never before. Not the people of France! Godless France has become thoughtful. The infidel writers are neglected or have themselves become religious, and the people are thronging the forsaken churches. Certainly not the people of Russia! They are no longer earnestly adoring Jesus Christ, whom they now believe to be Very God of Very God. And not even in England is the destructive criticism of the Bible having the currency it had before the war. The realism of life in the face of the great conflict has banished all reliance for speculative reasoning, and trust in God and in His Word and in His word are the dominating facts in religious thought and life.

Adverting to conditions in the United States upon which the full force of the war has not fallen as it has upon the nations of Europe, this writer speaks as follows:

"As the Deluge swept the corrupt race of men from the earth, so this war is purging the earth of the doubt of the Word of God which has been eating like a cancer into the vitals of modern Christianity. In times of ease and safety, men come to rely on their own powers, but in times of trouble they turn to God, because they realize that He alone can save. This lesson the world is learning today. Reliance on human wisdom is destroyed. Trust in God is our only refuge."

There are many tokens on every hand that the observations of this correspondent of the Watchman-Examiner are correct. Multitudes of men have discovered the utter worthlessness of rationalism in religion, and are turning back to the faith of their pious fathers and mothers of a former generation. There is an increased attendance upon Church services which is beginning to be quite perceptible. The secular press has taken note of this fact. Recently there appeared among the press dispatches the following from New York:

"NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Showing an increase of from 20 to 25 per cent in church attendance all over the city, a comprehensive census of new population for July and half of August has just been completed by the leading churches of Greater New York. Whether the war has worked to sober the people of Gotham and point the way to worship or whether the pulpits are voicing a stronger appeal, the people has not been definitely determined by the priests and pastors, who are rejoicing over the striking increase in their congregations. Although all the foreign divines of note are cut off from preaching here on account of war conditions, the American sermonizers seem to have drawn more powerfully than many of their predecessors of European reputation."

Despite many things which discourage the pious and alarm the patriotic in our country, these facts may be taken as cheering signs.

which quicken hope and forbid despair. Social disorder and crimes of violence will cease when men turn to the altars of God. There is no other remedy for the things which distress devout hearts and menace the welfare of the nation than the faith that is in Jesus Christ our Lord.

This testing time of war has revealed anew the only relief for human hearts in times of supreme trial. Men ought to learn this lesson so thoroughly that they will never need to learn it again. There is nothing new in it for men have had the same sort of experience in all ages and history. Rationalism was never an adequate remedy for human woe, and it never can be. Why will men try and try again an experiment which has always ended in disappointment? Will they never learn that a simple faith is the real source of moral strength and the only solace for all human ills?

The men who are called to the ministry of the Gospel, and who ought to have discernment enough to read correctly the signs of the times, should take advantage of this manifest reaction towards a purer faith and a more religious life, and do everything in their power to use it for the accomplishment of a wide-spread revival of religion. The present moment is favorable for such a revival. By the reviving of "religions" is not meant any particular form of religious meeting or service. The different Churches have different methods of work, and it is not to be supposed that all will ever work exactly alike. But revival of religion in its essential nature is the same. Whatever may be the methods used to promote it, a revival of religion is a return to God for the pardon of sin and the renewal of life in righteousness and true holiness. Such a revival of religion is needed throughout our entire country, and in recent years there has not been a more favorable moment than the present to bring such a revival to pass.

Let all Christian people, both preachers and laymen, unite in prayer and effort for the accomplishment of this great end. The war has entailed great losses on mankind, and out of our country have shared these losses in some measure, notwithstanding the fact of general prosperity in the land. But a more than adequate compensation for all the losses of this trying period will be found in the general revival of religion, if the efforts be made to pass such a result. Men can afford to lose anything of an earthly sort, if by the loss they find God. On the other hand, the most enormous gains can not compensate for the loss of the divine fellowship and favor. Wealth, honor, and great, can never substitute in the human heart the presence and power of God. Men are not so dependent on things as they are upon persons, and upon person they are dependent as upon their Heavenly Father. Without God they are without hope in the world. They are like prodigals in a famine-stricken world, destitute and dishonored, and with an insatiable hunger in their hearts.

For these orphans, and many hundreds in Georgia have cause to call him blessed. If we had a few more men like Mr. Webb, of Habra, in Georgia, we would have every orphan in the state provided for, and every orphan would have an extensive personal acquaintance among the state's citizenship.

RIVER RUNS UP-STREAM

THOSE who have been fishing on the Withlacoochee river recently are talking of a rather peculiar freak of nature. It is stated that the river at a point near Mr. Tom Staton's place runs directly up hill for a space of a good many yards and observers are somewhat puzzled as to what causes the unusual condition.

Those who have seen the strange phenomenon, and a good many have gone out for the specific purpose of viewing the thing, state the river comes down its regular course for a good distance, making one or two turns and then suddenly it comes to a place where the water runs down stream on one side of the river bed and when it reaches the point where it all turns completely around and runs back up stream on the opposite side of the river bed and disappears in a pond. The river bottom for a considerable space is then dry and the water comes to view some distance below.

This only happens when the river is low, but it is reported to be an actual fact.—Valdosta (Ga.) Times.

"Sleeping The Dope Habit"

By Angus Perkerson

FIFTY are about to take this sleep at the refuge the city has knocked together for the wretched and unfortunate whom the government's antidope law is agonizing just as the thumb and screw devils of the inquisition tortured.

No law was ever more needed or will be more wisely administered. But just now it is unavailably filling a class of weak-willed, helpless victims with a fear that is beyond the power of casual expression.

The law is that no more drugs shall be sold. And the exceptions are so few that the poor addict has the overwhelming fear held up before him of a day when he shall be crazed for lack of opiates.

The only general and charitable help offered these poor creatures is the sleep that the city is about to give fifty of them.

If you could see the fifty you would never forget the sight—women who are old and gray-haired, a girl who is only nineteen, a man who is seventy-three, a boy who is eighteen. Most of the men are under thirty—mere boys—but except for the nineteen-year-old girl, the women are old. One is seventy-five. Her husband once was a well-to-do railroad official, and she comes of a good family and has a face that is kindly and motherly.

It didn't seem that she should be there. It was bad enough to see the boys and think that they were addicts (almost hopeless victims) of a habit that takes everything out of life. But to see the kindly face, topped by soft white hair, and listen to the low, even, tones, and associate all that with vicious drugs was too grotesque.

And in the doorway, as we turned to leave the room, was the girl, who would seem young enough under any circumstances, with her thin, white face and her aquamarine large eyes; and, who, among these old women, was like a child.

She was entering on the sleep that for the time at least kills the appetite for drugs. Her head was heavy, her shoulders drooped, and her lips hung apart. It was a nightmare figure and face of a child. It was worse than the white-haired woman. It was too incongruous, too out-of-place.

In a way, the several hours spent at the city's improvised hospital for drug addicts, was of long succession of depressing scenes. But an estimate of the actual hospital work can express itself only in terms of fullest praise.

The hospital is a part of the post house, and that very association seems to give it a ugly figure. It is a vast, white, ugly building, and the means of accommodation for the drug addicts has been made as complete as the urgency of the situation would allow.

Not a word of complaint was uttered last week, and every part of the hospital was visited. One boy who was perhaps twenty-five and who started and continued the opium-smoking habit in Atlanta was said to have in some Chicago city, put the state of affairs properly:

"We have everything here," he said, "like we need. And we're getting the chance to cut loose from the dope."

All are to be given the sleep that for awhile at least frees them. The hospital is situated about a week ago, and the preliminary treatment lasts a week, then all injections of morphine are to stop and scopolamine, which induces the dazed sleep, is to begin.

For 48 hours the effect of the scopolamine is continued, and in that time several who took the "sleep" were delirious; means of self-torture, and their nerves have been brought back to the state where they can endure abstinence without suffering.

The city simply is making it possible by the "sleep" for the unfortunate to endure the government's edict against drugs.

It is curious that this sleep is induced by scopolamine, the drug used to cause "twilight sleep," which was first proposed in Germany, then spread to America, and was tried in Atlanta but has since been abandoned as dangerous to both mother and child.

In Birmingham, actual "twilight" sleep was used as a cure for the dope habit. Here, patients and doctors call it "knock-out." After a week's eliminative treatment that is supposed to free the patient entirely of drugs, he is given the "sleep," which is induced largely by scopolamine and he remains in that condition 48 hours. During that time he eats nothing. The treatment seems severe, and is.

There were opium dens then in Atlanta. There were hundreds of people here smoking it. It wasn't just the Chinese. Others were smoking it all the time, and their number was increasing until the government passed a law that shut off the supply of "dope."

"Then, all the smokers took to morphine, and that's the last step. When you begin to use the stuff, you're lost. You can quit opium, you can quit cocaine, heroin, any of the others. But once you get the morphine habit it's got you for all time."

A sort of murmur rose from the others. It was a fatalistic assent to a fact they held as irrefutable as death and birth. "Parties of us smokers used to get together," went on the boy, "and it wasn't only in the dives we gathered. There's a house on a prominent street where I've stayed a week at a time, spending the whole day smoking 'hop,' and the party of us having a good meal sent in. We'd have regular debauches of opium—smoke 20 or 30 pills a day, and spend our whole time cooking and smoking the stuff."

"I always used a peanut oil lamp to cook the pills over, because it gave out no smoke. I'd use a Yen-Hock—some kind of a hat pin—to hold the 'bop' over the lamp."

"I started on morphine," broke in another. "I had rheumatism, and a doctor told me to use it. I didn't know anything about it. After that I just had to keep on."

A chair at the outer ring of the circle was taken back by a man who was perhaps 48 hours fast, and the administration of scopolamine, are actually a regenerative measure.

The patient comes from this purifying process weak and nerve-racked. But a week's rest and the return of his face and soles the trembling of his hands. Before the tent where a dozen or so sleep, a group of six were gathered last week. Among these was the first man brought to the hospital and the first treated with the "sleep."

His face was almost ruddy, his eyes were bright, and, as he stood up and came toward us, his step was firm.

"I'm as solid as a bell," he said to Dr.

The house near the entrance is for those taking the sleep. A boy with long hair, and dangling, listless arms sat on the porch. They were trying to get him to bed, but he wouldn't move. He could just-mumble that he was tired of bed. He was the realization of the exaggerated idea of the drug addict, who in two weeks he will seem rejuvenated.

We entered the house. In the right hand room a man of about sixty sat on the side of his bed. He had been sent to laudanum, and he was all right now, for, bit by bit, his dose was being cut down. But, did man that he was, he was sitting bravely.

"Feeling pretty good," he answered the doctor's greeting. "Pretty good." Then, he laid his head in his hands to steady himself.

We crossed the hall to another room with two beds, and on one lay a very old man; he is seventy-three. He looked at us and smiled, and there was something infinitely kind about his smile. "How'd-do," he said, and he looked at us as we began to question him.

"I began using morphine forty years ago," he said. "I had sciatic rheumatism, and the president of a college in Alabama gave it to me. Ever since then I've been trying to quit. I've spent my money for it. I estimate that I have spent $10,000 that way. I am still trying, and, with the help of God, I hope to quit before I die."

We went down the hall and came to a room where there was a boy, an 18-year-old boy. He had just finished the forty-time in twenty years. I began when I was a kid because I got a lick on the head and a doctor started me."

One boy, with well cut face and a pleasant way of speaking, tilted back his head.

"I'm almost off now," he said. "I'll try the 'knockout' about Monday."

"How old are you?" I asked him. "Twenty-three."

"When did you start?"

"When I was about eighteen, here in Atlanta." He sat forward until the four legs of his chair stood on the ground. "I began by smoking opium. A whole lot of people in Atlanta used to smoke opium until it got so expensive. I remember the time when I could buy a can on Hunter street for $6.50. Now, if you could get it at all, it would cost $100 to $120. I started out of curiosity, just to see how it would go, and kept it up."

"I always smoked 'hop'—ly Yume was called it—and never used opium. One opium is as bad as morphine. Hop isn't. The stuff didn't have such a bad physical effect, but it took so much time and money. I used to smoke about three times a day; and, in all, it would take me six hours and the stuff would cost nearly $5 a day. I got so at last I spent half of every day smoking and my 'hop' cost me about $100 a month."

There were opium dens then in Atlanta. There were hundreds of people here smoking it. It wasn't just the Chinese. Others were smoking it all the time, and their number was increasing until the government passed a law that shut off the supply of "dope."

EXCURSION RUN FOR HELP ORPHANS

THIS is a noble, unselfish work. Rev. W. W. Webb, of Habra, is doing for the orphan children of Georgia.

Sixteen years ago he visited an orphan's home in Macon. His heart was touched by what he saw and he determined to carry to others to see also. For sixteen years he has operated a seasonal excursion over one railway line to that home and tens of thousands of people have been carried to spend a day with the orphans, to dine with them, to see how they live and what they need.

It is the history of these excursions that they are followed by a flow of contributions to the home. Farmers send potatoes, syrup, meat, or whatever they may have for a surplus that the orphans may be fed, and few people now live in this section of South Georgia who have not seen the home and its dependent charges, and many of the contributions, at first occasional, have become regular events of the harvest season.

This is not all. Mr. Webb saw the home had no place for babies under two years. The railroad gives him a percentage on the sale of tickets. Of this he set aside to build and equip an annex for the babies, and it has been finished and paid for.

Mr. Webb is not a wealthy man. Few men like him are. But every year he gives one month of his time to working for these orphans, and many hundreds in Georgia have cause to call him blessed. If we had a few more men like Mr. Webb, of Habra, in Georgia, we would have every orphan in the state provided for, and every orphan would have an extensive personal acquaintance among the state's citizenship.

The Dope Habit Begins Through Bad Associations

some were continually on their feet, tottering about without the haziest notion of what they did; some slept quietly through the rest of their cure.

But they had this in common: each one woke without the least remaining craving for drugs. They came out of the sleep regenerated. When they leave the hospital, the old appetite will be gone and the new government law is expected to effect the rest of their cure.

They may have relapses and probably will, but the new law prohibits the sale of drugs, and the law is being enforced. There shall be no way of buying the old

THE PIGEON LADY

of Ansley Park, and the Pigeons at Forrest Adair's
Druid Hills Home

She was standing with her hands stretched out in a beckoning way. Her face was raised. And she was looking up.

It was as though she had beckoned to the white clouds, and a torn patch with dots and dashes of color was whirling softly down to drop at her feet. There was the sound of many wings, and a great fluttering and stirring of pigeons.

One rested on her shoulder, as though trained for picture postures. Another posed on the crown of her head, like the figure piece of a helmet. A third rested his little claw feet on her wrist and reached out for the grain of corn she held between her lips.

All about her the ground was a carpet of fluttering wings. It was like St. Mark's square in Venice, where the pigeons fly down from the tall roofs of the Doges palace to be fed.

Miss Helen Jones, of 128 Lafayette drive, Ansley Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Jones, was the pretty pigeon lady photographed at the home of Forrest Adair in Druid Hills.

The pigeons are Mr. Adair's prized "rollers," of which he has 225. For thirty years he has made a hobby of pigeons as pets. When he lived in West End he had a large covey. Now, at his home in Druid Hills he has a collection scarcely equaled elsewhere in the south.

They have been taught to come at his whistle or call. But they seemed unusually obedient to the "pigeon lady." At one instant she was photographed with them streaming toward her. Her hands were held out, and it seemed as though they were flying right into her arms. They had dropped from high in the air, and, as they swooped toward the little lady who stood calling them, they tumbled in the fashion that gives them the name of "rollers."

It was like an imaginative picture that an artist had done very daintily. But it was no prettier than when they swarmed all around, at her feet, on her shoulders, one perched on the crown of her head, and one carefully pecking the grain of corn from her lips.

But when she lay down on the grass and called to them and they swooped from the air, forming a coverlet of beating wings, hiding all but her face, it was as though an artist with imagination run riot, had drawn a picture of the "pigeon lady."

In fact, the accompanying photographs are the best in pose, made here of similar subjects.

The pigeons at Mr. Adair's home, like the cows and the horses, have been treated with a kindness that makes them afraid of no one. Even the gray squirrels there will come down from the trees to be fed by you. To bring the pigeons fluttering around, very much like a cloud from the skies, you just whistle, or call as you would chickens.

One died not long ago that had a band on its leg showing it had been one of Mr. Adair's flock since 1901. This pigeon taught a little lesson in the virtues.

"She was first mated with a white cock that one of my horses stepped on and killed," said Mr. Adair last week. "After about 30 days of widowhood I sent to Ohio and bought another white cock and mated him with her. The young of the pair were always pure white, with never any suspicious brown or black feathers showing in the little ones. Pigeons actually mate for life, and they select a home to which they are constant."

"Really it would not be a bad idea for all business people and particularly society people, to have a flock of pigeons associated with them pretty closely. They might be benefited by the pigeons' example."

If you are thinking of raising such pets you must give attention to details. Be sure they are provided with clean water, for pigeons must have their daily bath, winter and summer. They must be given clean, pure food and salt, which I usually furnish them mixed with a mud-hall, which they peck at.

"The man of the pigeon household is very domestic. He helps build the nest, and, when the eggs have been laid, he does his part of the sitting. The mother comes off the nest every morning about 9:30, and the husband takes her place and patiently sits until 4:30 in the afternoon. He is quite secure all this time in the thought that she is off looking for food, taking healthful exercise and bathing, and not attending tea-parties or indulging in unkind or scandalous gossip about her neighbors. He is equally certain she is not engaged in flirtations."

"Burns Twins" Are 77 Years Old

PITTSBORO, N. C.—Messrs. James and John Burns, of this county, are the oldest twins in this state, being over seventy-seven years old. They recently had their photographs taken together for the first time in their long lives. They were both Confederate soldiers, one serving in Company D, Thirty-fifth North Carolina regiment, and the other in Company G, Sixty-third regiment. They live within about a quarter of a mile of each other.

News from Geneva; Mr. Cota's Vault

THE health of this community is not very good.

Rev. C. N. Williams filled his appointment here Sunday.

Mr. Cota, of Montgomery, sent a brick-mason down to Lytle last week to build a vault to put two people in, himself and wife. The lid of the vault weighs 2,500 pounds.—Geneva (Ark.) Reap.

THESE photographs were made last week by a Journal photographer at the home of Forrest Adair, in Druid Hills.

The pretty "pigeon lady" you see is Miss Helen Jones, of 128 Lafayette drive, Ansley Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Jones. Mr. Adair has a covey of 250 "roller" pigeons, which accepted her at once as their mistress. They came at her call, hovered round her, settled at her feet, and one leaned out to peck from her lips a grain of corn. As she stood feeding them and they fluttered at her feet the picture suggested St. Mark's Square in Venice, where the pigeons fly down to be fed.

'SLEEPING OFF' THE DOPE HABIT

eight hour fast, and the racking effect of scopolamine; and, as he lay propped up in bed, his face was as white as the pillow, his eyes were very large and he was like nothing but a sick child.

We turned away softly and went out. It is a long walk up the hill to the separate hospital for women. There are not so many rooms there. The number of women is twelve. One so old and feeble she seemed scarcely able to talk, lay propped up. Another who occupied the room with her talked and talked.

We turned to the next room. The figure that sat on the bedstead seemed hardly more than a shadow. Within hand's reach was a crutch. The voice was faint like a whisper.

"I can't eat," she said. "But," with a brave strengthening of tone, "I shall be all right in a little while."

We turned finally to the room where the woman of seventy-five lay, her hair snowwhite, her face so kindly, so motherly, so tender, so foreign to all that is not good. There was a sort of holiness about her. We stood hat in hand, and we turned away softly. In the doorway we passed the eighteen-year-old girl with such a thin, childish face.

Bashful Suitor Is Bound With Ropes

WE do not make it a rule to tell jokes on anyone publicly, but here is one we just can't keep any longer. It seems that a certain young man wanted to go see his girl and being somewhat bashful, persuaded two more young men to go with him. When they arrived at their destination there was nobody at home. These two boys procured a rope and tied him hard and fast to a tree in the yard and left him, in which position he stayed until his girl returned. She promptly released him. We imagine he felt a great deal smaller than usual. By the way, we forgot to say that one of the young fellows was a preacher.—Lawrenceville (Ga.) Journal.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

SOME OF OUR BAD MANNERS.

WISH women and men could be induced to feel a little more personal responsibility for public good manners. This was brought home to me recently the other day when I got into a trolley car in my best frock. It was black and I was desirous to keep it fresh and spotless until I reached the house where I was to lunch with a friend. As I made my way down the aisle I managed to dodge successfully the crossed legs and protruding feet of several passengers, but as I dropped into the only vacant seat I was met with a most unpleasant surprise. A fine impression of it came off on my pet skirt and marked it with a stain which had to remain there until I could get hold of a dry brush and after that of a damp cloth.

If this happened only once in a while I could endure it with some degree of philosophy—perhaps. But it is a matter of daily experience and women are as much sinners as the men.

Possibly because I am not fond of sitting with my legs crossed I have less patience with the habit in others, but I do not believe until you have your attention called to it that you can have an idea of how common an occurrence it is. Look about you the next time you are in public conveyance and make a few observations.

There is the young man in the corner seat. He is wearing splendid socks and shiny pumps and probably wishes to call them to general attention. That may be the reason he has crossed his knees and is sitting with his feet sticking out half way across the aisle, so that it is impossible to pass him without coming in contact with his shoes, unless you are unkind enough to do as I do frequently—pause and say politely, "I beg pardon, but will you kindly let me pass?"

Does the same desire for exhibition move the girl a few seats farther down? She too has on silk stockings, elaborately clocked, and beautiful shoes. Her attitude reveals her hostility well up towards the knee. I am trying to accustom myself to the extremes and vagaries of dress of the present day, but I confess I am still sufficiently old fashioned to regret the display she makes.

Worse still is the show afforded by the stout matron further along, whose feet also trespass upon the aisle, and the older women who follow the example of the young but have no excuse in the way of radiant foot-gear. One and all, they seem to be considering their own comfort, but no thought of the inconvenience those who have to pass them in crisp light skirts that cannot escape soil by coming into touch with the dusty or muddy shoes.

This is one of the ways in which the public at large shows its lack of responsibility for general good manners. It is well enough to condemn them in mass, but when we recollect that the crowd is composed of just such individuals as you and I, does it not seem strange that no one is willing to regulate himself or herself for the sake of the others?

Perhaps because they are so much in the trolley cars they offer us more opportunities for criticism than anywhere else. Begin with where we get on. How often does a man stand aside to let a woman get on first? I hold in grateful memory a few who have done this and I always thank them for their courtesy, but I don't have to express my thanks often. Generally it is a case of first come, first served and every one for himself or herself and there is a scramble to climb in and secure a seat regardless of the comfort of those whom you push to one side in the operation.

Is it worth while to speak of those who have it in their minds to get on and who hold up all those behind while they count their money and select the coin to go into the box? The conductor generally leaves the sequence upon them and is so unpleasant in his orders to hurry ahead and not choke the gateway that you could find it in your heart to feel sorry for the victims, if it were not for your own sufferings.

Now you are in and looking for a seat. When the four last rows of seats are reserved for smokers, why will women persist in sitting in them? I have nothing to say about it if there are no other vacant places, but with empty benches a plenty, there are yet women who crowd into the smokers' seats and then complain because they object to the smell of tobacco!

Other culprits are those who sit in the end seats or in the middle of the bench thus preventing any one else getting a place alongside without asking for it. Sometimes this is done through carelessness, but I have had a savage glance leveled upon me in such circumstances that made me obliged to tell myself firmly that I had paid my fare and had a right to a seat before I could recover my self-respect.

Of course the men who let women stand while they themselves are comfortably seated are always with us and are as numerous as the women who take offered seats as a right and never utter a word of acknowledgment. Can't we cultivate a little sense of personal responsibility so far as these breaches of manners are concerned? Possibly I go too far when I suggest, even gently, that it is a decent thing to thank the motorman who opens the door to let you off the front of the car. Truth compels me to say that I have uttered such thanks but, dea of times and have only twice heard, "You're welcome." In response.

"Probably the man was too paralyzed by your thanks to be able to speak," suggested a friend to whom I mentioned this. There are other modes of showing bad manners on trolley cars, but they have received sufficient attention for the present, although I would like to ask why such behavior is practiced by those who in their own homes would shrink from anything remotely approximating such discourtesy? Why should we leave our good manners behind us when we get into a public conveyance?

It is not only that consideration of the rights of others is lacking. Have you ever noticed how the up and down streams of persons on a pavement collect in the middle of the street and then, as if by magic, they all turn to the right or left towards the right; one is always drifting or being jostled when a little thought would prevent the unpleasant collisions.

I am sure I have referred before to this difficulty one has in buying tickets, whether in a railroad station or at a box office, because the would-be purchasers will push in out of their turn. I grant it is hard to be patient and preserve your place in line when the person ahead of you is exasperatingly slow over selection or over gathering up change, but do we not owe something in the line of decent manners to our self-respect as well as to the comfort of our neighbors? Women are said to be worse offenders in this line than men, and perhaps they are. Certainly they are accused of it by men and I own to having been intensely irritated more times than I can count by the women who have pushed ahead of me and taken my place after I had patiently waited my turn in regular order. But truth compels me to say that I cannot hold even men free of blame in this respect. I have had them "butt in" in front of me, just as I have had them swing themselves on cars when I was next in place. I don't think either sex can be held to a strict standard either of good or of bad manners.

At this time of year the swinging door nuisance is mercifully abated and one opportunity for rudeness is temporarily checked. I should feel that my missionary work had not been in vain if next fall when the doors are once more in working order even a few persons here and there had taken my admonitions to heart sufficiently not to rush through the doors and leave them to fly back unchecked in the faces of those coming in next.

We have heard already a great deal of woman's inhumanity to woman and of her rudeness and lack of consideration for the girls behind the counter. I am willing to acknowledge that there is a great deal of sinning in this respect, which is not excused or condoned by the fact that the young women who wait on us frequently have shortcomings of their own in the way of curt and discourteous replies to customers. As a rule I think women are ready to report such failings to the nearest floorwalker or aisle man.

How many of us are as prompt to retaliate the consideration we have received from the saleswomen? How often do we step on our way from the counter where we have been graciously treated to speak of it to the man with whom a good word in the girl's favor may have some effect? Suppose we think it over and ponder whether this, too, may not come under the head of the public good manners we would like to see cultivated.

I am afraid that in many cases one tribulation leads to the failure to practice politeness in the home. We cannot expect to receive courtesy on the streets from those who have not seen civility enforced and heard it taught in the domestic circle. Certain card defects we may not find in our homes. We do not say, for instance, that the man who has genuine civility and politeness flirts through exasperation picked up that habit in their own homes. But we can be pretty sure that a woman who pushes her way ahead of the man into a car and lets her stand while he sits down does not know much of the courtesy to her mother and sisters, consideration to his mother and sisters, and wife and daughters, when in the seclusion of the family.

Does the same thing apply to woman? In a way, yes, and yet some of her faults in public are more likely to spring from thoughtlessness than from genuine rudeness. She does not think that although she sits with her knees crossed in her own room, where she may be in the way of others, she may be in the way of others if she practices the same attitude in a car. Her transgressions are not because she is deliberately choosing her own comfort when by so doing she deprives others of ease, but because she does not stop to reflect on what her own bad course may be an inconvenience to some one else.

Here is a chance for reform for ourselves and for a little stimulating missionary work with others. Suppose each one of us considers for a while what she does in public and in the home, and then in so far as it makes life or action less easy for some one else. It might be rather interesting to hear of the result from the course of action.

her rudeness and lack of consideration for the girls behind the counter. I am willing to acknowledge that there is a great deal of sinning in this respect, which is not excused or condoned by the fact that the young women who wait on us frequently have shortcomings of their own in the way of curt and discourteous replies to customers. As a rule I think women are ready to report such failings to the nearest floorwalker or aisle man.

How many of us are as prompt to retaliate the consideration we have received from the saleswomen? How often do we step on our way from the counter where we have been graciously treated to speak of it to the man with whom a good word in the girl's favor may have some effect? Suppose we think it over and ponder whether this, too, may not come under the head of the public good manners we would like to see cultivated.

MARION HARLAN'S HELPING HAND.

Wants an Old Piano.

"If somebody has an old piano which is not needed any more I would do any kind of white or colored embroidery, drawn work of coarse linen, or tapestry work in exchange for that lovely instrument. I have been trying in every way to get one, but my husband makes hardly enough to meet the expense of our three babies. They keep me at home all the time I would go out and earn the money to get a piano I am afraid that my hope will be a hope only, but who can tell? Here is something one may like to know: he has his finger wet, it put some red pepper dry mustard on it, and tie a piece of cloth around it for a case dear to me. I am awfully homesick, as I am constantly hearing of the deaths of various friends. I am 21 years old and an enthusiastic Britisher. I would be pleased to give cookery receipts that are economical, from a reliable English book, to any one who would like them, on receipt of a 2 cent stamp and a statement of the kind of dishes wanted."

Before I touch on the chief matter of this letter let me say that I have just received in response to the plea of the lonely mountain girl, I can hardly look for the simple beauty of the letter to "British," but I hope she may meet some one by letter or in person who will help to cheer her in her exile. It must be cruelly hard to be so far from home when these one's loves are struggling and fighting for a cause dear to them. I am awfully homesick, as I am constantly hearing of the deaths of various friends. I am 21 years old and an enthusiastic Britisher. I would be pleased to give cookery receipts that are economical, from a reliable English book, to any one who would like them, on receipt of a 2 cent stamp and a statement of the kind of dishes wanted."

Several times lately plans have been asked for, I must call a halt on the plea for piano for a while, and I hope no more appeals may be sent to me for one for some time to come. It is really a pretty large demand, although I hope that Mrs. A. M. may have her desire granted and that I may soon have a request for her address from some one who has an old piano to give away. As to the use of red pepper or mustard as a means of breaking a child of sucking her fingers, I must say that I don't altogether approve of it. I have known of children with whom it has been tried and who have rubbed their eyes with the hot finger. Why not try alum or quinine, which is bitter, but is not likely to injure the eye even should a little get into it?

Offers English Recipes.

"A while ago I noticed in your Corner a letter from a lonely mountain girl, and that led me to wonder if perhaps you could help me. I come from London, England, and have shares in Canada, which I cannot realize on; consequently, I cannot go home and help, as I should like to do. Could you put me in touch with some other English person, or a pen of English water, and steam until done. The water makes lovely gravy."

I am always glad to print recipes, especially when they supply some new method of cooking or a way of making something cheap taste better. Has any one tried cooking a tough fowl all night in a fireless cooker and then cutting it up, rolling it in crumbs, and trying as you would young chicken? The result is really astonishingly good, and since the method of cooking has kept in the favor of the meat it is difficult to detect the difference between this and the young chicken fried in the ordinary manner.

Appreciation and Desire to Help.

"I read the Helping Hand Corner regularly and enjoy it very much. I will try to help some one in distress or need, if it is ever within my reach to do so."

Appreciation and a desire to be of help are the spirit of the Corner and breathe in both of these notes.

Painted by Breton.

"I noticed the request for the name of the painter of 'The Song of the Lark.' Jules Adolphe Breton is the artist. He is a modern French painter, born at Courrières, Pas-de-Calais, France, in 1857, and died in 1900. His work is something like that of Millet and he has been called the lyric painter of the French peasantry. He is the simplest beauty of his native place and with the gleaners and other laborers as models he has painted with a purity and sincerity which give him a distinction all his own. The girl in the picture is undoubtedly French. H. B."

While I gave answers to this query in an earlier issue of the Corner, I print this letter today on the chance that the other notes may have escaped the attention of the querist.

Pair of Crutches.

"If Mrs. F. F. will send me my address I will send gladly a pair of crutches. Another response to an already granted request. Is there not someone who needs crutches and who will be glad to avail herself of this gracious offer? I will put the name of the correspondent on file."

Music for Violin.

"I would be so glad to get some music I could play on violin. Either regular violin music or some standard songs with music would be gratefully received. I can't play a note on violin, but I can read music, and I can learn if I have it. I will appreciate any music sent me that some one does not longer care for. L. C. B."

Not an exacting request, certainly, and one which I trust will be granted.

Designs for Quilt Blocks.

"Can you tell me of any designs for quilt blocks, using small pieces of silk and velvet? If so, I would be much pleased and grateful to receive them."

"M. M."

This is something I must refer to our quilt makers. I have no doubt they have the sort of patterns desired and I shall be glad to give any of them the address of M. M.

Cooking a Tough Fowl.

"I want to pass my way of cooking chickens when they are too old to fry nicely. I prepare for frying and roll in flour, fry brown quickly, place in a fireless cooker or a pan of boiling water, and steam until done. The water makes lovely gravy."

I am always glad to print recipes, especially when they supply some new method of cooking or a way of making something cheap taste better. Has any one tried cooking a tough fowl all night in a fireless cooker and then cutting it up, rolling it in crumbs, and trying as you would young chicken? The result is really astonishingly good, and since the method of cooking has kept in the favor of the meat it is difficult to detect the difference between this and the young chicken fried in the ordinary manner.

Buttermilk Cheese.

"Here is a response to the request of C. for buttermilk cheese: Heat buttermilk about 125 or 130 degrees Fahrenheit. Allow it to cool and then strain. The curds may be served seasoned with salt or may be mixed with cream and seasonings. I take this rule from farmer's bulletin No. 487. Cheese and Its Economy in the Diet. A postal card sent to the secretary of agriculture asking for a bulletin by number will bring it, and if C. sends for it she may find other useful suggestions. A little practice will enable one to guess at the proper temperature for the buttermilk."

Although other recipes have already been given for making cheese from buttermilk, I am glad to give this not only because of its simplicity and the fact that it may meet the eye of some one to whom the directions will be of aid but also on account of the suggestions contained in the letter relative to the bulletin issued by the department of agriculture. Until we have looked into the matter we have no idea how much our own government does in the line of free education or of the manuals we can procure for a simple application. Names of Lonely Heroes in the Trenches Are Cabled to Dr. F. E. May, French Consul, Who Wants a Foster-Sister for Each One. Counts, Artists, and Millionaires May Be on the List.

"MOST Divine Benefactors: Accept the million thanks of a poor count who is the grand nephew of Napoleon Bonaparte. Accept, also, a set of white furs my aide is ordering mailed to you from Paris. Your letter was adorable. I am merely a major general of the French cuirassiers, but I lay my heart at your feet. It is wretchedly lonesome in the trenches. Your letter was like summer sunshine. May I cable occasionally?"

Such letters are for the 200 "war sisters" Dr. F. E. May, French consul, is organizing here. Earning glory and legions of honor in the trenches, writing derisive verse tucked inside of shells and thrown at the Germans, is many a lonely hero.

You may have an art for a brother—a count, an artist, a poet.

Many are noble by title and by accomplishment. Loneliness is not confined to Jacques, once the plodding keeper of a vineyard in south France. Henri, the studious fellow, who had no time to spare from art for idle moments at the little street tables in Paris, is lonely.

Renaud the gay fellow, all of whose fine friends of the Parisian haunts are gone now—one way or another, the men killed, the women nursing in the hospitals—Renaud is lonely.

In the trenches facing death daily, never a mail bringing letters which are rifts in the tragic clouds of the battlefields, are hundreds, who are lonely.

Paris began the association of "war sisters" who shall write these lonely ones of the army, sending words of comfort and little necessities, (cigarettes and socks) that are luxuries in the trenches.

Dr. May, French consul, caused the "sisters" to include Atlanta. He cabled week before last for 200 names of lonely heroes. A foster sister will be found here for each.

You go up and pick out whatever hero—Jacques or Henri or Renaud—you like best, and take him for your foster brother. It will be your duty to write him sisterly letters, and send him cigarettes, and counsel him not to smoke too much, and whatever he does not get in the way of German shells.

The unknown hero whom you've never seen and never will (unless he sends you a photograph of himself in brave uniform and many medals, as he probably will) is to be your foster brother till the war's done. If you like him you can keep him for a brother afterward.

It will be exciting. "Here," says Dr. May, "is a grab-bag of heroes. There may be counts and grand nephews of Napoleon and poets and painters and artists. Who knows. Come, pick whom you may and call him brother."

It is quite the most romantic incident of a twelfth month. "Who knows," says the consul, "you both may write letters as famous as the love notes of Abelard and Heloise."

Who knows? But here a doubt enters your mind. You frown a bit.

"But, I can't write French," you protest. "And my Henri or my Renaud or my Jacques would know nothing of English."

A mere trifle, my dear. Be sure the French trenches have interpreters of English. And can't Atlanta furnish as much? French is not an unknown tongue here.

And think of the white furs from Paris. They would need no translation. And the cable messages.

The bell rings, a messenger boy is at the door. It seems at first a mere telegram. No! It is a cable from "somewhere in France," which means from the trenches, and it says:

"Why haven't you written? No letter for a week. Did you like the books, the candy, and the new hat from Potres?"

Those who lament the absence today of romance, have now the reason to change from lugubriousness to animation. It is a pleasant situation.

Think. At the moment the list of 200 lonely heroes is being prepared. A sergeant in red pants and the legion of honor, probably is saying:

"Everybody in this trench who's lonely and wants a sister in Atlanta, Ga., hold up his right hand."

And Henri and Renaud and Jacques and a dozen others extend their right arms into the air and wave their hands just as the children of a schoolroom do when the teacher asks: "Now, who wants to read from our new reader for the visitor?"

Perhaps it is even true the list of 200 has been completed and is on its way to Dr. May. It may be a question merely of hours before the list arrives and one may select one's brother. Aren't you excited?

There is also something more than romance in this opportunity of the "war sisters." Among the 200 are some who need all sympathy and help—poor fellows and knitted counters to any one of cord of encouragement, to send little things that make trench life bearable.

The means of worthy charity need is offered here! It is the chance to help men, many of whom are about to die. Winter is coming on now. If you will send thick socks and knitted counters to any one of the list of 200 it will be a great kindness.

Dr. F. E. May, Grand building, will soon have the names.

WHY ATLANTA IS GETTING TO BE A TOWN OF BACHELORS

By Jane Dixon.

IN a few years Atlanta is going to be a bachelor's town. Half the young men here, I believe, have the "single idea." Have you listened recently to one of them between twenty and twenty-five?

You ought to. It's startling. I have in mind one whose easy coyness is characteristic of the Atlanta young man. He isn't ill-bred. He's a Shawesque. He reminds me of a charmingly impertinent young fellow in "Mrs. Warren's Profession." I know that's a naughty play but the two are so alike.

This modern young man, made according to the Shaw recipe, lighted a cigarette and inhaled it lazily. All he does is done lazily and well. He exasperates you by his ease.

"How much," he asked, "do you think the Atlanta girl, taken all in all, is worth?"

That was unusual, even for him. "Worth how?" I demanded.

"Suppose she could be assessed a value as a proposition are?" (Blowing a smoke ring gracefully toward the ceiling.) "What would you say?"

"I would say," I answered crisply, "that affection and devotion are terms to associate with women (though I blushed a little as I said it) and not property values."

"Right you are." He even forgot his cigarette in his enthusiasm. "There's nothing I'd like better than being devoted. Every other Atlanta man is the same way. We want to be romantic. We'd like to strum mandolins on moonlight nights beneath the windows of our chosen loves."

"Better send candy," I advised.

"That's it." He snatched it out as though I had granted him a point, though I hadn't meant to. "Don't offer romance, lay at your fair one's feet a comfortable salary. Agree with the lady she has a high monetary valuation."

Sometimes cynicism is almost stupid. I couldn't help answering.

"Bosh," he said. "Everytime the unpleasant truth is uttered, someone begins to call it paradox or cynicism. It isn't Atlanta men who're quite thinking in terms of devotion, it's Atlanta women. They are the ones who have taken to themselves the cottage of dollars and cents. Ever hear several of them discuss matrimony? One says: 'I could be happy on $50 a week.' Another adds: 'I think I could be happier on $60.' And a third continues: 'Well, I think at least he should have an automobile.' That's why I asked what you think the real valuation of the Atlanta girl is? What do you think?"

I didn't know for the moment what to think. He asks such pointed questions and when you start to reply in terms of cant and exaggeration, there's such a disturbing twinkle in his eyes.

"Don't you think honestly," he asked, "that $25 a week would be a right high valuation? Take into consideration character, affection, industry and any other qualities the young lady may happen to possess, place them at their real worth, and isn't the sum I've mentioned enough?"

He blew another smoke ring toward the ceiling.

When a girl here says she must have $2,000 a year, what does she imagine she's going to give in return? A married man once was the economic sinner. He got a housewife. Now he gets a luxury. The economical side of marriage has been harped on so in Atlanta that men are beginning to wonder if the price isn't too high. Many conscientious men are not marrying. And why the deuce should they?

"We aren't the ones that began to set the marriage price. We didn't drag in this 'valuation idea.'"

He stood up and stretched his arms lazily.

"In fact, we're not to blame at all. We offered devotion and our answer was: 'Have you an automobile?'"

Father of Twins

Is 70 Years Old

LAUREL, Miss—County Treasurer David Blue, of Sandersville, who recently celebrated his seventieth birthday, is the father of twins, according to a report which reached the city Saturday.

Mr. Blue is a candidate for reelection in today's primary, having received a handsome lead over seven opponents in the first primary held on August 3.

A Book You'd Like

THE most popular book in Atlanta is "K," by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Book stores report that next in popularity are: "Thirty," by Howard Vincent O'Brien; "Michael O'Halloran," by Jean Stratton Porter; "The Rainbow," by D. H. Lawrence; and "The Street," by Zane Grey, and war articles.

"K" is the most "human" book published in recent years. The interesting plot is the least part of it. It introduces fifty characters associated with "The Street," each with the quality of humanness.

The story is of K. Le Moyne, once a famous surgeon, who quit his profession and dropped out of sight following the serious failure of an operation. He gets a job with a gas company and goes to live on "The Street," as a boarder in Sidney's home. On "The Street" live Max Wilson and the older Dr. Wilson Jimmie Rosenfeld and Old Man Rosenfeld, and Sidney's aunt, who as-tounds "The Street" by setting up as a modiste and going to Paris for new fashions, and dozens of others.

"K" resolves to shut himself from the world, but the kindly friendliness of "The Street" breaks down all barriers. The associations grow stronger. There are many complications. Sidney falls in love with Max Wilson, the brilliant, but not scrupulous, young physician across the street. Max goes to a road house with Charlotte Harrison, who has the villainous part. He is shot by Joe Drummond, a jealous boy; and it is found that the famous Edwards operation is all that can save him. "K," in performing it reveals his identity as the famous physician who had disappeared several years before. He marries Sidney.

And now he has degrees in the three greatest studies in the world, theology, law, and medicine, and largely because study is his pastime.

Tuesday—Played a most indifferent game of golf, and concluded woman is not the only fickle thing in the world. A mable is equally capricious. And at the ninth hole, three ministers of the Gospel, two Baptist and one Episcopalian, teed off ahead. The last, who was middle-aged and of goodish size and of firm Baptist belief, drove fully fifteen yards.

"Quite off," I said neither side now in better than 45."

And I concluded golf will make liars even of the ministry.

Wednesday—Heard today of an Atlanta man with perfect eyes, and find it is quite true. His name is W. S. Richardson of the Western & Atlantic railroad, and he is a Scotchman by birth and re-members the time in the old country where Queen Victoria often came. And he quite well remembers the occasions on which he saw her.

As a boy he was injured, and on examination doctors had occasion to test his eyes and found to his amazement they were less than perfect. He can see with the naked eye objects you need a glass to discern, and many times within the circumference of a dime he can write the Lord's prayer and do such feats. The figures he makes are so perfect railroad officers to whom he formerly made report, thought they were done by typewriter.

Heard also an interesting story of the son of Dr. George Brown, a lad now in the navy. Such is the quirk of his eye he sees two directions at once. It is easy for him to take two pens and write his name twice at the same time, one name being written toward the right and other toward the left.

Thursday—My informant, who was a lady, said:

"If you want to know an Atlanta woman's age, look at her hair. If she has a youthful coiffure, you may know she's past thirty and is afraid she's getting old. Paint and powder aren't used here any more as disguises. Instead, the hair is pulled and curled or drawn tight, as the case may be, to hide Father Time's advance."

I saw one yesterday with the front part of her hair hauled back so tight it couldn't have been slicker if it had been pulled with cable cord. It gave her a "slim princess" look.

"In front of me on the same car," went on my informant, "were two girls. One turned to the other and asked:

"Yes, said the other.

"And the first smiled in perfect satisfaction. The chief thing about the costume now is to have your ears covered and your skirt short."

Friday—"The Psychology of the Voice," was a phrase read somewhere and so I wondered if it had any meaning, and then to Evelyn Harris of the telephone company to ask an interview on voices, and with him to the telephone room where the operatives sit at long boards, receivers to their ears. And he chose one and we'll call her Miss 197, and this is what she said:

"I try to have a sunshine voice. The gruffer people are to me the more cheery I try to be to them. And I've no notion what a change it brings. A few sunshine rays seem to seep into them. Their voices soften, and I think they feel a bit ashamed at their abruptness. O, there is such a thing as sunny voices!"

And I thought perhaps really in every-day affairs the psychology of the voice could be tried.

Saturday—Heard today a most unusual scheme proposed to the city of Atlanta that we take San Antonio, Tex., for example, in establishing a municipal bat roost for prevention of mosquitoes.

"There are no bats in the belly of the man who invented the bat roost," writes the city's correspondent. "Bats are man's best friends, scientists have discovered. Bats eat mosquitoes, and if mosquitoes are not destroyed they carry disease and cause epidemics, especially malarial epidemics. Therefore in a malarial country bats are better than doctors—they prevent what the doctor cannot always cure."

In San Antonio a mighty befall, or batroost has been built for the bats. It will accommodate 250,000 of the blind night rovers. It is estimated that one bat will devour 250 mosquitoes in a night which means that a mobilization of bats would greatly decrease the mosquito population."

WHAT I THINK

Few women here walk right. I don't, however, mean to make a difference between the women of Atlanta and of other cities.

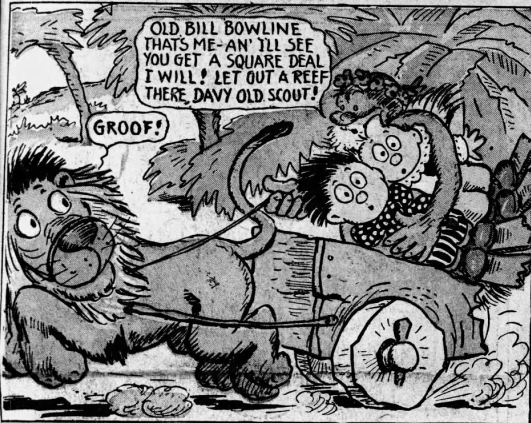

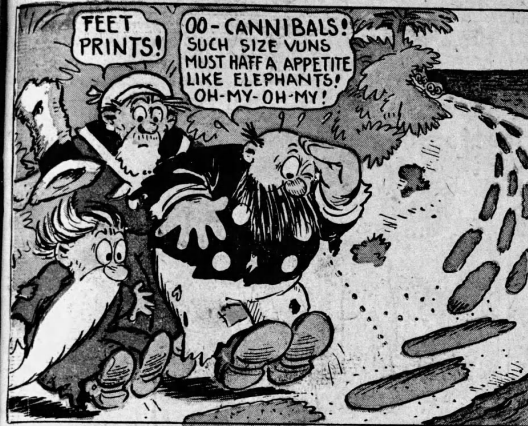

"Walking is simply an art that not one in a hundred understands. People have lived in houses and offices and ridden in conveyances instead of walking, for so long a time, they have forgotten how to use their hands or their feet."

"Even beautiful women," continued Mrs. William Claar Spiker, of 33 East Fourth street, " seldom have hands and feet that are beautiful."
